

12th Rezoning Is Delayed, Bus Franchise Tax Sliced

By HUGH REYNOLDS

The city council voted not to act on a proposal to rezone land in the 12th Ward to permit a $1,500,000 garden apartment project at the monthly meeting of the Common Council in City Hall Tuesday night.

Upwards of 75 persons from the 12th Ward were at the council meeting, presumably to protest the rezoning proposal which would have allowed, if passed, multiple housing in their ward.

Wants More Time

Alderman John Machione (R-12th Ward) said the rezoning was being rushed through the council and wanted more time to query his constituents on the proposal.

The contractor is Louis J. Hess Inc. of New Jersey who was represented at the council meeting by City Judge Hubert H. Richter.

Judge Richter told the councilmen and those assembled that there had been a lot of misunderstandings about just what the project entailed.

He said that it would be garden-type apartments, two stories in height, not high-rise apartments.

There would be 152 units, 104 one-bedroom units, and 48 two-bedroom units. The minimal rent would be $135 per month, ruling out the rumor of low-rent public housing in the Merritt Avenue, Fairview Avenue area.

Sees Good City 'Take'

Richter also brought out the fact that the land his client wants to build on is presently assessed as farm land and brings the city a total of $300 in taxes per year. He said if the apartments are built the city could realize as much as $25,000 in assessments.

Richter argued Machione's allegation that the project was being "jammed down the council's throat" stating that it had been introduced June 6 and a public hearing was held June 24 on the proposal. Richter said Machione was at the public meeting and voiced little opposition at the time.

Seeks Meeting

The alderman told The Freeman this morning he will contact City Clerk Thomas R. Lyle and set up a meeting, hopefully next week, at the new Edison School.

Machione wants all the principals at the meeting, Aaron E. Klein, city corporation counsel; George Radcliff, city building inspector, Matthew Richardson, city assessor; members of the Common Council, Richter, and officials of the Hess Company.

Action must be taken this month as the original petition, which was submitted on June 1, must be acted on within 90 days. Thus, Council President Francis R. Koenig, alderman-at-large, recessed last night's meeting subject to call of the chair, instead of adjourning it.

Other Action

In other action the council gave unanimous approval to a request by the Kingston Urban Renewal Agency to buy certain city streets Downtown for the sum of $1 each. The streets will be condemned. They include Newkirk Avenue, Chambers, St. Mary's, Water, Murray, Ann and East Pierpoint Streets.

The councilmen also unanimously approved two budget notes for a total of $55,500 to cover expenditures for snow removal and hospitalization for city employees. The snow removal note was for $43,000 and the hospitalization note was for $12,500.

Approval was given for the setting up of a three-man city employee Kingston Public Relations Board. Employees would submit grievances to the board which would be relayed to city officials. The board will begin its duties Sept. 1.

A motion to reduce the franchise tax on the city's only bus line, The Urban Transit Corp., from $1,500 to $750 per year, was passed. The resolution noted that the bus company had been losing money for several years and asked the city's help by reducing the tax. The new rate is effective Sept. 1.

Main opposition came from Alderman Clifford Sinsabaugh (D-Fifth Ward) who said the buses weren't running in his ward any more. Alderman Raymond Armater (R-11th Ward) also voted against the measure which passed, 11-2.

Alderman Emilio A. Primo Jr. (D-Fourth Ward) asked for a public hearing on the proposed arterial highway from Hooker Street to Rt. 32 with the State Highway Department. A public hearing had been held in January but Primo maintains the residents on the right-of-way had been misinformed.

KHA: Mayor Wrong On Morals Screen

The executive director of the Kingston Housing Authority today called Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan's statement yesterday that the Authority was dropping "moral screenings" of applicants "a misinterpretation" by the mayor.

The mayor said yesterday that he had received a letter from Alexander Yosman, executive director of KHA, stating that all families in the UR area would now be considered eligible for public housing on an income-only basis.

The mayor was quoted as saying that the authority's

"new" ruling was "a tremendous boost to our relocation problems."

Established Standards

In a statement to The Freeman this morning the authority said, "With regard to application for admittance to Roundout Gardens already received, and referred to in the correspondence, the Kingston Housing Authority at this time can only pass on qualifications based on income. Before final approval will be given, established standards must be met by the applicant and investigation made of the composition of the family."

The letter continues, "The Kingston Housing Authority is fully aware of the mayor's concern in this matter and is reviewing the standards for admission and assures all concerned that they will be as liberal as possible without jeopardizing the health, safety or morals of the other tenants or the community."

Yosman said he is well within his rights as the executive director of KHA to screen applicants. The applications are then acted on by the authority. It was the extent of this screening that many Downtown residents disagreed with. They charged that with the present policies of KHA, most of the residents now in Broadway East could never get into Roundout Gardens.

Relocation, or rather the lack of its effective implementation, was the main criticism by Department of Housing and Urban Development in New York City.

The mayor, apparently well aware of that fact, met with the Kingston Urban Renewal officials and Housing Authority heads, to try to work out the relocation problem. He did get the services of Joseph White, a social worker with KURA to aid him in compiling a DHUD-ordered relocation list.

Mayor Away

The authority complied in that it agreed to review its policies and make them as liberal as possible without jeopardizing the tenants in the authority.

It was not known if the mayor told DHUD officials in New York at his meeting Monday with them, whether the authority had dropped the moral screenings. Efforts to contact DHUD officials this morning by The Freeman were in vain.

The mayor was also unavailable for comment on his statement yesterday. He is reportedly in Massachusetts.

Milwaukee Snipers Active

Providence Gangs Battle Authorities

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Sniper fire ripped the riot controlling curfew in Milwaukee, Wis., early today while in Providence, R.I., police engaged roving bands of young Negroes in running gunbattles.

The violence that struck again in those two cities stood out in the general calm that prevailed over most of the nation's cities. Washington was quiet after Tuesday's disturbances.

In Providence the sniping prompted the call for 100 state police officers and a brief alert of the National Guard. The situation in the predominantly Negro South Providence section was brought under control about 2 a.m.

57 Arrested

Police said 57 persons—most of them white youths who tried to enter the area of the disturbance—were picked up. Two young Negroes were shot, one seriously.

In Milwaukee sporadic sniper fire swept across a Negro neighborhood for about three hours before National Guardsmen and police were able to control the shooting.

"This is the one thing that damn curfew can't stop," hissed one harassed guardman as he crouched behind a wall trying to locate a hidden sniper. There were no reports of serious injury.

President Johnson's Advisory Commission on Civil Disorders heard FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover advise "there is no intel-

On Long Island

In other overnight action police put down a rock-throwing, firebombing disturbance in the predominantly Negro Long Island community of Wyandanch, N.Y. Police said about 100 teen-agers were involved.

Chicago police arrested 17 persons Tuesday night in a South Side neighborhood where a crowd had gathered outside a liquor store. The white owner of the store had earlier been charged with murder in the fatal shooting of a Negro.

Many Bargains Offered During Sales Event

The ever-popular August Sales Days staged by area merchants will begin Thursday, Aug. 3, continuing through Saturday, Aug. 5.

The late summer event has always attracted large crowds of shoppers, including local residents as well as tourists visiting the area during the summer months.

Stores in Kingston and surrounding areas are among the many advertisers participating in the big three-day sale of bargains for the shoppers.

Today's issue of The Freeman carries many advertisements offering attractive buys of quality merchandise which will be available during this three-day event.

Store hours and other information regarding the August Sales Day promotion are printed in the advertisements.

Seek Commissioners' Meeting

Water Problem at Zena School

By WALTER S. CLARK JR.

Possibility that the new Zena School, plans for which are being prepared by an architect, might not have an operating sprinkler system loomed Tuesday night when the Board of Education of the Kingston Consolidated District authorized the preparations of plans and specifications for a private well on the school site.

Arthur Withall, board president, reported that he was informed yesterday afternoon that the Board of Water Commissioners of Kingston had turned down a request to allow the tapping of a water main on the Zena school property to provide water for the new school.

Cautions About Costs

It was explained that the Kingston water system runs across part of the school site, but for some time it has been the policy of the Board of Water Commissioners not to supply water to areas outside the city limits. The Zena site is in the Town of Woodstock.

School district officials have been in communication with the water system authorities for several months seeking permission to tap the water main.

Withall cautioned that if a private well must be constructed, the costs will result in a double burden on the taxpayers and he predicted the cost of the well would equal that of the new school.

Ellsworth L. Johnson, board member, proposed as an alternative plan, if the water commissioners stand firm on their decision not to permit tapping of the water main, that a request be made to tap the main only for the purpose of providing water to pressurize the sprinkler system in the school.

In hopes of persuading the Board of Water Commissioners to approve the request to tap the main, the school board voted to ask the commissioners to meet in joint session in the near future to again discuss the source of water supply.

It was noted during discussion last night that school district trustees had proceeded with plans for the school hoping that the water board would permit tapping of the main.

Permission must be obtained from the Kingston Water Board before anything can be done about solving the water source situation, according to the State Water Commission.

Meanwhile, the school district architect will continue on the two-fold job of preparing plans and specifications for the private well and plans for the new school.

In other business last night, Harold E. Keator Jr., offered a resolution calling upon Dr. W. Wendell Hoover, school superintendent to prepare a report for the November meeting, analyzing the reasons why the Kingston High School math results were below the state average, and to suggest what action could be taken to bring the regents up to state level. The resolution was unanimously approved.

Work Progressing

Hubert Hoderath, vice-president of the board, reported work on the new M. Clifford Miller school is progressing 98 per cent on schedule. He noted, however, that springs on the school site are developing to such an extent that it will be necessary to provide additional drainage facilities to correct the condition.

On recommendation of Trustee Hoderath, the board approved final plans and specifications for the remodeling of the Vocational Building and authorized the board president to sign the plans so they may be forwarded to the State Education Department for final approval.

Fourth Avenue Creatures

Copperheads in the Rubble

By CHARLES BERMPHOIL

The copperhead, according to Webster, is "a pit viper, widely distributed in upland areas of the eastern United States." It "attains a length of three feet, is coppery brown above with dark transverse blotches that leave it inconspicuous among fallen leaves and is usually regarded as much less dangerous than a rattler of comparable size."

Much less dangerous or not, the residents of Fourth Avenue, between Kingston and Ulster Streets, may have to get used to them because Urban Renewal debris has made the area a perfect place for them to nest. Along with the copperheads there are rats, cockroaches, and ants an inch long—creatures that weren't there three months ago. But when John Cecelia entered into an agreement with Maurice Simms of the William M. Young Co. Inc. for the purpose of dumping some demolished Kingston buildings on his property, in hopes of clearing up some marshy spots on the land, neither he nor his neighbors knew what they were letting themselves in for.

Garden of Horrors

On June 29, The Freeman ran a story on the area, with a photograph showing some of the city's remains scattered throughout the neighborhood. Residents then claimed that Simms had told them that he would mash up the debris "like cabbage" and prepare it for the fill that was to follow.

When Simms and-or the Young Co., demolition contractor for Kingston Urban Renewal Agency, failed to live up to what was a verbal agreement, according to Fourth Avenue residents, Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick (D-Ellen-ville) was contacted, along with Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan and other city officials and what with the publicity given to the plight of Fourth Avenue residents the case became a bit of a cause celebre.

What all this added up to, as far as Fourth Avenueites are concerned, was exactly nothing.

The place looks exactly the same: broken glass, sections of pipe, huge chunks of rock, thousands of bricks, shattered shafts of wood, a mattress crawling with interesting variations of insects, and, slithering between the glass, pipe, rock, brick, wood and mattress ticking, — copperheads and rats.

It was Vernon Lewis, at 312 4th Avenue, who killed two of the snakes, one of them being a female big with child.

John Cecelia said, "I knew they were copperheads. I was brought up in snake country," and he went on to describe what Webster defined years before.

One resident complained that when the Mayor came down to inspect the area, he said that what was needed was for the neighborhood children to get rakes and start clearing operations, a solution that most of the area people found unlikely, at best.

Mrs. Ronald P. Kahlstorf, of 332 Fourth Avenue said, "You usually look up to a Mayor," but she found it difficult to look up to Garraghan.

"This used to be a nice section," she said, adding that it would be difficult for most people in the neighborhood to simply move.

Mortgage Problems

"We don't have the money he (the Mayor) has."

It was also mentioned that taxes were high in the area and that, because of the situation that now exists "taxes should go down to zero."

One Fourth Avenue woman claimed that the house at 17 Kingston Street is for sale but that the rubble proved a little rough on the nerves of bank officials who had to outline a mortgage for the property. As a result, no reasonable mortgage agreement has yet been settled upon and the house may be up for sale for some time.

Mrs. Cecelia remembers the time a large truck pulled up to her property with a gigantic load of junk. The operator frowned when he was informed that what he thought was the dump was, rather, a residential area.

PERFECT FOR NESTING—That is, for copperheads, rats, cockroaches and inch-long ants. That's the way residents of Fourth Avenue, between Kingston and Ulster Streets, describe the effects of Urban Renewal debris. (Freeman photo by Wagenfohr.)

Three-Day August Sale in Area Begins on Thursday

Taped Message From Viet: Thanks for Gifts, Freeman

"Deep down in my heart it is a joy to know the people back home have not forgotten us. You can really appreciate this when you get into an area where there are no American people around you and you are dealing with foreign people you don't know."

This was an excerpt from a taped message from Vietnam to the residents of Ulster County from Sgt. 1/C James D. Ward of Saugerties, one of 169 county men serving in Vietnam, after he received the Kingston Daily Freeman and a gift package from the Ulster County Vietnam Servicemen's Committee of Ulster Hose Co. 5.

Sent Daily
The Freeman is sent daily to those men — most of them youths and all residents of this county, through the courtesy of the Ulster Committee. Those in Vietnam keep up with the happenings daily in their home communities through the local newspaper.

The Ulster Vietnam Committee through the generosity of the public already has sent 1,039 packages to the servicemen, and each receives the Freeman subscriptions.

"A great big, big hello to all of the folks and people in Kingston and the surrounding area," were the opening words of Ward's tape message. His wife and family live in Saugerties. "Thanks for the wonderful daily newspaper I have received the past several days," Ward continued.

"No Boys in Viet"
Ward said he received a package from the UCVC with fruit and nuts, cans of fruit juice and pineapple "which I love very much and some other things and I just feel a little heavy hearted." He extended thanks to folks back home "from all the boys over here," and he added "I should say men as there really aren't any boys in Vietnam — if they were young lads and boys when they left, I'm right sure when they set foot in Vietnam they became men."

"You know it is really a wonderful feeling for us GI's over here to know that our friends and folks back home are still thinking about us," Ward said. "It gets to be aggravating at times but just to think that people back home are still thinking of us and go through so much trouble to fix packages like I received — I believe I can speak for all other GI's that are in Vietnam from your area — thank you from the bottom of our hearts."

The tape continued, "when you get something from home, a newspaper or package, you never know how really happy it makes us."
Ward said he has been in the Army several years, but hadn't spent much time around the Kingston area. "I am just an old country boy," Ward said, "and I am over here for one reason — I was called. The second reason, because I am in the service and doing my best to do a job that has to be done and definitely. When I go to bed each night I pray to God that one day this thing will be over x x x so that my daughters and son and my son-in-law x x x won't have to be here to fight for freedom as we are here doing."

Ward said he is looking forward to the end of the Vietnam conflict — soon so the servicemen can return to their loved ones, friends and neighbors. "I honestly can say that I cannot think of a better place to return to than Kingston or surrounding area."

Area Wonderful Place
"It is a beautiful place and a wonderful place to make a home for sure," Ward said, "with the people, with their attitude and their friendliness, all doggone good people."

The sergeant noted that as a serviceman he didn't get to stay in one place long, but he has met "some mighty wonderful people all over the world, but I haven't met any nicer people than the people I met and made friends with around Kingston and surrounding area."

"I would like to say thanks a thousand times to every person involved (in the project of sending The Freeman and packages) and every person in the Kingston area for thinking of us GI's over here," Ward said in the taped message. "I am so very sure that many GI's of Kingston area over here were born and raised with their families. They and their relatives and wives and children can appreciate this much more than I, because I wasn't there very long, but these GI's who were born and raised there and have continued to live there actually have such a more deep feeling than I do but it would have to be very deep to be more than my feeling."

Ward's message continued, "I hope for everyone that one day soon we can be back home with our friends and neighbors, and everything is squared away, and as we say in the Army 'all squared away in tip-top shape and no problems.' But it is going to take a little time, although I guess it is not something you can stop in one day."

Lives, Works With Viet
Commenting that he is in Vietnam in "a peculiar situation," Ward said, "I am here as an American advisor to the dog training school." He said he is the only American stationed at the location where he made the tape, and lives with Vietnamese people and works with them.

"It is only about twice a month or maybe once a month," said Ward, "that I get to be with my fellow GI's to say hello and talk with them. You can certainly believe that when I say that being stationed here and not being around any Americans or seeing them very often, it is certainly a great pleasure to receive from home a package or a daily newspaper."

The sergeant's tape concluded, "It means an awful, wonderful lot. I stay busy for the most part and deep down in my heart it is a joy to know the people back home have not forgotten us and you can really appreciate this when you get in an area where there are no American people around you and you are dealing with foreign people you don't know."

County Pageant Orientation

A second orientation session for prospective contestants in this year's Miss Ulster County Pageant will be held with the pageant committee Tuesday, Aug. 8 at First National Bank, Main Street, New Paltz at 7 p.m.

Chamber Plans Directory of Clubs, Groups

In response to many requests, the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce plans a publication, in the near future, of a directory of clubs and organizations located in the Kingston area.

It has been noted that in the past the Chamber has received frequent inquiries regarding the various organized groups within the area. To date, no central source of information regarding these groups and their leaders has been available.

The Chamber is currently seeking to compile an up-to-date list, prior to their publication date, of Aug. 20. They are seeking the following information for each group of organizations in the area: Name of organization, Name of principle officers, Permanent mailing address and or telephone number (if any), Location of permanent headquarters (if any), Regular meeting date and place (if any), and any other information that the organization feels would be of interest to the general public. The information may be provided by mailing a letter or postcard to the Chamber Office at 17 Albany Avenue.

Louis Adamic was an American author who wrote about immigrants in the U. S.

Miss Ulster County will be held Sept. 16 at Saugerties High School auditorium, according to Herbert G. Lachmann, executive director.

All prospective contestants, who have not attended the first session, whether nominated or not may attend and nominations will be accepted at the meeting. Parents of interested contestants are also invited to attend.

The new Miss Ulster County will receive a scholarship, the amount to be announced, to a college of her choice, and also qualifies her for participation in the Miss New York State Pageant, a preliminary to the Miss America Pageant at Atlantic City, N. J.

Contestants must be between 17 and 27, a high school senior by Sept. 1, and never have been married. She must be a county resident or attend an accredited college in Ulster County.

All inquiries or entry blanks — official blanks are not necessary — may be sent to Miss Ulster County Pageant, P. O. Box 247, Saugerties, 12477 or Mrs. Louise Tamburello, Route 208, New Paltz.

Miss Ulster County will be held Sept. 16 at Saugerties High School auditorium, according to Herbert G. Lachmann, executive director.

All prospective contestants, who have not attended the first session, whether nominated or not may attend and nominations will be accepted at the meeting. Parents of interested contestants are also invited to attend.

The new Miss Ulster County will receive a scholarship, the amount to be announced, to a college of her choice, and also qualifies her for participation in the Miss New York State Pageant, a preliminary to the Miss America Pageant at Atlantic City, N. J.

Contestants must be between 17 and 27, a high school senior by Sept. 1, and never have been married. She must be a county resident or attend an accredited college in Ulster County.

All inquiries or entry blanks — official blanks are not necessary — may be sent to Miss Ulster County Pageant, P. O. Box 247, Saugerties, 12477 or Mrs. Louise Tamburello, Route 208, New Paltz.

Antiriot Laws

Seen No Deterrent

By WALTER R. MEARS
WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic Sen. Philip A. Hart of Michigan says only a man "just landed from the moon" could believe a federal antiriot law would have prevented the violence that racked Detroit. His Republican colleague, Sen. Robert P. Griffin, said there is no evidence such a law would have averted riot in Detroit—but added he would vote for the measure because "it may prove of some value." "I'm not too enthusiastic about it," said Gov. Richard J. Hughes of New Jersey, a Democrat. Hughes said he does not know whether the measure would have had an impact on disorders that hit Newark and nearby New Jersey communities.

Hearings Today

The governor and the senators spoke in interviews prior to Senate Judiciary Committee hearings opening today on a House-approved bill which would make it a federal crime to cross a state line with intent to incite riot.

Hart said Michigan has an antiriot law and so do all the other states.

"If anybody thinks that Detroit wouldn't have happened if we had had an antiriot bill, he just landed from the moon," the senator said.

Hughes said: "I hope that the backlash from these riots does not lead the country to make the mistake of turning against the poverty program, the demonstration cities program, rent supplements and other things."

At the top of his priority list, Hughes said, is a strict federal gun control law. That mission took him to a Senate Judiciary subcommittee Tuesday to declare: "Whatever we have to do, we must do. The country is in trouble."

Hughes said riots and sniping—some by experts who may have been trained—underscore the need for a federal law to control the sale and shipment of firearms. As the Judiciary Committee opened its antiriot hearings, President Johnson's Advisory Commission on Civil Disorders met to hear testimony of four top federal officials.

Its chairman, Gov. Otto Kerner of Illinois, reported that FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover advised the panel "there is no intelligence on which to base a conclusion of conspiracy" in rioting.

A convict may refuse a conditional pardon by declining to accept the conditions.

Air Losses Key To Jersey Recall

By BOB HORTON
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rising aircraft losses over North Vietnam figured heavily in Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara's decision to order up the battleship New Jersey for war duty, Pentagon sources say. Officers estimated the 45,000-ton battlewagon, a naval behemoth of another era, may be able to do the work of roughly 50 planes a day, thus cutting down the number of U.S. aircraft exposed to Communist fire.

625 Planes Lost

At the same time, Adm. Thomas H. Moorer, the new chief of naval operations, stressed in an interview he views deployment of the battleship as an addition to, rather than a replacement for, tactical air strikes against the Communists.

To date the United States has lost more than 625 planes over the North in attacks against the same kinds of targets the New Jersey will be able to bombard with 1,900-pound shells—bridges, highways, supply dumps and defensive installations.

The battleship has enough armor to allow it to wade into the heaviest enemy gunfire currently in use along North Vietnam's coast. These include five-inch equivalent weapons capable of sinking such lesser ships as destroyers.

McNamara approved Tuesday the Navy's recommendation to pull the New Jersey out of mothballs at the Philadelphia Naval Shipyard and add her 16-inch guns to Seventh Fleet forces now operating in the Gulf of Tonkin.

The Pentagon estimated it would take 9 or 10 months to get the 887-foot ship ready for a shakedown phase, which probably will be taken care of en route to Vietnam. Shakedown involves special crew training and test firing of the battleship's nine 16-inch and 20 5-inch guns.

$27 Million Tab

Price of the reactivation was placed at $27 million, and sources estimated it would take $12.5 million annually to operate the battleship with an abbreviated crew of 1,400 enlisted men and 70 officers. A full complement would be 2,700 men.

Adm. Moorer said the battleship may prove most useful in battering such targets as concrete and steel reinforced bunkers and artillery emplacements near the so-called Demilitarized Zone.

"No one will quarrel with the fact that a 16-inch shell is impressive—particularly those who listen to them whistle by," Moorer said in an interview a few hours after he was sworn in to succeed Adm. David L. McDonald.

The main advantage of the battleship, in addition to its heavier shells, is the long firing range. The New Jersey can stand six miles out and hit enemy targets 15 miles inland. Cruisers operating at that distance to avoid hostile fire have five miles less range with smaller eight-inch guns.

Injuries Fatal

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—Injuries suffered last Dec. 29 in a two-car collision that occurred after a police chase took the life of Frank Bielak Jr., 22, of Buffalo, Tuesday in Meyer Memorial Hospital here. Police said the vehicle in which Bielak was riding was being pursued by a police car for allegedly speeding and passing a red light. He was thrown from the car on impact, they added.

OK Teachers' Unit For Negotiations

A teachers' unit for the purpose of collective negotiations was approved by resolution Tuesday night at the monthly meeting of the Board of Education of the Kingston School District Consolidated. The action of the board was seen as the groundwork for a solution to the dispute to decide which professional group will represent the teachers in collective bargaining.

After the board meeting an informal session was held with delegations of the Kingston Teachers Association, the Kingston Teachers Federation and the school board to discuss future steps to decide which of the two groups will represent all professional staff members in bargaining matters.

For some time the KTA has sought to be designated for bargaining purposes, claiming it had the largest membership. The KTF had tried many times to have the Board of Education call an election to decide the issue.

Some Exceptions

Under the resolution adopted last night the teachers' unit shall include all professional personnel except the following: superintendent, associate superintendent, assistant superintendents, administrative assistants, principals, assistant principals, directors, assistant directors, supervisors, coordinators, department chairmen and deans.

Human Relations Board Appointee

The Common Council approved the appointment Tuesday night of Richard L. Treat, vice president and general manager of The Kingston Daily Freeman, to the Kingston Human Relations Committee.

The new commissioner fills the unexpired term of Mrs. Herbert Shein who resigned since she moved out of the city. Treat is currently on the board of directors of both the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce and the YMCA.

Serving with Treat on the Human Relations Commission are Edward Parker, the Rev. John H. Gilmore, pastor of the Riverview Baptist Church, Rabbi Harry Z. Schechtman, of Congregation Ahavath Israel, Avon Holland, Guido J. Napoleano, George Yerry Jr., Harold O'Connor and the Rev. Edwin C. Coon, pastor of the Fair Street Church.

The Rev. Edward I. Farrelly of St. Mary's Church is the chairman of the commission and Evan J. Davis is the executive director.

There are three courses that Board could call for an election to decide the issue. It was reported that the group should represent all formal meeting last night was teachers in the Kingston School District and representatives system. The Board could designate of the teachers' group had the state a group, or board could opportunity to state their call upon the KTA and KTF cases. Board action on the call to submit a certified member-lective negotiation issues will ship list to decide which has the be determined by resolution at largest membership, or the a later date.

Hits Intervention In Canada Rift

OTTAWA (AP) — Prime Minister Lester Pearson, in a terse reply to French President Charles de Gaulle's second call for the liberation of French-speaking Canada, says outside intervention in Canadian affairs is still "unacceptable."

"The government of Canada has noted the statement by the president of the French republic regarding his recent visit to Canada," Pearson's statement Tuesday night said in reference to a communique issued by De Gaulle Monday.

"It has already made its position clear on the unacceptability of any outside interference in Canadian affairs and has nothing to add in the present circumstances."

After a Cabinet meeting Monday De Gaulle issued a statement saying that during his tour of Quebec last week he observed the French Canadians' will "to

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, AUGUST 2, 1967

City Hall Downtown

We back Mayor Garraghan's proposals for a city hall Downtown and would like to see the Common Council take action on it without further delay.

The mayors' proposal has been buried in committee in the Council for the past three months. Just how long does it take that august body to act on a measure?

The idea that a city hall Downtown will attract new industry to that area is sound. It will indicate to prospective developers that Kingston has faith and hopes for its Urban Renewal area.

A new hall is certainly needed. The heating system has been described as "shot" and parking is a joke.

Another factor is rising construction costs. The longer the city waits to build a new municipal headquarters the more it's going to cost, and the mayor says he can get this land now for $20,000.

So let's go, councilmen. Get the show on the road. The city needs it.

Success Breeds Excess

It seems to be an inflexible law of revolution that success breeds excess.

A people may suffer under tyranny for generations, but once the first breach is made in the dikes of the old regime, it is seldom that there can be any armistice with the status quo, any consolidation of gains, any stopping until the old structure of a society is entirely swept away, its good along with its evil.

This seems to be the fever that has gripped Negro extremists, those who have made it plain that the term Black Power to them means nothing less than the exercise of brute force.

The gradual elimination of injustices is no progress, in their eyes. It is merely temporizing with the devil. If you see the prize you want, run, don't walk—and woe to him who is in your way.

The extremist viewpoint is a natural and infectious one. Fortunately, it has not yet seized the minds of more than a small minority of American Negroes. If anything, the fruits of extremism—the burned-out homes, the ruined businesses, the fathers and brothers lying slain in the rubble of what was once a city—have inspired not revolutionary ardor but despair in the souls of thousands.

The nation has arrived at a junction in history as crucial as that which came at the end of the Civil War. Then the Negro had high hopes and great aspirations. Despite the ignorance he had been kept in, he leaped at the opportunity for education, for participation in government, for economic improvement.

But he was abandoned on one fork of the road while the nation retreated and took the easier path. It is sobering and saddening to realize that it is only within the past 13 years that the Negro has regained, in law, the civil rights that were briefly his 100 years ago.

Now history again presents the opportunity for an unequivocal national commitment to bring the Negro into the mainstream of American life—a New Reconstruction as it were.

But it is a Reconstruction that can succeed this time only if it takes place, not just in the halls of Congress but in the hearts of all Americans.

The Congressman's Letter

On the opposite page is a letter written by Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick (D-Ellenville) in which he documents the basic issue in his investigation of the American Farm Bureau Federation.

Consistent with policies, The Freeman columns are open to those who wish to have their say, either in support or in refutation of arguments on important issues.

Some Medicaid Restrictions

The House Ways and Means Committee has caught up with the Medicaid loophole that permitted New York state to give medical and hospital service to families of four with a net income of $6,000 a year after taxes and insurance premiums. In the first fiscal year of this bounty, it cost New York state $738 million, of which the Federal share was $278 million.

In revising the Social Security law, the Ways and Means Committee has put more reasonable ceilings on this drain on the public purse. The income of such a family to be eligible for Medicaid cannot exceed $4,400 after July 1 next, $4,100 after July 1, 1959, or $3,900 after July 1, 1970. That will still make eligible families above the $3,000 poverty level fixed by the government.

New York's Medicaid program is the most liberal and costly of those of 21 states now having such programs in operation. Limiting the federal share in this program will come close to equalizing it in all the participating states. That is only fair to taxpayers, whose money is used to pay sharing parts for all the states.

Diplomatic Victories

WASHINGTON—The racial setback of America's big cities has obscured some American victories in diplomacy.

The most important backstage development in the recent United Nations debate was the fact that Soviet Russia was pressured by its satellites to abandon its support for the Arab states.

Such countries as Romania, Czechoslovakia, and to some extent Poland, told Foreign Minister Gromyko that they would not go along with the demand for an Israeli troop withdrawal unless the Arabs ended their war against Israel. This meant the recognition of Israel. They argued that it was unrealistic to claim Israel did not exist.

This was a victory first for the argument which President Johnson gave Premier Kosygin at Glassboro—namely, that Israel exists, and that her troops could not be withdrawn without the end of the Arab belligerency and some recognition of Israel. Otherwise, another war was inevitable.

Second, this was a victory for some quiet diplomacy conducted by LBJ, Chief Justice Earl Warren, and various Americans dating back through the days of Truman and Eisenhower. Their diplomacy was aimed at making friends with the East European communist countries—a policy which has been castigated by the Bill Buckley and the professional right-wingers, but it has worked.

One illustration of its working has just come from behind the onetime Iron Curtain regarding the recent talk between President Johnson and Premier Ion Gheorghe Maurer of Romania. During the United Nations Assembly when Maurer was in New York, President Johnson invited him to Washington for a talk.

Reports have come back from other communist diplomats that Maurer found the President "intelligent, well balanced, and receptive"; that the meeting gave Maurer an opportunity to learn the U.S. position on the Near East and the United Nations.

The Romanians also reported that they found the Soviet position on the Near East "unreasonable," and the American position of requiring some recognition of Israel by the Arabs "reasonable."

Maurer expressed the opinion to other diplomats that he was disappointed that relations between Romania and the United States had moved so slowly, and hoped that trade would pick up. He found Johnson sympathetic to better Romanian-American cooperation, and eager to learn more of Romania's problems.

Maurer reported to other diplomats that the United States was the strongest world power, stronger than Russia, and that he had no illusions about the American desire to dominate the world. However, the United States, in contrast to Soviet Russia, would not seek to intrude on Romania's domestic policies.

Later, Party Chairman Ceausescu publicly announced Romania's disagreement with Moscow over the Near East, though reaffirming Soviet-Romanian friendship. He also announced a drastic shakeup in the Romanian secret police, criticizing it for having abused the legitimate rights of citizens.

News dispatches from Eastern Europe state that Chief Justice Earl Warren has been visiting the capitals of Yugoslavia, Czechoslovakia and Poland this summer. This will probably bring a loud accusation from the far-out right wing that the Supreme Court is selling out to communism.

Real fact is that this is the second visit Warren has taken to Eastern Europe, the first having been to Romania, Bulgaria and Russia in the summer of 1963, at which time he called briefly upon Khrushchev and spent much more time in Romania.

He drove from Northwest Romania through the heart of the country, visiting farms, universities, city councils, and ending with a call on the late Chairman Gheorghiu Dej and Premier Maurer.

Later, when Kennedy was assassinated, Maurer came to the funeral as official representative, and Warren dined with him at his home. These friendly talks unquestionably led up to the current improvements in U.S.-Romanian relations and the current independence of the onetime Soviet satellite.

The Chief Justice does not try to do any politicking on these trips. He is a listener. But the fact that the No. 1 jurist of the Western World and the No. 2 man of the United States takes the trouble to travel a long distance to listen and try to get a better understanding of a nation makes a profound impression.

This is what the Chief Justice and Mrs. Warren did when they traveled through the West Coast of South America last winter, going as far as the interior of Bolivia. He merely discussed the American system of jurisprudence impression, especially countries where new revolutionary presidents sometimes appoint their own friends to the supreme court immediately after they take over. Some Congressmen were critical because the State Department paid the Warrens a per diem traveling allowance, but their visits paid real dividends.

Note—The State Department is now urging Justice William Brennan to visit law schools and legal groups in Chile, Argentina, and Brazil which the Chief Justice did not visit; and has asked Justice Potter Stewart to go to other Latin American countries this summer.

Congress Must Pass Conspiracy Law Soon

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1—

The 11-member commission appointed by President Johnson—which is to complete a year hence its report on the causes of the recent rioting—cannot solve the immediate problem before the country today. Congress alone can do it and only by specifically passing a law covering conspiracies designed to stir up disorder.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation is reported to be powerless to bring about the arrest of persons primarily responsible for the planning and organization of the incidents that have for the last three years led to rioting and damage to life and property across the country.

No Law

Former President Eisenhower was quoted the other day as having been told in Washington that there is no federal law "on the books" which could be used to thwart the plotters of the rioting, as this is supposed to be the function of state or city authorities. But there happens to be a federal statute which reads as follows:

"If two or more persons conspire to injure, oppress, threaten or intimidate any citizen in the free exercise or enjoyment of any right or privilege secured to him by the Constitution or laws of the United States, or because of his having so exercised the same... they shall be fined not more than $5,000 or imprisoned not more than ten years, or both."

This particular law became effective Sept. 1, 1948, and is Section 241 of Title 18, known as the U. C. Criminal Code.

FBI Has Right

Doesn't this give the FBI the right to make arrests if it learns of anyone engaged in a plot to create a disorder or if anyone makes an incendiary speech to a crowd which results in violence? Isn't it a federal responsibility to forestall any attempt to stir up violence which could result in loss of life? If plotters instigate riots across state lines, aren't they as much subject to discipline under federal law as restaurant owners who refuse to serve food to Negro customers?

Such questions are being asked as several members of the Senate continue to study means of strengthening the Anti-Riot Bill passed recently by the House of Representatives. In fact, hearings are being conducted on the subject this very week by the Senate Judiciary Committee.

One is confronted in official circles here with the oft-repeated comment that new laws will be as useless as the ones now on the statute books because the Department of Justice simply will not prosecute cases arising from "demonstrations" or "marches" involving "Civil Rights," no matter how disorderly they become. It is insisted that these are a responsibility of that states and cities and that the Johnson administration has told the FBI to stay within those limits and merely relay its information on to local officials.

Reluctance Shown

Plainly, there is a reluctance to let the Department of Justice step in where political questions are involved unless the evidence is "clear." What this means, of course, is that the FBI has to limit the scope of its inquiries to conform to instructions given by the attorney general or by the President.

Mr. Johnson spoke in his TV speech to the nation last week about the FBI's functions as follows:

"In their work, the commission members will have access to the facts that are gathered by Director Edgar Hoover and the Federal Bureau of Investigation. The FBI will continue to exercise its full authority to investigate these riots, in accordance with my standing instructions, and continue to search for evidence of conspiracy."

But of what avail are such data if the FBI cannot bring about the immediate arrest of the plotters of riots, and has to turn the information over to state authorities and wait until the violence erupts?

Political Interests

For many years it has been apparent that, as long as the Department of Justice is under the disciplinary influence of a President, there cannot always be an avoidance of political considerations. Some day a law will have to be passed making the attorney general responsible to Congress—as is the comptroller-general—and establishing the Department of Justice as an independent agency. Otherwise, there will continue to be fears of alienating the blocks of voters whose leaders are attempting by demonstrations, "marches," rallies and inflammatory speeches to stir up trouble throughout the country.

Graft and Smuggling

SALONIKA, Greece—A Soviet tanker, surprisingly named the Leonardo da Vinci, is unloading here 49,000 tons of Red oil from Novorossiysk on the Black Sea. She arrived on the heels of the Gdynia, bearing 47,000 tons—same source.

The April 21 military putsch was an anti-Communist takeover, but Communist oil is flooding into this anti-Communist port just the same, as it is into Franco's Spain. Who is being eaten—fish or fishermen?

Soviet sailors from these ships have signed aboard a warrant not to talk needlessly to any foreigners ashore and never to leave the ships except in the company of at least two other sailors.

Their Red friends, however, are not far away. Greece's northern frontier is a few miles from here. It is about 300 miles long, and every mile of it borders on a Communist country. Left to right, they run: Albania, Yugoslavia, Bulgaria.

The final test of any country's freedom is freedom to leave. In stretching an electrified barbed wire fence around its entire population, no system of government ever demonstrated distrust of its own citizens as much as the Communist dictatorships. And beginning at the Albanian end, weaving and turning even between the Iron Curtain countries themselves, this electrified fence to the north runs all the way from here to Hong Kong.

I have been along much of the Iron Curtain side of it. I am en route to the Greek side now, for that is where attempts to disrupt this NATO country are chiefly coming from.

As for Salonika itself, Greece's second largest city, this Balkan port has been for centuries the undisputed capital of Southern Europe's smugglers. It still is.

See them sit by the quay in their boats and trucks, bored as an acrobat in an iron lung, or smiling their brigand's smile, strutting their mandolinish bouzoukis, gay as immortal sea gods—Poseidons at the Aegean's edge, emerging from their watery kingdom.

It is said here that it's better to know the judge than to know the law, and they're proving it.

This inextricable feature of life throughout Southern Europe and the Middle East is also something of a compass. It points the course eastward into the Orient by the degree that it gradually grows.

The Greeks are convinced that this is what defeated Gamal Abdel Nasser's preparations for war on Israel. Knowing the Cairo government well, they cannot comprehend an Egyptian army procurement officer or Cairo official actually buying what he is supposed to buy.

A Saigon slant, in turn, comes from a top United States aid official I have been with in Athens on his way home from Vietnam to Washington to resign.

Under a cuspated Greek moon—and I repeat this with his permission—he told me that about 100 giant sampans are serving as warehouses because all Saigon warehouses are overflowing with American goods. As the American in charge, he did not know and could not find out what was where or why.

The warehouse inventories, mainly kept by the Vietnamese themselves, either do not exist or are held back from us because they are the key to the black market.

Moreover, he never knew what was in the shipping pipeline from the United States, when it left our country, or to what place it was supposed to go. And our aid list (taxpayers' money) exceeds 150,000 items!

The U.S. aid group in Vietnam, he stated, has been doubled to about 2,000. By his figures, we have supplied around $150 million in rice and $600 million in other commodities, although the area is one of Asia's greatest rice bowls. It normally exports about 300,000 tons annually.

His own report to Washington requested 25 crack inspectors from the U.S. Customs Service to help stem the smuggling and diversions to the Viet Cong. He himself added 150 inside agents. About 7,000 South Vietnam police, he said, are at 800 check points; 400 more operate on river patrol boats.

In the diversions to the Viet Cong, his office confiscated more than 12 millions pounds of foodstuffs, 2,768,000 units of American equipment ranging all the way from giant electric dynamos to ballpoint pens, 1,600 new U.S. weapons, and 245,000 units of packaged American drugs.

million a year, in addition to its own revenues, from El Casino. Holiday Inn gets $500,000. The Oceanus Hotel draws $100,000.

Bahamas Amusements paid it because it felt that the more hotel rooms built, the more gamblers would come to the island. Even Bahamas Airways, which flew the craps shooters in from Miami, drew a payment of $250,000. The casino owners brought in three accomplished bookmakers—Charles Brudner, Frank Ritter and Max Courtney—to run the show.

They were the best, and they were under indictment in New York on Federal gambling and income tax evasion charges. Groves had a fiscal conviction behind him. Brudner, Ritter and Courtney quickly learned that the real money in gambling is not earned from the tourists. It comes from the professionals. So they drew up a credit rating on 40,000 risks, and set up a card index system which gives every known gambler an amount, a game and a style of play.

Bahamas Amusements assesses the card index at $2.100,000 and agreed to buy it from Brudner, Ritter and Courtney for that amount. I was done on a handshake. U. S. Attorney Robert M. Morgenthau has been trying to get these men back to New York for tax trial. They seemed safe as long as the Symonette government remained in power; But, around the turn of the New Year, the white government fell and a native government under Lynden O. Pindling assumed power. Mr. Pindling has assured the three men that, when their "visitors visas" expire on Jan. 1st, they will be sent home.

In June, Pindling slapped a $1,000,000 tax on each casino per year. His total budget is $28,000,000. There was a casino at Lucaya, one at Freeport, and one building at Paradise Island, opposite Nassau. This would net Pindling $3,000,000.

But Bahamas Amusements closed down Lucaya at once. They sold their interest in Paradise Island for $1,500,000 to the Mary Carter Paint Company. All they have left is El Casino. It will pay the million and lose money this year. Two dollars on the black, please. It's overdue.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, AUGUST 2, 1967

City Hall Downtown

We back Mayor Garraghan's proposals for a city hall Downtown and would like to see the Common Council take action on it without further delay.

The mayors' proposal has been buried in committee in the Council for the past three months. Just how long does it take that august body to act on a measure?

The idea that a city hall Downtown will attract new industry to that area is sound. It will indicate to prospective developers that Kingston has faith and hopes for its Urban Renewal area.

A new hall is certainly needed. The heating system has been described as "shot" and parking is a joke.

Another factor is rising construction costs. The longer the city waits to build a new municipal headquarters the more it's going to cost, and the mayor says he can get this land now for $20,000.

So let's go, councilmen. Get the show on the road. The city needs it.

Success Breeds Excess

It seems to be an inflexible law of revolution that success breeds excess.

A people may suffer under tyranny for generations, but once the first breach is made in the dikes of the old regime, it is seldom that there can be any armistice with the status quo, any consolidation of gains, any stopping until the old structure of a society is entirely swept away, its good along with its evil.

This seems to be the fever that has gripped Negro extremists, those who have made it plain that the term Black Power to them means nothing less than the exercise of brute force.

The gradual elimination of injustices is no progress, in their eyes. It is merely temporizing with the devil. If you see the prize you want, run, don't walk—and woe to him who is in your way.

The extremist viewpoint is a natural and infectious one. Fortunately, it has not yet seized the minds of more than a small minority of American Negroes. If anything, the fruits of extremism—the burned-out homes, the ruined businesses, the fathers and brothers lying slain in the rubble of what was once a city—have inspired not revolutionary ardor but despair in the souls of thousands.

The nation has arrived at a junction in history as crucial as that which came at the end of the Civil War. Then the Negro had high hopes and great aspirations. Despite the ignorance he had been kept in, he leaped at the opportunity for education, for participation in government, for economic improvement.

But he was abandoned on one fork of the road while the nation retreated and took the easier path. It is sobering and saddening to realize that it is only within the past 13 years that the Negro has regained, in law, the civil rights that were briefly his 100 years ago.

Now history again presents the opportunity for an unequivocal national commitment to bring the Negro into the mainstream of American life—a New Reconstruction as it were.

But it is a Reconstruction that can succeed this time only if it takes place, not just in the halls of Congress but in the hearts of all Americans.

The Congressman's Letter

On the opposite page is a letter written by Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick (D-Ellenville) in which he documents the basic issue in his investigation of the American Farm Bureau Federation.

Consistent with policies, The Freeman columns are open to those who wish to have their say, either in support or in refutation of arguments on important issues.

Some Medicaid Restrictions

The House Ways and Means Committee has caught up with the Medicaid loophole that permitted New York state to give medical and hospital service to families of four with a net income of $6,000 a year after taxes and insurance premiums. In the first fiscal year of this bounty, it cost New York state $738 million, of which the Federal share was $278 million.

In revising the Social Security law, the Ways and Means Committee has put more reasonable ceilings on this drain on the public purse. The income of such a family to be eligible for Medicaid cannot exceed $4,400 after July 1 next, $4,100 after July 1, 1959, or $3,900 after July 1, 1970. That will still make eligible families above the $3,000 poverty level fixed by the government.

New York's Medicaid program is the most liberal and costly of those of 21 states now having such programs in operation. Limiting the federal share in this program will come close to equalizing it in all the participating states. That is only fair to taxpayers, whose money is used to pay sharing parts for all the states.

The room is a big plush barn. The rugs are deep pile, the ceiling lights shed a soft gold glow on the dead faces of the gamblers. A hundred slot machines stand at hand salute around the walls. The craps tables are festooned with leopards in flaming slacks and mini skirts. Grandmothers toss a chip on an anniversary number at the roulette tables.

This is El Casino at Freeport, Grand Bahama, a two-way gold mine. From the outside, it looks like a Volkswagen Taj Mahal. The dome is a roulette pill. It is one of three casinos in the Bahamas Islands, and yet gambling is against the law. The three money merchandisers have a government certificate called an "exemption." For a price, they are permitted to break the law.

The price is high, and getting higher. Gambling was designed to be the bait which would attract Americans from Florida to British islands only a hundred miles away. The bait hooked them good. So good that planes and ships often carried gamblers free. The only visa necessary was a fat wallet. Now the golden goose is laying anemic eggs.

The story is long and complex. Until five years ago, few tourists knew anything about the Bahamas Islands except the capital city of Nassau. Wallace Groves, an American, decided to exploit the big empty island of Grand Bahama. He took a hamlet named Freeport and built a city. A harbor was dredged and bunkering farms for oil tankers were established. Lots were carved up and sold to Americans and Englishmen as sunny and tax free.

The Bay Street Boys at Nassau forced Mr. Groves to pay heavily for everything he did. Government officials clipped the clipper. Groves paid, and pyramided a group of corporations, in the middle of which is something called Bahamas Amusement Ltd. It sponsors gambling casinos and all of its 1,000 shares are owned by Mrs. Wallace Groves.

However, by a slip of the ledger pen, all profits go to another corporation called Grand Bahama Development Company. Lou Chesler, the hard-breathing, hard playing Canadian millionaire, put his checkbook on the line and ended up with his suitcases in the lobby of a hotel he built at Lucayan Beach. He was deceived by a bigger shark.

The Symonette government—the Symonette government—last of the whites—granted the exemptions for gambling, and tossed in so many interjectory clauses that no one quite understands the contract. It runs from 1964 to 1974. Any number of casinos can be set up, provided that each one is connected with a hotel of 250 rooms or more. Groves found he had to subsidize hotels. The Lucayan Beach Hotel was built at a cost of $30,000 per room and bath. No one could write that off, so the Lucayan Casino had to pay $600,000 a year "rent" to the hotel. Kings Inn, a hotel at Freeport, gets close to half a million a year, in addition to its own revenues, from El Casino. Holiday Inn gets $500,000. The Oceanus Hotel draws $100,000.

Bahamas Amusements paid it because it felt that the more hotel rooms built, the more gamblers would come to the island. Even Bahamas Airways, which flew the craps shooters in from Miami, drew a payment of $250,000. Their Red friends, however, are not far away. Greece's northern frontier is a few miles from here. It is about 300 miles long, and every mile of it borders on a Communist country. Left to right, they run: Albania, Yugoslavia, Bulgaria.

The final test of any country's freedom is freedom to leave. In stretching an electrified barbed wire fence around its entire population, no system of government ever demonstrated distrust of its own citizens as much as the Communist dictatorships. And beginning at the Albanian end, weaving and turning even between the Iron Curtain countries themselves, this electrified fence to the north runs all the way from here to Hong Kong.

I have been along much of the Iron Curtain side of it. I am en route to the Greek side now, for that is where attempts to disrupt this NATO country are chiefly coming from.

As for Salonika itself, Greece's second largest city, this Balkan port has been for centuries the undisputed capital of Southern Europe's smugglers. It still is.

See them sit by the quay in their boats and trucks, bored as an acrobat in an iron lung, or smiling their brigand's smile, strumming their mandolinish bouzouki, gay as immortal sea gods—Poseidons at the Aegean's edge, emerging from their watery kingdom.

It is said here that it's better to know the judge than to know the law, and they're proving it.

This inextricable feature of life throughout Southern Europe and the Middle East is also something of a compass. It points the course eastward into the Orient by the degree that it gradually grows.

The Greeks are convinced that this is what defeated Gamal Abdel Nasser's preparations for war on Israel. Knowing the Cairo government well, they cannot comprehend an Egyptian army procurement officer or Cairo official actually buying what he is supposed to buy.

A Saigon slant, in turn, comes from a top United States aid official I have been with in Athens on his way home from Vietnam to Washington to resign.

Under a cuspated Greek moon—and I repeat this with his permission—he told me that about 100 giant sampans are serving as warehouses because all Saigon warehouses are overflowing with American goods. As the American in charge, he did not know and could not find out what was where or why.

The warehouse inventories, mainly kept by the Vietnamese themselves, either do not exist or are held back from us because they are the key to the black market.

Moreover, he never knew what was in the shipping pipeline from the United States, when it left our country, or to what place it was supposed to go. And our aid list (taxpayers' money) exceeds 150,000 items!

The U.S. aid group in Vietnam, he stated, has been doubled to about 2,000. By his figures, we have supplied around $150 million in rice and $600 million in other commodities, although the area is one of Asia's greatest rice bowls. It normally exports about 300,000 tons annually.

His own report to Washington requested 25 crack inspectors from the U.S. Customs Service to help stem the smuggling and diversions to the Viet Cong. He himself added 150 inside agents. About 7,000 South Vietnam police, he said, are at 800 check points; 400 more operate on river patrol boats.

In the diversions to the Viet Cong, his office confiscated more than 12 millions pounds of foodstuffs, 2,768,000 units of American equipment ranging all the way from giant electric dynamos to ballpoint pens, 1,600 new U.S. weapons, and 245,000 units of packaged American drugs.

A Letter From Congressman Joseph Resnick on His Farm Bureau Stand

Editor, The Freeman

I have been following with interest the letters and articles that appeared in the Kingston Freeman concerning my investigation of the American Farm Bureau Federation. During the few weeks that have passed since I first brought this matter to the attention of the public, a great deal of criticism and many personal attacks have been launched against me, all of which have obscured the real issues involved.

Therefore, I am writing you at this time to document for the constituents of the 28th Congressional District, the basic issues involved in the Farm Bureau controversy, the events that have taken place, and the reasons that these events have occurred.

Outlines Charges

First, of all, let me briefly outline the charges I have made against the American Farm Bureau Federation.

1. It is not the organization of farmers it claims to be. A substantial portion of its membership—possibly half—has no agricultural interest whatsoever.

2. It has misrepresented itself to the Internal Revenue Service in order to obtain a tax exemption, and to the clerks of both Houses of Congress.

3. It has used the American farmer to build one of the largest insurance and financial empires in the United States, whose insurance assets alone total over $1 billion dollars.

4. The directors and officers of the American Farm Bureau Federation are also directors and officers of insurance companies directly controlled and owned by the various State Farm Bureaus.

5. As a result of these interlocking directorates the Farm Bureau may be in violation of antitrust laws.

6. The AFBF has taken advantage of its tax-exempt status in order to expand its business activities which cover the fields of insurance, real estate, shopping centers, fertilizer, mutual funds, gas stations, oil wells, grain storage, petroleum refineries, and a considerable variety of others.

7. Because of its widespread commercial interests the Farm Bureau has misrepresented its true nature in its dealings with farmers and in its statements to congressional committees.

8. The Farm Bureau, as a tax-exempt organization, has improperly been competing in commercial activities with private taxpaying business concerns, thus enjoying unfair competitive advantages.

9. The Farm Bureau has torpedoes the American farmer by posing as an organization representing his interests when, in fact, their widespread commercial activities—which include the operation of businesses which sell to the farmer and buy from the farmer—has put them in a position of representing a point of view which is antagonistic to the interests of the farmer.

10. The Farm Bureau commercial activities have generated funds which have found their way into political and lobbying activities.

No Denial

To date the Farm Bureau has neither denied nor contradicted a single one of these serious charges. As a matter of fact, on two separate occasions—in a personal interview with a newspaper reporter, and in direct testimony before the Rural Development Subcommittee—Roger Fleming, Secretary-Treasurer of the Farm Bureau, has admitted the truth of many of these charges.

On July 12th, the House Committee on Agriculture adopted a resolution disassociating itself from these charges that I have made. While the Committee's action has been widely reported, its meaning has been distorted to accommodate the purposes of the Farm Bureau. The resolution was planned by the American Farm Bureau Federation as a punitive measure for the purpose of embarrassing me personally and thereby nullifying the effect of my attacks against them.

I say this because long before the Committee moved to disassociate itself from my charges, I had already done so. On June 29th, I made the following statement for the official transcript of the hearings of the Rural Development Subcommittee, "Any statements I make or any requests I make, I make on the basis of an individual Congressman." They do not reflect in any way the feelings of the Subcommittee.

Here are the facts which led to the Committee action and which prove that the Farm Bureau is behind it:

1. On June 28th, during hearings of the House Agriculture Committee's Rural Development Subcommittee, of which I am chairman, I made my charges against the American Farm Bureau Federation. The interview with Mr. Roger Fleming, the Farm Bureau's number two man, became rather heated and time ran out before Mr. Fleming felt he had a full opportunity to explain the Farm Bureau position. I invited him to return on July 13th. He did not return.

2. Instead, Mr. Fleming sent a letter to the Chairman of the House Committee on Agriculture, with copies to every member. We all received this letter on Monday, July 10th. In this letter, Mr. Fleming specified the terms and conditions under which he would again appear before my Subcommittee to continue his testimony.

This action, in itself, is an unprecedented display of arrogance. I know of no other organization that has ever dictated to a congressional committee the terms under which it would appear and testify. And I have never heard of any congressional committee that would ever consider such a high-handed demand.

Ask Disassociation

In his letter, Mr. Fleming demanded that the Committee "clean the record by adopting a resolution, in which it disassociates itself from the attacks on Farm Bureau made by Subcommittee Chairman Resnick and by making known to the public at an early date its disposition."

3. Within 24 hours after receiving this letter, the five members of my Subcommittee, four of whom are also members of the Farm Bureau, issued a statement attacking my criticisms of the Farm Bureau. Indeed, some of the very language of their statement is identical to the language of the Farm Bureau letter.

4. Within 48 hours after receiving this letter, the full Committee, over half of whom are also members of the Farm Bureau, had done behind closed doors in executive session, and without prior public announcement. It all happened so quickly that the Members of the House did not know what was happening, despite the fact that this action was unprecedented in the history of Congress and carried grave implications for every single Member.

5. If any further evidence were needed of his hand in this affair, Roger Fleming immediately thereafter issued a press release in which he crowed, "This judgment by his Congressional Colleagues should make it crystal clear that Congressman Resnick's charges against the Farm Bureau Federation are reckless, unwarranted and unfounded." In other words, Mr. Fleming announced that the Farm Bureau was exonerated by the Committee's action.

6. While any reading of the Committee resolution would make it obvious that Mr. Fleming's statement did not contain a single grain of truth, since it did not in any way relate to the specific and documented charges I have made against the Farm Bureau, not one single member of the Committee has risen to criticize him for it.

The obvious question now arises, why did the Farm Bureau hit the panic button? Why did they react so violently against me? What caused this unusual act of massive retaliation against a Congressman who did nothing more than bring their activities to the public forum for questioning?

This reaction, and the reaction of the Committee on Agriculture is all the more remarkable when we recognize that I am being attacked—not for telling lies about the Farm Bureau—but for revealing the truth.

IRS Will Investigate

The Internal Revenue Service has agreed to conduct a thorough investigation into the business and financial dealings of the American Farm Bureau Federation. I am also considering asking the Department of Justice to look into possible violations of the anti-trust laws, and I am considering requesting that the Clerk of the House and the Justice Department look into possible violations of the Lobbying Act. I shall also hold ad hoc hearings.

Many of the letters which appeared in your paper have come from local Farm Bureau members, who express concern over my position. I would like to make it clear that I have the greatest admiration for the local members, most of whom are hard working and completely dedicated to solving the problems of the American farmer, and I can certainly understand their concern. However, these are the very people that the Farm Bureau is taking advantage of, because the Farm Bureau is using the farmer as a base for building this gigantic financial empire, and the individual farmer never sees this empire, and never derives any benefit from it. The Farm Bureau has been trying to distort this entire issue and make it appear as though this is a crusade against the farmer, when it is, in actual fact, nothing more than a crusade against the American Farm Bureau and its tax-dodging activities. As a matter of fact, I have received hundreds and hundreds of letters from farmers in support of my position. The local farm bureau members are not at fault. It is the people at the State and national levels who deserve the blame.

However, these are not the main issues. The issue that is of overriding importance in this entire controversy is: Shall the right of a Congressman to speak out, to inquire, to investigate and if necessary to make accusations, be curtailed in any way? Or, in other words, can a Committee of Congress or any private citizen or organization dictate to any Member what he may or may not say?

Shall we allow any organization to interfere with the cherished traditional right of each Member of Congress to inquire into the background and activities of an individual or organization, regardless of whose toes may be stepped on?

Compromised

Who runs Congress, the people or the lobbyists? Have we compromised ourselves to such a degree that we can no longer act independently in accordance with our personal conscience and judgment? The Agriculture Committee's action has disturbed many Americans, whose concern I think, was best summed up by a Washington correspondent who said that the passage of the resolution was "A stab in the back of Democracy."

If the Farm Bureau thinks its efforts to silence me are going to slow me down, it is very much mistaken. They have made me more determined than ever to find out what they have to hide, and how widespread their financial interests are. I fully intend to continue this investigation of the Farm Bureau as well as the other farm organizations as an ad hoc committee.

Cordially yours,
JOSEPH Y. RESNICK,
M.C.

Richard Kuhn, Nobel Winner Dies in Germany

HEIDELBERG, Germany (AP)—Richard Kuhn, Nobel chemistry prize winner noted for his early vitamin research, died here Monday at the age of 66.

Kuhn had been professor of organic chemistry and biochemistry at the University of Heidelberg since 1928. For the past 16 years he had been managing director of the Max Planck Society, the highly regarded German scientific research foundation.

Kuhn won the Nobel Prize for chemistry in 1938 for his work in the field of organic and biochemistry. The Nazi regime barred him from accepting the award and he did not receive it until 1948 after convincing the Swedish Academy of Science that he had been forced to reject it 10 years earlier.

Kuhn's special area of research was in enzymes, carotinoids, vitamins and stereochemistry. He is credited with isolating and synthesizing the vitamins b2 and b6.

His later work was with vitamins and determents to cell growth. He had won numerous German scientific prizes in addition to the Nobel Prize.

He was married and the father of six children.

Airman Drowned At Lake George

LAKE GEORGE, N.Y. (AP)—Hubert F. Cooley, 24, of Taylorsville, Ga., an airman stationed at the Dover Air Force Base, Ill., drowned Tuesday. State Police reported.

Cooley, police said, was among 700 Air Force men staying at the Silver Bay Association in the town of Hague, at the northern end of the lake.

His body was discovered about 3:20 p. m., fifty feet from shore in 10 feet of water. He was pronounced dead at the Moses-Ludington Hospital in Ticonderoga.

DIED

SQUEO—Entered into rest suddenly Tuesday, August 1, 1967, Vincent Squeo of Glenford, son of Michael and Irene Hannay Squeo; brother of Michelle, Victoria, Sandra, Janice, Christine and Michael Squeo; grandson of Bronk Hannay and Mrs. Rachael Squeo.

Relatives and friends are invited to attend the funeral at the Jensen & Deegan Funeral Home, Inc., 15 Downs Street, on Thursday at 2 p. m. Interment in Montrose Cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home this evening from 7 to 9 p. m.

Faulkner's Solution For Negro Problem

DARTMOUTH, Mass. (AP)—The late William E. Faulkner, Nobel and Pulitzer Prize winning novelist, said in a letter released today that Negroes "have got to be changed completely" to attain equality and justice.

The noted author's views were expressed in a letter written seven years ago in rejecting a request from his former butler, a Negro for a contribution to the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Paul E. Pollard of Dartmouth, the former butler, made public today the letter, which has been sold for $500 to Charles Hamilton Autographs Inc., of New York City.

Faulkner wrote in 1960 that he believed the NAACP was making mistakes.

"Whether it instigates them or merely condones and takes advantage of them, it is anyway on the side of, in favor of, actions which will do your people harm," he said.

"As I see it," Faulkner wrote, "your people must earn by being individually responsible to bear it, the freedom and equality they want and should have."

He quoted the noted Negro

WEST POINT, Miss. (AP)—James H. Meredith advises young Negroes to volunteer for the armed forces, and called the war in Vietnam "the greatest thing that ever happened to the Negro."

During his speech at Mary Holmes College Tuesday a few students hissed his suggestion that Negroes volunteer.

The civil rights figure retorted: "I see those liberals have really been working on you all."

He told 250 students participating in a summer enrichment program at Mary Holmes that the war has made the Negro "realize he's a man and he won't come back and let his kids be beat up."

Johnson Mulls Bombing Pause After Viet Vote

NEW YORK (AP)—President Johnson is in the process of deciding on whether to halt the bombing of North Vietnam after the South Vietnamese presidential elections next month, CBS television has reported.

The report, made from Washington Tuesday night on the Walter Cronkite program, quoted an unidentified "high source" in the nation's capital as saying: "The chances are better than 50-50 the President will attempt some kind of bombing pause just after the elections."

The peace gesture is backed by Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara, the CBS report said. But it added the military Joint Chiefs of Staff "are vigorously opposing" any such peace proposal.

The network said the six Far East nations contributing troops to the war were sounded out on the possible peace proposal during the recent six-nation tour by Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, former ambassador in Saigon, and Clark Clifford, chairman of Johnson's intelligence advisory board.

"The next most advantageous psychological moment for a peace gesture would be around the time of the South Vietnamese presidential vote," was the thinking of both Johnson and McNamara, the network said.

The report added: "The theory is that the elections are a show of good faith on our willingness to let the Vietnamese run their own affairs. And that this, coupled with at least a reduction in bombing, might—just might—get a meaningful reaction from the North Vietnamese."

Armater then called on the chairman of the Mayor's Committee for a City Hall Downtown, Joseph Epstein (D-Sixth Ward) for a report. Epstein said the mayor was talking about a $400,000 to $500,000 building and it was better to investigate the matter fully rather than rush into it and regret it later.

Epstein also alerted the councilmen to the fact that central registration would be held in the municipal auditorium on 467 Broadway Aug. 7, from 10 a. m. to 9 p. m.

The council approved the installation of a pedestrian light at the corner of Wall and Pearl Streets, primarily for the protection of the children of St. Joseph's School. This was sponsored by Alderman George Margolis (R-First Ward) and Alderman Machione.

Denies Charges Of Peace Corps Adding Tension
WASHINGTON (AP)—The Peace Corps denies a congressman's charge that a program of housing its volunteers with Negro families in Washington has contributed to racial tensions in the capital.

Rep. William B. Widnall, R-N. J., said Tuesday Negroes were resentful because the Peace Corps trainees—being readied for duty in the West African nation of Sierra Leone—had been placed in Negro homes "to prepare them to move into another culture overseas."

Widnall said Negro families who have lived in America for generations are irked at what he said was the implication their homes and culture would compare with those of Sierra Leone.

The West African nation of 2.5 million people has basically a farming culture. Few of its inhabitants can read or write.

A Peace Corps spokesman who declined identification said the corps had received no complaints about its training program for 21 Sierra Leone-bound volunteers.

In his statement, Widnall said his attention had been called to Negro resentment of the program by clergymen, who he said told him "these Peace Corps volunteers have added fuel to the fire of resentment." Washington was hit by sporadic Negro violence early Tuesday morning. Families which accept volunteers are paid $12 a week for each one they house.

Visitors Jam Scout Jamboree
FARRAGUT STATE PARK, Idaho, (AP)—Visitors anxious for a look-see at the World Boy Scout Jamboree, which officially began here Tuesday, poured into the park.

At one point Tuesday evening, cars were lined up bumper-to-bumper for four miles from the park's entrance to Athol, Idaho. Although the traffic was more brisk as the time for the pageant neared, the number through the gate as of 3 p. m. was 3,555, according to an Idaho State Police counter.

Four cars were involved in an afternoon accident but there were no injuries. At the pageant itself, scouts and visitors filled about two-thirds of the grass-covered Sutton Arena, a natural amphitheater with a 65,000 person capacity.

Yule Stamp Status
WASHINGTON (AP)—The government has requested dismissal of a suit aimed at halting production of the 1967 Christmas stamp depicting Hans Memling's painting, "Madonna and Child With Angels."

Protestants and Other Americans United for Separation of Church and State filed the suit in U.S. District Court, contending production of the stamp entails spending federal money in an unconstitutional manner.

The Post Office already has produced more than 650 million of the stamps—about half the planned number, and sales are scheduled to begin Nov. 6. The Justice Department argued Monday that if an injunction is granted, the stamp would not be ready by Christmas, even if the government wins the case.

80 Million Pregnancies in the World Are Unwanted

(Third in a Series.)
By LEWIS C. FRANK Jr.
Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
(Mr. Frank is executive director of the Information Center on Population Problems.)
In the 30 seconds or so that it will take you to read this paragraph, more than 100 babies will be born. While very few of the conceptions that led to their births will have been planned, most of these infants will be welcome additions to their family units, whether they are born in Tanzania, Tennessee or Thailand.

But to speak of most of these infants as being welcome additions is to ignore the statistically staggering number who were not only unplanned, but unwanted.
The director of Turkey's maternal and health services

Dr. Fethi Altuntug, has described a visit to one of his country's villages. He was inspecting the quality of home nursing services when he found a nurse instructing a mother in the proper way to give a week-old infant a bath. He checked the temperature of the bath water. It was extremely chilly.

After closely questioning the nurse and the mother, Dr. Altuntug discovered the simple truth. The mother already had too many children. She wasn't particularly interested in having the infant survive.

Infanticide, deliberate or through neglect, is not unique to this Turkish woman in a remote village. It occurs here in the United States and other developed areas.

When we speak in terms of "unwanted pregnancies," rather than actual births, the statistics are even more alarming.

Experts, such as Dr. Alan F. Guttmacher, estimate that there are 1,250,000 largely illegal abortions in the United States every year. At the rate of current births that is an abortion for every three live babies.

The world figure is certainly not less than 50 million abortions a year.

Dr. Clark Vincent of the Bowman Gray School of Medicine—the nation's leading authority on illegitimate births—places the total of births to unwed mothers at 275,000 a year.

Other indices of unwanted pregnancies in addition to abortions and unwed mothers are the statistics on pregnant brides, married couples who give their children up for adoption, and the surveys of married women who keep their children, but state frankly that they weren't wanted.

Approximately 135,000 children are adopted annually. Dr. Vincent has estimated that 15 per cent of adoptions "involve children relinquished by married couples." This would register 20,000 unwanted pregnancies.

Dr. Emanuel K. Schwartz of New York's Postgraduate Center for Mental Health has pointed out that the unwanted children of today represent a considerable portion of the future patients in our mental institutions. And, Dr. Schwartz cautions, "It is a grave error to believe that unwanted children are only poor kids in poor families."

Testifying before Senator Gruening's committee, the former director of federal prisons, James V. Bennett, commented: "In all of my experience of dealing with the disadvantaged and the underprivileged, no case is sadder or more bafling than that of the lone, unwanted child. A considerable percentage of those who crowd our institutions are in this category."

If we can safely project a figure of two million unwanted pregnancies for the United States in a given year, what then can we project for the entire world? In the United States most married couples use some form of contraception. The unwanted pregnancies result from the lapses in use and from use of imperfect methods.

If, at home and abroad, we could prevent the birth of the unwanted, the world would still have a population problem. But instead of doubling our population in the next 35 years, it would take 50 or 60 years—and the quality of living for those now alive and being born could be improved rather than worsened.

The chances of achieving this happier rate of growth are slim unless programs are vastly expanded. As we have shown, two out of five pregnancies in the United States are unwanted—and this is in a highly literate society, where family planning information is readily available.

The chances of reducing the world's population growth to a manageable level are slim primarily because the great powers aren't using the same crash program techniques in fertility control that they use to conquer space or to develop new weapons systems. Science has already given us tools to effectively control fertility. The oral contraceptives, the intrauterine devices and sterilization techniques can do the job.

(Next: Compulsory Birth Control?)

Indict 2 Honor Cops on Extortion

NEW YORK (AP) — A Manhattan grand jury has indicted two honor policemen on charges that they extorted a total of $7,500 from "persons engaged in illegal gambling activities" and tried to get several thousand more.

The 13-count indictment was handed up Tuesday against Robert A. Burke, 31, of the Bronx, and Louis P. Eanniello, 31, of Bellmore, N. Y., suspended New York City plainclothes patrolmen. The men were accused of threatening to arrest their alleged victims unless they were given money. Charges in the indictment included conspiracy, extortion, attempted extortion, receiving unlawful fees and felonious assault.

80 Million Pregnancies in the World Are Unwanted

(Third in a Series.)
By LEWIS C. FRANK Jr.
Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
(Mr. Frank is executive director of the Information Center on Population Problems.)
In the 30 seconds or so that it will take you to read this paragraph, more than 100 babies will be born. While very few of the conceptions that led to their births will have been planned, most of these infants will be welcome additions to their family units, whether they are born in Tanzania, Tennessee or Thailand.

But to speak of most of these infants as being welcome additions is to ignore the statistically staggering number who were not only unplanned, but unwanted.
The director of Turkey's maternal and health services,

Dr. Fethi Altuntug, has described a visit to one of his country's villages. He was inspecting the quality of home nursing services when he found a nurse instructing a mother in the proper way to give a week-old infant a bath. He checked the temperature of the bath water. It was extremely chilly.

After closely questioning the nurse and the mother, Dr. Altuntug discovered the simple truth. The mother already had too many children. She wasn't particularly interested in having the infant survive.

Infanticide, deliberate or through neglect, is not unique to this Turkish woman in a remote village. It occurs here in the United States and other developed areas.

When we speak in terms of "unwanted pregnancies," rather than actual births, the statistics are even more alarming.

Experts, such as Dr. Alan F. Guttmacher, estimate that there are 1,250,000 largely illegal abortions in the United States every year. At the rate of current births that is an abortion for every three live babies.

The world figure is certainly not less than 50 million abortions a year.

Dr. Clark Vincent of the Bowman Gray School of Medicine—the nation's leading authority on illegitimate births—places the total of births to unwed mothers at 275,000 a year.

Other indices of unwanted pregnancies in addition to abortions and unwed mothers are the statistics on pregnant brides, married couples who give their children up for adoption, and the surveys of married women who keep their children, but state frankly that they weren't wanted.

Approximately 135,000 children are adopted annually. Dr. Vincent has estimated that 15 per cent of adoptions "involve children relinquished by married couples." This would register 20,000 unwanted pregnancies.

Dr. Emanuel K. Schwartz of New York's Postgraduate Center for Mental Health has pointed out that the unwanted children of today represent a considerable portion of the future patients in our mental institutions. And, Dr. Schwartz cautions, "It is a grave error to believe that unwanted children are only poor kids in poor families."

Testifying before Senator Gruening's committee, the former director of federal prisons, James V. Bennett, commented: "In all of my experience of dealing with the disadvantaged and one underprivileged, no case is sadder or more bafling than that of the lone, some, unwanted child. A considerable percentage of those who crowd our institutions are in this category."

If we can safely project a figure of two million unwanted pregnancies for the United States in a given year, what then can we project for the entire world? In the United States most married couples use some form of contraception. The unwanted pregnancies result from the lapses in use and from use of imperfect methods.

If, at home and abroad, we could prevent the birth of the unwanted, the world would still have a population problem. But instead of doubling our population in the next 35 years, it would take 50 or 60 years—and the quality of living for those now alive and being born could be improved rather than worsened.

The chances of achieving this happier rate of growth are slim unless programs are vastly expanded. As we have shown, two out of five pregnancies in the United States are unwanted—and this is in a highly literate society, where family planning information is readily available.

The chances of reducing the world's population growth to a manageable level are slim primarily because the great powers aren't using the same crash program techniques in fertility control that they use to conquer space or to develop new weapons systems.

Science has already given us tools to effectively control fertility. The oral contraceptives, the intrauterine devices and sterilization techniques can do the job.

Indict 2 Honor Cops on Extortion

NEW YORK (AP) — A Manhattan grand jury has indicted two honor policemen on charges that they extorted a total of $7,500 from "persons engaged in illegal gambling activities" and tried to get several thousand more.

The 13-count indictment was handed up Tuesday against Robert A. Burke, 31, of Bronx, and Louis P. Eanniello, 33, of Bellmore, N. Y., suspended New York City plainclothes patrolmen. The men were accused of threatening to arrest their alleged victims unless they were given money. Charges in the indictment included conspiracy, extortion, attempted extortion, receiving the unlawful fees and felonious assault.

May Moonlight As Taxi Drivers

NEW YORK (AP) — New York City police have for the first time been authorized to take jobs as taxi drivers during off-duty hours, and they may carry their service pistols while doing so.

Police Commissioner Howard R. Leary granted the permission in a special announcement, it was learned Tuesday night. The effect of the move was expected to be twofold: first, the presence of armed officers in some cabs was expected to be a deterrent to would-be criminals and thereby reduce the number of assaults and robberies of drivers.

Second, the availability of a pool of potential drivers should ease the taxi shortage. Industry sources said thousands of cabs are idle some shifts each day for lack of drivers.

Aquatometer - - Finds Water in Rock

POINTS TO WATER—The Aquatometer, shown here worn by Richard Jamieson, vice-president of Accurate Wells Corporation, is an instrument that finds water in rock measuring a warp in the earth's magnetic field.

By CHARLES BERMPOHL
When Sky Top Motel officials contracted Poughkeepsie's Accurate Wells Corporation to solve their water problems, they had no idea that drillers would have to go down 600 feet to find a vein of water, nor did they realize that just a few short years ago such an operation would have been considered close to impossible. The difference was, the Poughkeepsie company used an instrument, of which there are only four in existence, that may revolutionize the industry.

The Aquatometer: an instrument that measures the approximate depth and predicts the potential quantity of veins of water deep under the earth's surface. Developed under the theory that water coursing through rock will create a warp in the earth's magnetic field, the Aquatometer was built by Kenyon Instrument Company in Brewster, after its possibilities had been thoroughly researched by a Kenyon geologist.

The Aquatometer is about 12 inches high and three inches wide, is worn on a harness that lets the instrument hang in front of the operator, and has a sensitive needle on its face that is oriented to magnetic North.

According to Richard Jamieson, vice-president of Accurate Wells, the company has sole control of the patent on the instrument which was originally developed to locate mineral deposits.

Able to Distinguish

The Aquatometer is able to distinguish between disturbances created in the magnetic field by ferrous and non-ferrous metals, and para-magnetic minerals such as cobalt, according to Jamieson.

"Our greatest problem," said Jamieson, "lies in evaluating depth. The depth of a vein has a direct bearing on the amount of water it will produce."

The Accurate Wells executive said the "Sky Top had a very bad water problem" and that "we were only looking for 20 gallons a minute."

The instrument indicated that there was a good volume of water at an extreme depth and when Sky Top Officials decided to go for it, the J. T. Eckerson Company from Milton took a day and a half drilling down through what was almost pure shale until they reached a major fracture at the 600 foot level.

The vein yielded 75 gallons a minute.

First Big Breakthrough

Jamieson believes that the Aquatometer "is the first major means of scientifically locating water in rock without any real use of geological data at all."

He mentioned that "other methods" are successful to some degree.

"As far as our percentages are concerned," he said, "we have been at least 85 per cent accurate in locating water in areas where water was known to have been extremely scarce" and that "most of these wells were good volume wells in excess of 10 gallons a minute."

"In the final analysis, it is the interpretation of the readings against empirical (observed) data and logical evaluation."

Hinting at buried treasure, Jamieson said, "there have been several cases where we would have liked to have drilled" where there was "strange" indications of nonmagnetic material, but none of the cases were "ever pursued because we are not in the mining business." The executive did say, however, that "some day we hope we will be able to go into the prospecting business, which is what the instrument was intended for."

'Twiggers'

One of the methods traditionally employed to find water is the "dowser" or "twigger" method. This is done by a person walking over the property, his hand wrapped around two ends of a forked fruit branch and the theory goes that once the twigger approaches a vein of water, the branch will twist downward to point at the spot.

"We don't knock it," said Jamieson, claiming that, "We believe it works on a magnetic principle, wherein only certain people would be possessed of the gift."

"The general rule," Jamieson went on to say, "is that these men can only read to less than 100 feet" whereas "we know we can read to a depth of at least 600 feet."

Jamieson said that the Sky Top job "was the deepest well we have ever dug."

"We don't claim to be infallible but we do feel we give people a better means of finding water in rock than other methods in use today."

MOON WEAVE NEW SLEEP SPREAD

- Pre-shrunk
- Colorfast
- Lint-free
- Machine-washable
- No-Iron

Very definitely a Morgan-Jones original! The first dual bed covering! A bedspread by day, a thermal blanket by night. Keeps you cool in summer, warm in winter. New diamond design, finished with decorative loop fringe. Snow, carnation, wedgewood, sand, seaspray, lemon, cherry red, avocado, curry, cornflower, cinnamon or deep rose. All machine-wash-and-dryable. Twin and full sizes . .

And only Morgan-Jones brings you this wondrous new thermal blanket. Cool in summer, warm in winter—it's all, all the blanket you'll ever need again. Insulaire's magic is in its airloom weave. Thousands of tiny cells speed away body heat in summer. Comes winter, toss any light cover over Insulaire and it warms you perfectly. No weighty feeling. No electric rigamarole. Nothing but Insulaire. Come see it. You'll love Insulaire's hand-crocheted look—it's pretty enough to use as a bedspread, too. Machine-wash-and-dryable in pure cotton, with deep nylon satin binding.

Rondout Valley Lists New Faculty Members

Both new and familiar faces will greet students of the Rondout Valley Central School District when schools open for the 1967-68 school year on Sept. 6.

Included among incoming elementary teachers is Gerald M. Garfman, who will teach sixth grade in the Kerhonkson School. Garfman completed his undergraduate education at the State University College, New Paltz, following two years at Ulster County Community College. His major at New Paltz was history, including several courses in African history. He plans to continue study at New Paltz toward an MA degree. Garfman, who did his student teaching at Kerhonkson, is married and lives in Olivebridge.

Native of Germany

Miss Ingrid Hengstenberg will teach a kindergarten class in the Marletown School. Born in Dortmund, Germany, she came to this country in 1959 and was graduated from Haverstraw High School with a regents diploma as a language major. She received her BA degree and permanent certification from SUNY at New Paltz in June. Besides reading and speaking German fluently, Miss Hengstenberg has knowledge of French and Spanish. Her student teaching assignment was in kindergarten work and she comes to Rondout Valley highly recommended.

Also coming to Marletown is Mrs. Grace Kokas, as a fifth grade teacher. She is a graduate of Hunter College in New York City and holds a BS in education with a major in nursing. Mrs. Kokas taught for eight years at the Benedictine Hospital Nursing School.

Mrs. Anna McGrath will join the Marletown faculty as a third grade teacher. Also a graduate of SUNY at New Paltz, earning a BS with a major in elementary education, Mrs. McGrath was a student teacher at Marletown under the direction of Mrs. Alice Johnson during her final year. She taught third grade at the Chambers School from January, 1965 to June, 1966. Mrs. McGrath has one child.

High School Faculty

Rondout Valley High School will welcome several new faculty members. I. the science department as biology teacher will be Thomas F. Carroll of Princeton, N. J. Carroll received a BS in education from Rutgers University and has taught fifth grade and junior high for eight years in New Jersey schools, at Dutch Neck, at Sharon School in Washington Township, and at Jamesburg. He has also been director of the Princeton Study Center for three years.

A June graduate of SUNY at Geneseo, Miss Kathryn R. Fitzsimmons will teach junior high English. A highly successful practice teacher, Miss Fitzsimmons brings fine recommendations to her new career as a teacher at Rondout Valley.

Also joining the English department, on the senior high level, is John Martin. He has taught English for the past three years at Paramus, N. J. following his graduation in 1964 from Hope College, Mich. Martin and his wife have been living in Lodi, N. J.

Activity Report On Port Jervis, Kingston Pilots

SAIGON (AP) — "It was one of the best strikes I've ever led," said Air Force Lt. Col. William C. Norris, 40, of Port Jervis, N.Y.

Norris led F105 thunderchiefs raiding the Kep Rail Yards 38 miles northeast of Hanoi Monday and pilots claimed they wrecked 13 boxcars out of 40 in the yards.

In another engagement Air Force Maj. Thomas H. Maus, 36, of Akron, Ohio, and Capt. Frank R. Jenkins, 30, of Kingston, N. Y. joined with other F105 thunderchief pilots in pounding a storage area 25 miles northwest of Hanoi Monday.

They reported three secondary explosions with orange fireballs and black smoke rising 2,000 feet.

Local Mason Named to Post

A Kingston man, William A. Evans, 56 Kiersted Avenue, has been appointed to the office of Assistant Grand Lecturer of the Greene-Ulster Masonic District for 1967-68 by Right Worshipful Howard W. Potts, Grand Lecturer of the Grand Lodge, in the Masonic fraternity, he is Free and Accepted Masons, of the State of New York with the approval of the Most Worshipful Frank C. Staples, Grand Master of Masons in the State of New York.

Evans has had a most distinguished Masonic record since becoming a member of Rondout Lodge 343, F&AM in 1951. He served faithfully through the chairs of the lodge and was elected Master in 1957. At present he is serving as trustee of the Masonic Temple having been elected in 1960 and at present is serving as its secretary. He has held the office of president of the Craftsmen's Club of Rondout Lodge and also served several years as its treasurer. He has also served as District Service Man, District chairman of the Brotherhood Fund, secretary of the Masters and Wardens Association and on many other important committees in the district and in Rondout Lodge.

At the present time he is serving his second term as patron of Kingston Chapter 153, Order of the Eastern Star and for many years was active in Colonial Chapter, Order of DeMolay.

Due to his varied experience in the Masonic fraternity, he is well qualified to perform the duties of Assistant Grand Lecturer as it will be his responsibility, among other duties, to visit each of the fourteen lodges in the district at least once a year to review the ritualistic work to see that it is maintained on the high level of Grand Lodge requirements.

Evans will be presented with his official apron and jewel in Rondout Lodge on Monday, Oct. 2, at which time all the lodges in the district and surrounding districts are expected to be represented.

Ancient Lighthouse

The most famous lighthouse of the ancient world, the Pharos lighthouse at Alexandria, Egypt, was built of stone and was three stories in height, with an altitude of 370 feet. A fire of wood was kept burning at night, visible perhaps as far as 30 miles.

Rondout Valley Lists New Faculty Members

Both new and familiar faces will greet students of the Rondout Valley Central School District when schools open for the 1967-68 school year on Sept. 6.

Included among incoming elementary teachers is Gerald M. Garfman, who will teach sixth grade in the Kerhonkson School. Garfman completed his undergraduate education at the State University College, New Paltz, following two years at Ulster County Community College. His major at New Paltz was history, including several courses in African history. He plans to continue study at New Paltz toward an MA degree. Garfman, who did his student teaching at Kerhonkson, is married and lives in Olivebridge.

Native of Germany

Miss Ingrid Hengstenberg will teach a kindergarten class in the Marletown School. Born in Dortmund, Germany, she came to this country in 1959 and was graduated from Haverstraw High School with a regents diploma as a language major. She received her BA degree and permanent certification from SUNY at New Paltz in June. Besides reading and speaking German fluently, Miss Hengstenberg has knowledge of French and Spanish. Her student teaching assignment was in kindergarten work and she comes to Rondout Valley highly recommended.

Also coming to Marletown is Mrs. Grace Kokas, as a fifth grade teacher. She is a graduate of Hunter College in New York City and holds a BS in education with a major in nursing. Mrs. Kokas taught for eight years at the Benedictine Hospital Nursing School.

Mrs. Anna McGrath will join the Marletown faculty as a third grade teacher. Also a graduate of SUNY at New Paltz, earning a BS with a major in elementary education, Mrs. McGrath was a student teacher at Marletown under the direction of Mrs. Alice Johnson during her final year. She taught third grade at the Chambers School from January, 1965 to June, 1966. Mrs. McGrath has one child.

High School Faculty

Rondout Valley High School will welcome several new faculty members. In the science department as biology teacher will be Thomas F. Carroll of Princeton, N. J. Carroll received a BS in education from Rutgers University and has taught fifth grade and junior high for eight years in New Jersey schools, at Dutch Neck, at Sharon School in Washington Township, and at Jamesburg. He has also been director of the Princeton Study Center for three years.

A June graduate of SUNY at Geneseo, Miss Kathryn R. Fitzsimmons will teach junior high English. A highly successful practice teacher, Miss Fitzsimmons brings fine recommendations to her new career as a teacher at Rondout Valley.

Also joining the English department, on the senior high level, is John Martin. He has taught English for the past three years at Paramus, N. J., following his graduation in 1964 from Hope College, Mich. Martin and his wife have been living in Lodi, N. J.

Activity Report On Port Jervis, Kingston Pilots

SAIGON (AP) — "It was one of the best strikes I've ever led," said Air Force Lt. Col. William C. Norris, 40, of Port Jervis, N.Y.

Norris led F105 thunderchiefs raiding the Kep Rail Yards 38 miles northeast of Hanoi Monday and pilots claimed they wrecked 13 boxcars out of 40 in the yards.

In another engagement Air Force Maj. Thomas H. Maus, 36, of Akron, Ohio, and Capt. Frank R. Jenkins, 30, of Kingston, N. Y., joined with other F105 thunderchief pilots in pounding a storage area 25 miles northwest of Hanoi Monday.

They reported three secondary explosions with orange fireballs and black smoke rising 2,000 feet.

At the present time he is serving his second term as patron of Kingston Chapter 153, Order of the Eastern Star and for many years was active in Colonial Chapter, Order of DeMolay.

Due to his varied experience in the Masonic fraternity, he is well qualified to perform the duties of Assistant Grand Lecturer as it will be his responsibility, among other duties, to visit each of the fourteen lodges in the district at least once a year to review the ritualistic work to see that it is maintained on the high level of Grand Lodge requirements.

Evans will be presented with his official apron and jewel in Rondout Lodge on Monday, Oct. 2, at which time all the lodges in the district and surrounding districts are expected to be represented.

Evans has had a most distinguished Masonic record since becoming a member of Rondout Lodge 343, F&AM in 1951. He served faithfully through the chairs of the lodge and was elected Master in 1957. At present he is serving as trustee of the Masonic Temple having been elected in 1960 and at present is serving as its secretary. He has held the office of president of the Craftsmen's Club of Rondout Lodge and also served several years as its treasurer. He has also served as District Service Man, District chairman of the Brotherhood Fund, secretary of the Masters and Wardens Association and on many other important committees in the district and in Rondout Lodge.

Local Mason Named to Post

A Kingston man, William A. Evans, 56 Kiersted Avenue, has been appointed to the office of Assistant Grand Lecturer of the Greene-Ulster Masonic District for 1967-68 by Right Worshipful Howard W. Potts, Grand Lecturer of the Grand Lodge, Free and Accepted Masons, of the State of New York with the approval of the Most Worshipful Frank C. Staples, Grand Master of Masons in the State of New York.

Evans has had a most distinguished Masonic record since becoming a member of Rondout Lodge 343, F&AM in 1951. He served faithfully through the chairs of the lodge and was elected Master in 1957. Suggest Municipal Bonds to Ease Bite

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Some brokers and investment advisers now are recommending tax-exempt municipal bonds as a way to offset partially the personal effects of an income tax increase.

Since no federal income tax is paid on such bonds, they become relatively more stable as taxes go higher. As taxes eat into almost all other investment profits, tax-exempts remain unscathed.

A tax-exempt bond that returns 5 per cent interest, for example, is now equal to a taxable return of 6, 7, 8 per cent or even much more, depending on the owner's tax bracket.

The tax-exempt feature is meant to make such bonds attractive to investors, the theory being that the easier it is for municipalities to raise money for sewers, schools and reservoirs, the greater will be the public good.

There are drawbacks to such purchases, as there are with any investments, but there is no denying that such yields, or interest payments, are higher than almost any other type of investment.

One of the big questions in deciding whether to purchase these bonds is the uncertainty about the administration's tax plans.

Regardless of what tax action is taken, or if any tax action at all is taken, the returns on many bonds, taxable or tax exempt, are now near historic highs.

The big drawbacks for the small investor are these: Bonds generally are purchased in multiples of $1,000, a sizable sum to many people; and the tax exemption benefits the big investor the most.

For example, an individual in the 22 per cent income tax bracket, which means a taxable income of $4,000 to $6,000, would receive a return equivalent of 7.05 per cent on his purchase of a tax-exempt, 5.50 per cent bond.

In the 48 per cent bracket, which includes individuals with taxable incomes of $20,000 to $22,000, that same 5.50 per cent bond would provide a return equivalent to 10.58 per cent.

In other words, if there was no such thing as a tax-exempt bond, an investor would have to search out a taxable investment that earned him 10.58 per cent interest. He would search, but he wouldn't find it.

But for the individual with excess funds—and admittedly there are few of this breed—tax-exempt bonds do provide a secure and quite profitable investment.

Gannett Stock May Be Offered

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Stockholders of Gannett Co. Inc. plan to decide on Sept. 1 whether to approve a recapitalization plan that would facilitate a public offering of common stock.

The plan consists of five changes in the present setup and would result in a simplification of the operation, President Paul Miller said Tuesday.

The board of directors of Gannett, which owns 30 newspapers and seven radio and television broadcasting stations, approved the plan Tuesday.

An amendment to the certificate of incorporation would:

—Redesignate the Class A common stock as "common stock";

—Change non-voting Class B common stock into voting Class A common stock.

—Split the new common stock 40 for 1.

—Change the participating preferred stock into the new common stock at 20 for 1.

—Increase the number of shares of common stock which the company is authorized to issue.

The plan provides for an increase in dividend payments and for 10 million shares of common stock, 4,235,700 of which would be outstanding.

Assuming the adoption of the plan, the board intends to establish an annual cash dividend of at least 65 cents a share on the new common stock, Miller said. Dividends on former Class A and Class B common stock would equal $26 a year for each share, as opposed to $7 a year now paid on both classes of stock.

Class B stockholders would receive stock entitling them to vote along with Class A holders. All of the Class A stock now is held by the Frank E. Gannett Newspaper Foundation Inc.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market surged higher in heavy trading early Wednesday.

The Dow Jones industrial average added more than 7 points in the first half hour after breaking through to a new 1967 high Tuesday.

The ability of the Dow rails to make a record peak while the industrials were rising to a yearly high was a classic bull market theory, analysts said. It attracted a host of new buyers.

The ticker tape on the New York Stock Exchange ran four minutes late as prices rose on a broad front.

Gains outnumbered losses by nearly 3 to 1.

International Nickel spurted 3 points, Control Data, Boeing and Polaroid about 2, Magnavox, Zenith, Eastman Kodak, General Foods, Westinghouse Electric, Merck, Johnson-Mansville and Pfizer a point or better.

Big blocks were traded in leading issues.

For Retiring Nurse

Q "I am a registered nurse, ready to retire at 65. I am quite alone and can't afford to make mistakes. My assets consist of a home, free and clear; $56,000 in growth stocks at little or no yield; savings of $8,000. I would like to convert my investments, putting $30,000 into a straight life annuity and $30,000 into income stocks. I can work part-time to supplement my needs. Is this a wise program and what stocks would you suggest?"

A I am always very much pleased to try to help someone in your profession. Your program as you have outlined it appears to be well suited for maximum income together with a moderate degree of protection against inflation. Depending on your exact date of birth, a straight life annuity at age 65 should bring you a guaranteed monthly income of about $170 for a $30,000 consideration, or close to a seven per cent return.

As income producers, I suggest Borg-Warner, yielding five per cent; Southern Ry., 5.3; C. I. T. Financial, 5.5; International Harvester, 4.6; Pacific Lighting, 5.5 and Iowa Power & Light, 5.2. The average return on these shares would be 5.2 per cent, and the last three issues particularly have a potential for future price and dividend rises to help offset the devaluation of the dollar over a period of time.

Q "I own 150 Ampex. Recently the 5 1/2 debentures of 1991 sold at 146 1/2. The common pays no dividends. Would it be wise to sell the common and buy $4,000 convertible 5 1/2s?"

A Ampex debentures are convertible into common at 27 1/2 and their recent conversion value was roughly $1,400. Their current yield is 3.6 per cent and the conversion privilege carries a premium of about $65 per share. The debentures have less downside risk and lower upside potential. If you wish to stay with this volatile situation on these terms, you might well make the exchange.

Refuse to Cross Phone Picket Lines

NEW YORK (AP) — Many long-distance and overseas telephone operators have refused to cross picket lines set up by striking phone installers and maintenance men at the American telephone and telegraph Co. Long Lines Building.

A spokesman for AT&T said Tuesday night that about 40 per cent of the operators were on duty, and they and supervisory personnel were providing "near normal" service.

Drake Hearing

Adjourned Again

Willy Drake, 26, of 11 Gill Street, whose second degree assault case was adjourned in City Court Monday until today, received another postponement this morning. The case is scheduled for Friday.

Drake, accused of stabbing his girl friend, Grace Rivera, had his case adjourned Monday for a preliminary hearing. The hearing will be held Friday.

Drake was arrested Saturday night by City Police around 7:30 p. m., on Sycamore Street, after Miss Rivera was taken to Kingston Hospital suffering from slash wounds. Her condition is good.

Drake has been confined to Ulster County Jail in lieu of $500 cash bail. However, City Court Judge Hubert Richter today instructed Drake's mother she could post property bond for the defendant.

Ask Special Session To Correct Medicaid

ELMIRA, N.Y. (AP) — A Republican state senator asked Gov. Rockefeller today to call a special session of the Legislature "to correct the New York State Medicaid program before it gets completely out of hand."

William T. Smith, who represents the 48th district in the state's Southern Tier, said in a letter to the governor that "many other legislators throughout the state" shared his concern about "the dangerous ramifications of the program."

"It is not inconceivable," he said, "that the day will come soon when the rise in taxes at all levels of government, caused by Medicaid and paid by the same taxpayers, will reduce the net income of these taxpayers to the extent that the majority of our population will be eligible for the program."

Smith told the governor that four counties in his district anticipate a combined $1 million budget deficit this year for the program and that the city of Auburn has predicted a $400,000 deficit.

"The potential cost to New York State," he wrote, "could be $625 million, practically all of the estimated revenue from the 2 per cent New York Sales Tax this year."

Smith said he could not "quarrel with the basic premise that medical assistance to the needy is morally right," but that he feels that "the Medicaid Program in New York State goes too far."

Refuse to Cross Phone Picket Lines

NEW YORK (AP) — Many long-distance and overseas telephone operators have refused to cross picket lines set up by striking phone installers and maintenance men at the American telephone and telegraph Co. Long Lines Building.

A spokesman for AT&T said Tuesday night that about 40 per cent of the operators were on duty, and they and supervisory personnel were providing "near normal" service.

Spokesmen for the AFL-CIO

Communications Workers of America (CWA) said there were delays in placing calls, especially overseas calls.

The operators are members of Local 1150 of the CWA. The strikers are members of Local 1101.

The strike of installers and maintenance men, who are demanding protection when they go into high crime areas, spread Tuesday from Brooklyn to Manhattan, the Bronx and Queens.

Afraid to Reopen

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — A white cafe owner says he is afraid to open his cafe in a Negro district of the city after it was damaged by a gasoline bomb.

Officers quoted cafe-inn owner Gus Tourlos as saying he was afraid to open again after the Tuesday incident.

Orbiter No. 5 Seeks Out Star To Hold Course

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — The last of America's orbiting shuttles—Lunar Orbiter 5—rolled out gently in space today, cocked an eye toward its guiding star and found a blur.

"We've got a star, but we don't know which one," a spokesman at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory said after two attempts were made to find the bright star Canopus.

The craft, he said, has to search with its light sensor for some bright heavenly body, and lock onto the light, to maintain its proper attitude in space. Canopus is normally the light source used.

The stubby craft was boosted aloft from Cape Kennedy, Fla., Tuesday in a launch that was called "textbook perfect."

Orbiter's goal, after its 250,187-mile journey through space, was to slip into orbit around the moon, from which it was to take pictures of the lunar surface.

Previous orbiters looked specifically for safe landing spots for astronauts, a task Lunar Orbiter 5 will also perform, but the main interest with the current mission lies in a classic scientific riddle.

Astronomers have long argued over what formed the moon's lumpy, pock-marked features—meteor impacts or volcanic eruptions. The weight of most opinion favors the impact theory.

Drake Hearing

Adjudged Again

Willy Drake, 26, of 11 Gill Street, whose second degree assault case was adjourned in City Court Monday until today, received another postponement this morning. The case is scheduled for Friday.

Drake, accused of stabbing his girl friend, Grace Rivera, had his case adjourned Monday for a preliminary hearing. The hearing will be aired Friday.

Drake was arrested Saturday night by City Police around 7:30 p. m., on Sycamore Street, after Miss Rivera was taken to Kingston Hospital suffering from slash wounds. Her condition is good.

Drake has been confined to Ulster County Jail in lieu of $500 cash bail. However, City Court Judge Hubert Richter today instructed Drake's mother she could post property bond for the defendant.

Ask Special Session To Correct Medicaid

ELMIRA, N.Y. (AP)—A Republican state senator asked Gov. Rockefeller today to call a special session of the Legislature "to correct the New York State Medicaid program before it gets completely out of hand."

William T. Smith, who represents the 48th district in the state's Southern Tier, said in a letter to the governor that "many other legislators throughout the state" shared his concern about "the dangerous ramifications of the program."

"It is not inconceivable," he said, "that the day will come soon when the rise in taxes at all levels of government, caused by Medicaid and paid by the same taxpayers, will reduce the net income of these taxpayers to the extent that the majority of our population will be eligible for the program."

Smith told the governor that four counties in his district anticipate a combined $1 million budget deficit this year for the program and that the city of Auburn has predicted a $400,000 deficit.

"The potential cost to New York State," he wrote, "could be $625 million, practically all of the estimated revenue from the 2 per cent New York Sales Tax this year."

Smith said he could not "quarrel with the basic premise that medical assistance to the needy is morally right," but that he feels that "the Medicaid Program in New York State goes too far."

Fire Companies Expecting Some New Equipment

A report by the deputy chief, announcement of new equipment, and a discussion of conservation permits for construction of water holes in streams were on the agenda of the quarterly four-company meeting of Woodstock Fire Department held at Zena Monday evening.

Approximately 50 members of the Woodstock Fire Department were in attendance with Richard Mellert of Woodstock Fire Co. No. 4 in charge.

Deputy Chief Peter Koehn reported a total of 44 calls for the entire department for the first six months of the year, with five calls during July. He also stated that new equipment in the amount of almost $2,000 was on order and expected within two months. This equipment would be distributed among the four companies according to an equipment list submitted by the four captains.

Water Holes

The project of digging water holes in streams throughout the township, for the purpose of pumping water for fires, was held in abeyance due to the necessity of obtaining a permit from the Conservation Department for the purpose. It was pointed out that frequently it was impossible to pump water from the streams due to the shallow conditions.

A new memorial plaque for use of the entire department was submitted by Deputy Chief Koehn through the Woodstock Lumber Company.

Progress on the fireman's course proposed by the department was reported along with a special fire drill held between Woodstock Company No. 3 and the Phoenixia Fire Department. Receipt of a shipment of slides on loan from the Colonie Fire Department for use during Fire Prevention Week was reported by the Deputy Chief.

Uniforms

A report on a fire police school held in Uppstate New York was given by William Huty. An attempt would be made to have all fire policemen wear a definite uniform. Growth of the fire police organization was also stressed, along with the idea that fire policemen became officially police officers only during a fire or emergency in which the fire company participated.

Questions concerning the role of the fire department in case of riots were voiced, with the reply that the firemen were strictly firemen and were not to take part in any riots.

The success of the Zena bazaar for the benefit of the fire company, the sponsorship of the refreshment booth at the annual Rawhide Ranch Rodeo by the Lake Hill firemen, and the date of October 30 for another four-company meeting at the fire headquarters in Woodstock were other items.

Drama Benefits Library Fair

"The Wicked Magician," presented for the benefit of the Woodstock Library Fair was produced recently by the Creative Arts Camp, Ruth Ingalls, director. A German folk story, dramatized by Anne Laven, drama director, it tells a tale of adventure in the form of a dance-drama.

Music was secured from the works of the late Henry Cowell of Woodstock and the cast, composed largely of children, included: Kate Luby, magician; Julie Hutchins, Robber Hotzenplatz; Cora Lave, Kasperly; Jennifer Schultz, Seppel; Michael Goldfarb, the book; Amy Elwyn, the frog; Valerie Munson, grandmother; Eve Moscovitz, police chief; Debbie Judy Powner, coffee pot; Judy Coleman, first stage manager; Meredith Mills, second stage manager; Laurie Williams, third stage manager.

Also, Lisa Mashayehli, Mrs. Schine; Helen Schaefer, Mrs. Schiller; Peggy Schlomann, the tree; Sarah Northland, the flower; Nina Schultz and Vicki Munson, the doors.

Michele Goldfarb was assistant director and Mona Barry and Mimi Witt were technical assistants.

Theatrical events are held at the camp each Saturday night for parents and friends.

New Sculptress Making Debut

A new young sculptress, Sara Lutrean Thomas is making her Woodstock debut at the Gardner Gallery, Mead's Mountain Road.

Handicapped from birth, she has been said to have transcended physical deficiencies through talent and her ability to create from wood, marble, as well as on paper.

A native of South Carolina, she studied at the university there under scholarship as well as at the New York Art Students League. She studied under Jose deCreeft for two years and had her work exhibited in New York City. Miss Thomas' now has an open-air hillside studio in the Catskills.

She signs her work "Lutrean."

Opera Company Score Previewed

A preview of the Turnau Opera Company's opening production for the summer season, "The Barber of Seville," may be seen by viewing slides on display at the opera box office, 54 Tinker Street.

The company's music director, Warren Wilson opens his season Aug. 7 and 8 for two performances at the Woodstock School, 8:30 p. m. curtain time.

Wilson recently returned from Aspen, Colo., where he was studying privately with composer Darius Milhaud.

Among the cast are Lorine Buffington, soprano, who plays a homely, unhappy old maid and Franklin Summers, bass, a fat, bumbling bachelor who wants nothing to do with Lorine. In real life the two are happily married newlyweds. Lorine and Frank Summers.

Saugerties residents may purchase opera tickets at the M. G. Banks store. Tickets may be secured in Kingston at Abrams Music Store and the Book Center, Ulster County Shopping Plaza.

Hadassah Party

Woodstock Hadassah will hold a card and game party Tuesday, Aug. 8 at 2 p. m. at the home of Mrs. S. B. Newman, Millstream Road.

Funds stemming from the event are earmarked for the re-establishment of the Hadassah Hospital at Mount Scopus. Plans call for the hospital to be rebuilt and converted to a rehabilitation center.

Methodist Fair

The annual summer fair and chicken bar-b-que of Overlook Methodist Church will be held Saturday, Aug. 12 from 9:30 to 4 on the grounds of the new church building on the Woodstock-Bearsville Road.

Surprise attractions are planned for adults and children.

National Survey Reveals Doctor Key to Checkups

Americans have a warm, confident attitude towards their physician and at least 90 per cent would go for annual health checkups if he urged them to do so, it was revealed in a recent study made by the American Cancer Society.

"Fifty-seven per cent of those questioned had never had a physical examination including tests for cancer; 26 per cent have checkups regularly, and 17 per cent have had an examination at one time or another," Dr. Henri H. Janssen, newly-elected president of the Society's Ulster County Unit said here today.

The national study, based on an 18-page questionnaire, was prepared to probe the public's attitudes on checkups, general knowledge of the cancer warning signals, feelings about cancer, personal contacts with the disease, opinions about regular checkups, cost and time factors. Dr. Janssen said it involved a random sampling of 2,099 respondents throughout the United States.

In the study, those who go regularly to their doctor for checkups seem more enthusiastic about physician's advice than those who do not go. Women seem to feel slightly more favorable about the physician's recommendation than men, and higher socio-economic groups more than lower ones, Dr. Janssen said.

"The study seems to show that people's attitudes towards checkups may well rest upon their doctor's attitudes, or what they might think their doctor's attitude is," Dr. Janssen commented.

"Yet the public apparently is not at all sure how their doctors feel about cancer checkups. Forty-three per cent say they do not know how their doctors feel."

Since the physician is so vital in making the checkup program a success, the American Cancer Society looks increasingly to the medical profession. Dr. Janssen said, "for encouragement of the life-saving annual health checkup. When cancer is involved, the patient and physician share a life-or-death responsibility, and in detecting early cancer through checkups, there is a life-saving opportunity which neither should miss."

The study was conducted for the American Cancer Society by Dr. Seymour Lieberman, a New York public opinion analyst, Dr. Janssen said.

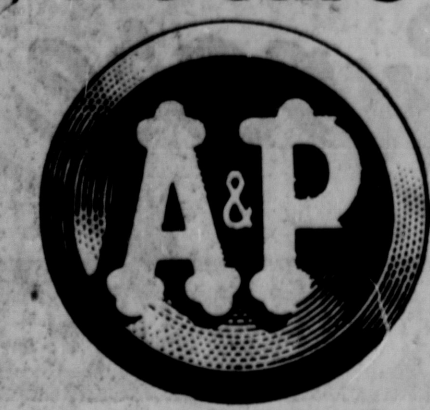

Fugitives Mother Receives Reward

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP) — When the Rio Arriba County courthouse was attacked by gunmen June 5, Gov. David Cargo offered a $500 reward from his own pocket for the man described by state police as the most dangerous member of the group accused of the raid.

The reward went to Auerilla Martinez of Canjilon, mother of Baltazar Martinez, after she negotiated with officers for her son's surrender July 4. He now is out on bail.

Cargo said Tuesday the canceled check had been returned by his bank and had been signed over to Martinez.

we care

It Isn't easy to buy bean coffee!

Nowadays, very few stores offer you bean coffee.

Why does A&P still offer coffees in the bean?

Basically, because "We Care."

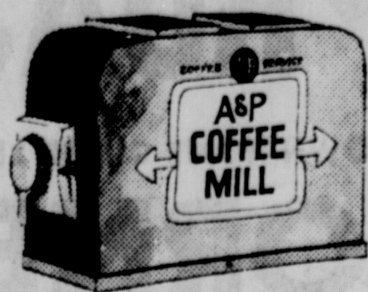

Specifically, because we know these facts:

The coffee bean is nature's seal that holds the flavor.

NO MATTER HOW IT'S PACKAGED.

The shorter the time between grinding the beans and brewing your coffee, the greater the flavor.

So if you want the finest cup of "The Think Drink" you've ever tasted, buy and brew one of A&P's three Bean Coffee blends...

Eight O'Clock, Red Circle or Bokar.

Not every store can offer you custom-ground bean coffee.

A&P can and does.

City Park Activities

Highlights of activities in City Parks during the past week are as follows:

BLOCK — Monday afternoon they had a softball game against the Kingston Boys Club. Block won 9-1 and had 16 hits. Tuesday they held their dog show, with Steve Sickler and Tom Bell the winners in the Best of Show category. On Wednesday they had two softball games against Loughran Park. During the morning, their JV team beat Loughran Park for the championship 8-3. Jerry Smart hit a home run and Babs Golgoski was the winning pitcher but Ronnie Burris was the star. He was at bat four times, hit four home runs and had six RBIs. In the afternoon a group of boys from the park played the older boys at Loughran Park and were beat 13-10. Thursday afternoon Pat Haber and Pat Tiano took the children swimming at Kingston Point Beach.

HASBROUCK — Monday afternoon they held a cook-out. The children brought their own hot dogs and hamburgers. Wednesday was the JV game against Hutton Park. Thursday at Hutton Park Raymond Gay won first place in the junior boys division for the softball throw. His trophy made number seven for Hasbrouck. Thursday afternoon they took 25 children on a trip to Academy Green, the Senate House and Forsyth Park. The children went swimming at the Academy Green and at Forsyth. They also visited the zoo at Forsyth Park.

LOUGHRAN — Monday, the junior league softball team played against Block Park at the opponents field and was defeated. Thursday Loughran Park sent four representatives to the softball throw tournament at Hutton Park. In the senior boys division, they won a trophy after Larry Crantz beat the contestants from the other parks.

The other representatives were Kim Kearney, junior girls; Marco Tiano, junior boys; Kathy Schornaker, senior girls. During the afternoon on Thursday, the park director took 13 children swimming at Kingston Point Beach. Friday the children had an arts and crafts lesson with Mrs. Kathleen Fletcher.

FORSYTH — On Tuesday afternoon a trip was taken with a 15 children participating. They went to WGHQ Radio Station and the County Office Building. Charles Dunham and Mary Lynn Back were the leaders for the trip. Wednesday, tether ball and punch ball were played with Leslie, Dawn and Debbie Oathout as outstanding players. Thursday, a checker tournament was held. Ellen Colburn was the winner. In the afternoon they were visited by Academy Green and Hasbrouck Parks. Friday the Jaycee Tournament was held there and the children watched the tennis matches.

ACADEMY GREEN — Monday morning several new games were given to the park. This allows for a larger selection of games and a larger number of children able to use the park's equipment. Wednesday they had their softball throw contest with the two winners being Nick Mauris, Junior Boys and Cynthia Johnson, Junior Girls. Cynthia Johnson won a trophy and a prize at Hutton Park. Thursday, Wednesday afternoon the children made hats out of sponge under the direction of Mrs. Kathleen Fletcher. The highlight of the trip was Academy Green's first field trip to Forsyth Park. Approximately 17 children participated. Each child brought their lunch. After eating lunch they observed the animals and then went to the playground area. Everyone then went swimming and after the final visit to the playground, they walked back to the Academy Green. Friday, due to the rain, attendance was poor and activities were confined to the picnic tables.

HUTTON — Monday morning, Joe McTague, Sheila Barnes and Debbie Crespino with the help of Jim Liles, judged the annual dog show. There were 10 entries.

Tuesday Debbie Crespino took seven children to the Central Fire Station. Desiree and Damon Crespino, Douglas Doyle, Jill Boughton, Kathy Harden, Rusty and Mike Madden took the trip. The children learned about the duties of a fireman. Thursday afternoon during the arts and crafts session under the direction of Kathy Fletcher the children made hats out of sponge. At the softball throw tournament Helene Marz won the third trophy for Hutton Park. This week they are planning to take a trip to WKNY Radio Station.

Rocky Defends Guard Boss on NAACP Attack

NEW YORK (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller has defended his state National Guard commander against an attack by the state NAACP.

Donald Lee, president of the state chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, had demanded the resignation of state guard head Maj. Gen. Almerin C. O'Hara.

Lee contended that O'Hara stated that he would use grenades and bazookas against snipers, if necessary. In a letter to the governor, Lee said if the remark attributed to O'Hara was true, he should be removed immediately.

Rockefeller Monday termed O'Hara "one of the best military leaders in the country," and said O'Hara's remark was taken out of context. He added that O'Hara had a New York State delegation withdrawn from a conference in New Orleans in 1964 because a hotel wanted to discriminate against a Negro colonel on O'Hara's staff.

There was no immediate comment from Lee.

Thruway Income All Time High

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — A record number of travelers helped boost income to an all-time high on the State Thruway during the first half of this year.

The Thruway Authority reported today that, from January through June, vehicles logged a total of 1,496,079,091 miles on the superhighway, compared with 1,406,528,525 in the same period last year.

Operating income for the first half of 1967 totaled $37,458,701, compared with $35,500,648 in the same span a year ago.

The agency said a surge in passenger car traffic during June — obviously motorists bound for Expo 67 in Montreal — contributed to the new records.

Built Over Gas Pool

Medicine Hat, Alberta, is built over a natural gas pool and its streets were illuminated with natural gas as early as 1890. Street lights glowed day and night, it being cheaper to let them burn than to hire someone to turn them on and off.

Woodstock Presents Pirandello Play

By DOROTHY A. NAREL

Luigi Pirandello, the Italian born author of "Six Characters in Search of an Author," (a work later filmed with Greta Garbo in the leading role), also wrote the heavy-handed "Six Characters in Search of an Author." The latter bowed to a first nighter audience at the Woodstock Playhouse last night.

The Nobel prize winning author's work is marked by a constant seeking for reality. The problem of personality also seems to be an obsession with him so much so that the play begins to take on overtones customarily associated with melodramatic Italian operas.

The play is not new — it's been around for a long time. Its message, however, is contemporary although the play itself is an early version of a trip into the "Twilight Zone."

Featured in the leading roles of "are they or are they not real" characters are the familiar Woodstock Playhouse faces of William Metz, Jane Lloyd-Jones, and Maurice Edwards. Incidental parts are taken capably by Del Hinkley, Martha Miller, Liz Lamkin, Fred Miller, Robert Mumford, William Collins, Douglas Condit, Mary-Jean Feton, Margaret Rooney, Paul Brno, Tom Collins and Hank Hipple. Greta Cummings makes a brief but effective appearance as Madame Pace with children's parts going to Simon Leonard, Elizabeth Baldridge and Laura Klonis. The latter two apparently alternate in the production.

Opening action in the current Woodstock Production is casual and good and transition to the invading "characters" is smoothly accomplished. Grasping the sense of what is happening may be difficult and while the author's message is eventually delivered, the audience may or may not be receptive to it.

I concur with Pirandello's views that we have different faces for different situations and that people resist facing life by creating illusions. This much the play achieved for me last night.

Metz portrays a tormented father and in his obsession to enact his own reality, he questions the reality of the actors on stage. In his role, Metz does a delicate weaving of the perplexing idea of illusion versus reality although at times he overacts.

Jane Lloyd-Jones is poetic as the mother who takes off with a lover and later lives in a hell on earth in atonement for her sins. Tanny McDonald is effective as the daughter forced into prostitution but William Ade's role as the son is not enough challenge for his talents. Maurice Edwards, who directs for Woodstock Playhouse, is cast in a director's role in this play. His is the only comic relief in this vehicle.

Harold Baldridge directs the play and David F. Segal provides excellent lighting effects at the conclusion of act three.

Rounding out the Woodstock Playhouse staff for these summer productions: Ronald Schaeffer, production stage manager; Alan Shevli, technical director; Pamela Dendy, properties and costumes; Thomas Ward, assistant technical director; Elizabeth Baro, executive secretary; Babs Ade, Susan Price, administrative assistants; Linda Materson, housemanager; Guy Fischetti, Joseph Dunn, Ronald Young, housemen; Erik Van Cort, photographer.

Working with the Playhouse this summer as apprentices are Melissa Barlan, Paul Brno, Melanie Chartoff, John Clausen, Tom Collins, William Collins, Doug Condit, Brenda Crawford, David Erde, Mary Jean Feton, Hank Hipple, Sylvia Hummel, Mary Petersham, Margaret Rooney, Ann Roth, and Ralph Santinelli. "Six Characters in Search of an Author" will continue on stage through Sunday. Tickets are available at the box office.

Fees High In Litigation Involving T-Way

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Two attorneys representing the State Thruway Authority in its continuing legal battle with the state have earned $268,000 in fees, says a spokesman for the Authority.

It also was reported Tuesday that three court referees have received a total of $216,289 and court stenographers reportedly were paid $46,800 for recording the court sessions, which began in 1964.

The attorneys are John R. Davidson and Charles S. Woolsey, both of this city. At issue in the dispute is about $24 million. The state contends the Thruway owes this balance on a $101-million loan for construction of the super highway. The Authority, which paid back $77 million, says the balance belongs to it, because of improvements made to state roads at Thruway interchanges.

A year ago Tuesday, the State Court of Claims awarded the Thruway close to $31 million. Since the award was handed down, the Thruway has been earning interest on the money, $100,000 a month, for a total of $1.2 million.

The Appellate Division of State Supreme Court has upheld the Court of Claims award. The case now is headed for the state's highest court, the Court of Appeals.

If the state should lose its case, the $24 million would be treated as a debt due.

'Oklahoma' Scheduled for August 8-20

"Oklahoma," the grand old dad of American musicals will be revived at the Woodstock Playhouse August 8 and will play through August 20 according to M. Edgar Rosenblum, executive director.

Rogers and Hammerstein's memorable story of Laurey and Curly, replete with those great songs, including "People Will Say We're in Love," and "Surrey With the Fringe on Top," will be revived in a lusty, boisterous production. Nimble-footed dancers and singers will be cast as the fun-loving Oklahoma citizens.

"Oklahoma" put America on top of the musical theatre world for its solid, all-American zest, bounce and priceless music. Tickets for both plays may be obtained at the box office of the Woodstock Playhouse. Current is 8:40 p. m., except Sunday when it is at 7:30.

The Woodstock Playhouse season will conclude with "Kiss Me Kate" slated to open on August 22nd. It will play through September 4. This is Shakespeare done up in one of the most delightful song fests of Broadway.

When the Woodstock Playhouse closes, productions by the Hudson Valley Repertory Theatre are expected to be seen. A fund raising campaign for this non-profit organization is now in progress.

Woodstock Presents Pirandello Play

By DOROTHY A. NAREL

Luigi Pirandello, the Italian-born author of "Six Characters in Search of an Author," (a work later filmed with Greta Garbo in the leading role), also wrote the heavy-handed "Six Characters in Search of an Author." The latter bowed to a first nighter audience at the Woodstock Playhouse last night.

The Nobel prize winning author's work is marked by a constant seeking for reality. The problem of personality also seems to be an obsession with him so much so that the play begins to take on overtones customarily associated with melodramatic Italian operas.

The play is not new — it's been around for a long time. Its message, however, is contemporary although the play itself is an early version of a trip into the "Twilight Zone." Featured in the leading roles of "are they or are they not real" characters are the familiar Woodstock Playhouse faces of William Metz, Jane Lloyd-Jones, Tanny McDonald, William Ade and Maurice Edwards. Incidental parts are taken capably by Del Hinkley, Martha Miller, Liz Lamkin, Fred Miller, Robert Mumford, William Collins, Douglas Condit, Mary-Jean Feton, Margaret Rooney, Paul Brno, Tom Collins and Hank Hipple. Greta Cummings makes a brief but effective appearance as Madame Pace with children's parts going to Simon Leonard, Elizabeth Baldridge and Laura Klonis. The latter two apparently alternate in the production.

Opening action in the current Woodstock Production is casual and good and transition to the invading "characters" is smoothly accomplished.

Grasping the sense of what is happening may be difficult and while the author's message is eventually delivered, the audience may or may not be receptive to it.

I concur with Pirandello's views that we have different faces for different situations and that people resist facing life by creating illusions. This much the play achieved for me last night.

Metz portrays a tormented father and in his obsession to enact his own reality, he questions the reality of the actors on stage. In his role, Metz does a delicate weaving of the perplexing idea of illusion versus reality although at times he overacts.

Jane Lloyd-Jones is poetic as the mother who takes off with a lover and later lives in a hell on earth in atonement for her sins. Tanny McDonald is effective as the daughter forced into prostitution but William Ade's role as the son is not enough challenge for his talents. Maurice Edwards, who directs for Woodstock Playhouse, is cast in a director's role in this play. His is the only comic relief in this vehicle.

Harold Baldridge directs the play and David F. Segal provides excellent lighting effects at the conclusion of act three.

Rounding out the Woodstock Playhouse staff for these summer productions: Ronald Schaeffer, production stage manager; Alan Shevlo, technical director; Pamela Dendy, properties and costumes; Thomas Ward, assistant technical director; Elizabeth Bare, executive secretary; Babs Ade, Susan Price, administrative assistants; Linda Materson, housemanager; Guy Fischetti, Joseph Dunn, Ronald Young, housemen; Erik Van Cort, photographer.

Working with the Playhouse this summer as apprentices are Melissa Barlan, Paul Brno, Melanie Chartoff, John Clausen, Tom Collins, William Collins, Doug Condit, Brenda Crawford, David Erde, Mary Jean Feton, Hank Hipple, Sylvia Hummel, Mary Petersham, Margaret Rooney, Ann Roth, and Ralph Santinelli. "Six Characters in Search of an Author," will continue on stage through Sunday. Tickets are available at the box office.

Fees High In Litigation Involving T-Way

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Two attorneys representing the State Thruway Authority in its continuing legal battle with the state have earned $268,000 in fees, says a spokesman for the Authority.

It also was reported Tuesday that three court referees have received a total of $216,289 and court stenographers reportedly were paid $46,800 for recording the court sessions, which began in 1964.

The attorneys are John R. Davidson and Charles S. Woolsey, both of this city.

At issue in the dispute is about $24 million. The state contends the Thruway owes this balance on a $101-million loan for construction of the super highway. The Authority, which paid back $77 million, says the balance belongs to it, because of improvements made to state roads at Thruway interchanges.

A year ago Tuesday, the State Court of Claims awarded the Thruway close to $31 million. Since the award was handed down, the Thruway has been earning interest on the money. $100,000 a month, for a total of $1.2 million.

The Appellate Division of State Supreme Court has upheld the Court of Claims award. The case now is headed for the state's highest court, the Court of Appeals.

If the state should lose its case, the $24 million would be treated as a debt due.

DOWN BY THE WATERSIDE—One of the special programs offered at Camp Wendy is the canoes unit. Here girls practice swimming and boating skills in preparation for a five-day camping trip to Bear Mountain State Park. At practice session are Sheila Anderson of Saugerties, Marcia Mogel of Kingston, Lisa Backman of Ellenville, Marian Mitchell of Fishkill, Robin Perlmutter of Monticello and Lynn Attard of East Meadow. (Freeman photo by Wagenfohr)

WISHING SCROLLS—Girls prepare scrolls for the ceremonial campfire to celebrate 50 years of Camp Wendy. Each unit makes a wish for the future of the camp to place on the fire. Preparing scrolls are Cynthia Haines, Ellenville; Linda Baker, Gardiner; Dorothy Bartz, New Paltz; Nancy Nitschke of Saugerties, counselor; Betty Jane Christensen of Lyndhurst, N. J.; Serena Cesarini Sforza of Rome, Italy and Linda Maguire of Lyndhurst, N. J. (Freeman photo by Wagenfohr)

Open House to Mark 50 Years of Camping

Ulster County Council of Girl Scouts is celebrating its 50th. Anniversary at Camp Wendy in Wallkill, with an open house Thursday from 3 to 9 p. m.

During the afternoon and early evening visitors will be able to see camp in action and have guided tours around the campsite. A formal flag ceremony will be followed by a cookout at 6 p. m. and a special anniversary program at 7:30.

It was 50 years ago that the first lone troops used the property which is now our established Camp Wendy, for summer camping.

The first Girl Scout troop was organized in the Ulster County area in Kingston in 1916. By 1917, active troops were formed in Wallkill, New Paltz, Ellenville and Highland.

Ulster County Council now serves 3,144 girls registered in troops with 617 active adult volunteers. Last year 1,024 girls used the facilities at Camp Wendy for both established and troop camping.

Because gathering around a campfire at the close of a happy day is one of the most memorable parts of camping, a ceremonial campfire has been chosen as a way of telling the story of 50 years at Wendy. Milestones commemorated by girls adding logs to build up the fire are as follows:

Troop camping at the Wendy site by the first lone troops; opening of Peter Pan, the "temporary" dining hall; bequest of the property by Marion Borden and the incorporation of the Council; the acquiring of additional land in 1936; planting of 1,000 trees on the site; the Farm-Aids project during World War II; the reopening of camp after the war years; launching of the long-range Camp Development plan; dedication of the new dining hall in 1963; and a wish for the years ahead.

Marion Borden probably had greater influence on the development of Girl Scouting in Ulster County than any other single individual. Miss Borden was leader of a lone troop in Wallkill, and later was commissioner of the Council. By the early 1920's, she established and maintained a camp and built buildings on 30 acres of her "home farm," among them Peter Pan, the "temporary" dining hall which served for over 40 years.

At Miss Borden's death, local Girl Scouting was remembered with a bequest of this property, and sum of money for its maintenance. Legal aspects of this bequest were the major force behind the organization and incorporation of the Council.

More Land Acquired

With a growing membership came the need for more land.

In 1936, the acquisition of 23 more acres brought Camp Wendy to its present size. During the next few years, 1,000 trees were planted on the site.

During World War II, Camp Wendy was rented to Region II as a Farm Aide Project, where girls combined the enjoyment of Girl Scout Camping with vital aid to local farmers during the severe manpower shortage of the wartime harvest seasons.

The year 1947, saw Camp Wendy reopened after a four year lapse. Excepting for World War II, this site has been used each year as a Girl Scout Camp for resident, troop, and day camping. Many council-wide activities have been held there.

The council was advised by the National Camping Consultant that a long-range plan should be made for camp, and the site layout should be redesigned in several aspects. The number of Scouts in the council was rapidly increasing, the need for year-round troop camping facilities was pressing. All the original structures had outlived their expectancy. The years 1957-58-59 saw many hours and hard work on the part of the many volunteers and friends of Scouting result in a plan for the long-range development of the Camp Wendy site. In spite of setbacks, plans went slowly forward.

Delay Noted on School Construction at RVCS

The construction picture at the Rondout Valley Middle School is clouded today, in contrast to the brightness of a short month ago. In the beginning of July, Percy Greene, clerk of the works, was looking forward optimistically to a fall completion date—"barring unforeseen difficulties". Now, the difficulties—strikes at the brickyard and by the roofers' union—are only too evident, and the outlook has changed considerably.

Greene estimates a three to four month hold-up, with a probable March completion date instead of the late October or early November one that had been projected. There is no indication at this time, he said, when either strike will be settled. The delay is particularly discouraging in view of the excellent rate of progress that has been maintained.

On the plus side, work on the partitions, concrete block laying and pouring of concrete inside the building is going ahead. The heating men, plumbers, and electricians are also continuing their work.

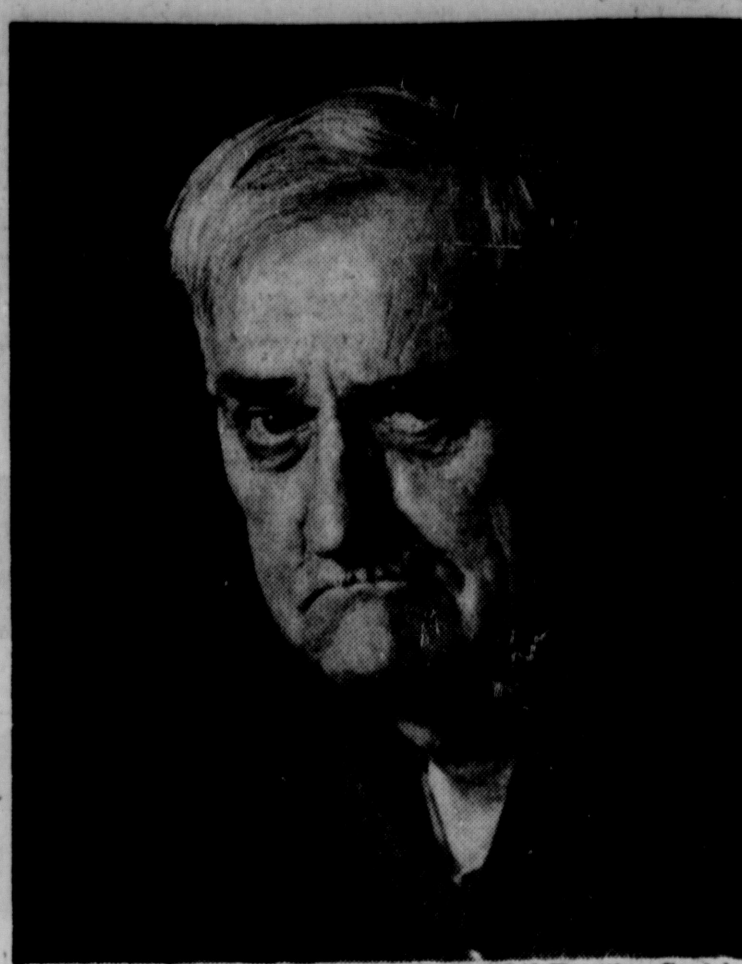

Operations at the site of the high school additions will not be affected to any great extent by the brick and roofing strikes. Greene explained that workers there have a good supply of brick on hand and will probably not have too much difficulty obtaining whatever additional amount may be needed. The scheduled completion date, the beginning of September, in time for the opening of school on September 6, has been put back a month. All steel on the classroom addition and the loading platform is in place; however, the classroom addition will not be quite ready, and there will be a delay of approximately six weeks on the delivery of kitchen equipment, Greene said.

Cookie Money for Hall

After thousands and thousands of Girl Scout cookies were sold, enough money was accumulated for the building and equipping of the new dining hall, and in 1963 this was formally dedicated.

Camp Wendy offers a six-week program of resident camping each summer and can accommodate 300 girls. It is also used extensively throughout the year for troop camping, and will be the site this year for a one-week day camp. For the first time this year troop and stay camping was introduced, through which troops coming to camp during the regular camping season, providing their own leadership had the opportunity to enjoy out of doors, and use the facilities of the camp for short periods of time.

Miss Anne Lummis, of the local field staff is director of Camp Wendy, and Mrs. Harry Cornwell is presently serving as camping chairman for the Ulster County Council of Girl Scouts, which is one of the 13 member agencies of the Ulster County Community Chest.

TRUSTING SOUL—A photograph entitled Trusting Soul by William C. Sill, Photo Workshop, 616 Broadway, has been accepted for the 76th Annual Exhibition of Professional Photography, the largest and most comprehensive exhibition of professional photography in North America. The exhibition is scheduled to open July 2 in the Portland, Ore. Coliseum in conjunction with the 76th International Exposition of Professional Photography. More than 4,000 prints were judged by professional photographers from across the nation, all of whom have earned the coveted PP of A Master of Photography degree. Only 800 were accepted for the exhibition.

Grahamsville Treasures

Two special exhibits will highlight the 88th annual Little World's Fair at Grahamsville on Aug. 19.

There will be a family antique show with cherished things which will never be in shops because they will never be sold, and an art show reflecting the local talent of the Tri-Valley community.

Among the prized exhibits will be a three foot model of a Delaware and Hudson Canal boat, made by Nicholas Bruck one long ago winter when his father's canal boat was tied up at Rondout. The history of this region is interwoven with the annals of the canal and the Napanoch to Denning Plank Road.

A piece of yellow glaze pottery, a mate to one in the Henry Ford museum, antique toys, dishes, glassware, including such curiosities as a Freer and Revo bottle from the Ellenville glass factory, will be shown.

Local artist's work will be on display along with some special items such as a priceless collection of early watercolors of wild flowers.

Open House to Mark 50 Years of Camping

Ulster County Council of Girl Scouts is celebrating its 50th Anniversary at Camp Wendy in Wallkill, with an open house Thursday from 3 to 9 p. m.

During the afternoon and early evening visitors will be able to see camp in action and have guided tours around the campsite. A formal flag ceremony will be followed by a cookout at 6 p. m. and a special anniversary program at 7:30.

It was 50 years ago that the first lone troops used the property which is now our established Camp Wendy, for summer camping.

The first Girl Scout troop was organized in the Ulster County area in Kingston in 1916. By 1917, active troops were formed in Wallkill, New Paltz, Ellenville and Highland. Ulster County Council now serves 3,144 girls registered in troops with 617 active adult volunteers. Last year 1,024 girls used the facilities at Camp Wendy for both established and troop camping.

Because gathering around a campfire at the close of a happy day is one of the most memorable parts of camping, a ceremonial campfire has been chosen as a way of telling the story of 50 years at Wendy. Milestones commemorated by girls adding logs to build up the fire are as follows:

DOWN BY THE WATERSIDE—One of the special programs offered at Camp Wendy is the canoes unit. Here girls practice swimming and boating skills in preparation for a five-day camping trip to Bear Mountain State Park. At practice session are Sheila Anderson of Saugerties, Marcia Mogel of Kingston, Lisa Backman of Ellenville, Marian Mitchell of Fishkill, Robin Perlmutter of Monticello and Lynn Attard of East Meadow. (Freeman photo by Wagenföhr)

WISHING SCROLLS—Girls prepare scrolls for the ceremonial campfire to celebrate 50 years of Camp Wendy. Each unit makes a wish for the future of the camp to place on the fire. Preparing scrolls are Cynthia Haines, Ellenville; Linda Baker, Gardiner; Dorothy Bartz, New Paltz; Nancy Nitschke of Saugerties, counselor; Betty Jane Christensen of Lyndhurst, N. J.; Serena Cesarini Sforza of Rome, Italy and Linda Maguire of Lyndhurst, N. J. (Freeman photo by Wagenföhr)

Attribute Arms Sale Increase to Eruption of Summer Violence

By BOB MONROE
NEW YORK (AP)—The demand for arms, particularly handguns, has increased in some of the cities struck by violence this summer. A few dealers say they've temporarily halted further sales.

In an Associated Press survey, many of the dealers said their new customers were predominantly white. In the words of one store owner: "I think they're the type who get them for home protection."

Two nationwide retail firms—Sears Roebuck and Co. and Montgomery Ward & Co.—said they had halted over-the-counter arms sales in a number of cities where violence is occurring. Many sporting goods stores in New York City reported what one owner described as "a great increase" in the number of rifles and rounds of ammunition sold since the Newark, N.J., riots.

"We are not in the hunting business at present," said a spokesman for one firm. "We have stopped selling rifles entirely and we won't open again until September. There are no guns in the windows. We don't want to contribute to the mess."

Abercrombie & Fitch Co., the nationwide chain of high-priced sporting goods stores, said police in all its branch cities asked that guns be removed from display windows following the Newark violence.

In Newark, where 25 persons died during July rioting, dealer Stanley Senkewicz said: "Summer is usually a dead time where I am located. Usually I can go on a fishing trip and never lose a dime."

"But this year my business was good," he said. "Some people said, 'This is a national emergency, this is not the time to ask for a permit.' A few men came in here crying, saying they had to have a gun."

Senkewicz said his sales were "mostly to whites."

In suburban Detroit, gun shops reported a heavy demand for weapons at the height of last week's conflict.

The California Bureau of Criminal Identification and Investigation, part of the State Justice Department, reported an upsurge of handgun sales during July.

From 2,400 sold in the first week the number grew to better than 3,750 in the fourth week. The figures were not broken down by geographical area or race.

In Iowa, two Des Moines dealers reported minor increases in sales during the past week and the county recorder's office said it had received 36—three times the normal—gun sale reports one day last week.

In Waterloo, scene of disturbances in early July, one major retailer said there was a temporary increase in sales to white persons following the violence.

A popular sporting goods store in Minneapolis noted a definite increase in sales to persons the owner described as ordinary citizens wanting guns for protection.

A big Chicago firearms outlet, however, reported no increase in sales. A survey in St. Louis indicated some additional in-arms buying but the most pronounced increase was in ammunition sales.

Atlanta, Houston and Dallas distributors all noted seasonal increases. A similar report came from New Orleans but white buyers in Baton Rouge had pushed up sales 50 per cent in one big store.

At another outlet the manager noted: "We haven't sold many guns but a hell of a lot of ammunition. We've sold one box of shells to a Negro. All the rest have been white."

Caste System

Traditionally, India's caste system was conceived to segregate Aryan conquerors from the aboriginal Dravidians and developed into division of labor. Brahmins were the priests and scholars, Kshatriyas the warriors, Vaisyas the merchants and Sudras the workers. The untouchables were beyond caste and were condemned to the most menial tasks.

Examine Red China's Atomic Weaponry and Effects on U.S.

EDITOR'S NOTE:—China's H-bomb explosion last June meant a big step forward in its drive to become a major nuclear power. Now her arsenal may grow by leaps and bounds—with dire implications for the West. Here is the first of three articles by an AP team that examined Red China's atomic weaponry and it is likely effects on the United States.

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE and

Associated Press Writers

In one searing moment last June 17, the world changed suddenly and drastically. Red China exploded an H-bomb. Within 30 months, she may well have 100 of the mammoth bombs. Dr. Ralph Lapp, a nuclear physicist, estimates. Within that same brief time, she could be stockpiling the missiles needed to lob city-obliterating bombs at American or other targets. This is far ahead of initial government estimates. Investigation shows U.S. officials have consistently miscalculated the speed of China's nuclear progress.

Ironically, the record also shows the United States educated and then deported to Communist China some of the key nuclear and missile experts who contributed enormously to her achievements.

Super-terror weapons are coming into the hands of a Chinese regime regarded by the West as reckless and paranoid.

"If they think about it, Americans get a gut feeling this spells big trouble," declares Rep. Craig Hosmer of California, a Republican member of the Joint Committee on Atomic Energy.

China's nuclear progress "is frightening," says Sen. John O. Pastore, D-R.I., committee chairman. "China within five years will be a formidable nuclear power."

The possible consequences from China's dealing herself in as a nuclear poker player are widespread and dismaying, an Associated Press study finds.

—It could resolve affirmatively a hot debate whether the United States should drive ahead now for antiballistic missile defenses and perhaps civilian shelters—at a cost to taxpayers that could reach $70 billion as a starter. Such a decision, opponents argue, would only explode the arms race into a new, dangerous and useless spiral.

—China might donate a few A-bombs to Arab countries in the touchy Middle East, Israel then could be impelled to build, beg or borrow bombs of her own.

—China might use bombs to blackmail weaker countries into keeping hands off "people's liberation" wars of rebellion within their own borders.

—Japan, India, other countries could decide to make their own bombs, killing all hopes for a nuclear nonproliferation treaty.

—China, under Mao Tse-tung or more cooperative successors, must be reckoned as a first-class power. The H-bomb gives a soaring boost to Chinese morale, says one top adviser on China to the U.S. government.

—After 100 years of ignominy and having to accept battleships, booze and Bibles forced on them by foreigners, after suffering heartaches and burning in their bellies from all that, the bomb is a tremendous symbol of emancipation from second-class status," he remarks.

It took China only 32 months to leap from her first atomic explosion to detonation of a pretty complete H-bomb. How swiftly may she acquire significant nuclear muscles?

Pentagon and Atomic Energy Commission officials declined requests for interviews, referring queries mainly to a "positive statement" by Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara last Jan. 23.

"It appears unlikely that the Chinese could deploy a significant number of operational ICBMs before the mid-1970's, or that these ICBMs would have great reliability, speed of response, or substantial protection against attack."

A "significant number of ICBMs—international ballistic missiles—was defined by Pentagon sources at the time as 75 to 100 or more."

McNamara and others have predicted China may test-launch an ICBM before the year's end, or send a Chinese satellite beep-beeping into orbit, signaling progress in control and guidance skills required for pinpointed nuclear missiles.

The estimate that China could have 100 H-bombs by 1970 is made on the basis of published information and other sources by Dr. Lapp, of Washington, D.C., a physicist now in private consulting business who played a roll in A-bomb development. He credits China with current ability to produce 1,000 pounds per year of uranium 235 the atoms that fission or split in A-weapons.

But Dr. Lapp and others think it would be foolish for China to use costly U-235 for atomic weapons. Instead they think China will put to use all or most of it as triggers for H-bombs with the explosive equivalent of many millions of tons of TNT.

Dr. Lapp estimates China can turn its 1,000 pounds of U-235 into 20 H-bombs triggers each year. That, plus existing stocks and a rising production could mean 100 H-bombs within about 30 more months.

U-235 is the most expensive ingredient in the big bombs. Others such as lithium 6 and heavy water are relatively cheap. With a large H-bomb, "you can buy the equivalent of a ton of TNT for 40 cents a ton. With smaller A-bombs, the cost is more than $1,000 per ton," says Rep. Hosmer.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., predicts China by the end of 1967 will have a capability for intermediate-range ballistic missiles and will begin developing them.

These can zoom 1,000 to 1,500 miles or more, and so could menace Soviet Asia and Southeast Asian countries, says Jackson, a member of several military and nuclear affairs committees.

By 1971, China may have ICBMs that could reach North America, the senator adds. By the mid-1970's, China "will have enough bombs and missiles to be a real threat to life in the United States. That's perhaps eight years away, but time flies by."

In eight years, a child progresses from first grade to high school. When China exploded her H-bomb she was at least 2½ years ahead of the schedule estimated for her by Westerners. It took the United States seven years from A-bomb to H-bomb, but there had been no pressure to move quickly when this country had a monopoly on A-weapons. It took the Soviet Union four years, Britain seven, and France is not yet there, China required only two years and eight months. The reasons are intriguing; the record impressive: —Oct. 16, 1964: The first A-device is detonated from a tower in the desolate salt flats near Lop Nor—Lake Lop—in the remote northwestern province of Sinkiang, on a site 450 miles from the Soviet frontier. Its force: 20,000 tons of TNT, equal to the Hiroshima bomb 19 years earlier.

Many Share Concern on New Authority for the President

BY JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — There is heat in Congress over the increasing authority of the President, the diminishing grip of Congress. It's too soon to say whether it will end in smoke.

So it was no accident when Sen. J. W. Fulbright, Arkansas Democrat and President Johnson's severest critic on the Vietnamese war, got up and expressed concern about the power of the President in foreign affairs.

Basis for Broad Study
In a resolution he offered for approval, Fulbright proposed the Senate take the position a national commitment in foreign affairs is valid only if Congress joins with the President in declaring it.

This, he explained, will be the basis for a broad study by the Senate's Foreign Relations Committee, of which he is chairman, on the nature and extent of foreign commitments abroad.

Fulbright's concern is shared by others. Earlier this year a Senate Judiciary subcommittee was established to make a full study of the separation of powers among the executive, the judicial and the congressional branches of government and the manner in which power has been used by each branch.

Last month, when the subcommittee began hearings, the chairman, Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., North Carolina Democrat, acknowledged that in these critical days some look upon separation of powers as outmoded when all governments are "crisis governments."

He admitted a government without checks or balances can But he asked if inefficiency is not a small price to pay for the "individual freedoms that are bought with constitutional principles."

Fulbright said the resolution he proposed is not intended to restrict the constitutional responsibility and power of the President or to revoke any past decisions.

But he complained the roll of Congress, and particularly the Senate, in the determination of national security is steadily being eroded.

All this by Fulbright on the Senate floor was mild compared with the stand he took when testifying before Ervin's subcommittee last month.

No Willful Usurping
He said the erosion of congressional power in foreign policy has been going on since 1940 but he does not believe the President has willfully "usurped the constitutional authority of Congress."

That's a nice phrase—"with-

Nor, he said, does he believe out meaningful consultation with Congress"—but it is made of rubber, for anyone, including Fulbright, would have trouble explaining it and then getting someone to agree with him.

While Congress voted no declaration of war for Korea, President Harry S. Truman consulted with the members of the Foreign Affairs committees of House and Senate before announcing he was sending in U.S. troops to stop the aggression from North Korea.

They endorsed the move unanimously. Next day in Congress he was praised by his Republican critics. And both houses voted to extend the draft.

When North Vietnamese PT boats attacked U.S. destroyers in the Gulf of Tonkin in 1964 and Johnson retaliated by ordering the bombing of their shore bases, he consulted with congressional leaders of both parties. He asked and got, with Fulbright's backing, approval from Congress for a resolution giving him an okay in advance for any action he thought necessary to stop aggression.

When an attempt was made in effort 52 to 5, although this time Fulbright was one of the dissenters.

Manry's will go through the Great Lakes and to the Mississippi River by way of a canal and the Illinois River. They figure to reach New Orleans by mid-October.

After a couple of months in the islands, the family will go up the East Coast to New York and from there to Montreal by way of the Hudson River and Lake Champlain waterway.

Then will come the St. Lawrence, Ottawa and Rideau rivers, Lake Ontario, the Welland Canal and Lake Erie.

Manry has a contract to do a book about the trip to Harper & Row, publisher of his first book, "Tinkerbell."

Sailing Buff Casts Off Again

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Robert Manry, who conquered the Atlantic Ocean in a 13½-foot sailboat, was off again last night — this time with his wife on a contemplated 5,000-mile voyage entirely around the Eastern United States, with a side trip to Bimini.

This will really be going in style compared to the Tinkerbell, said Manry, referring to the small sailboat that carried him alone for 3,400 miles in 1965.

Manry and his wife Virginia, will leave from Mentor Harbor Yacht Club. Their two children, Robin, 16, and Douglas, 13, will join them in Chicago next month.

The solo trip two years ago took Manry 78 days, from Falmouth, Mass., to Falmouth, England. This time it is expected to take 10½ to 12 months, with the family.

I've had enough of that, he said about traveling alone.

The 27-foot Tartan yawl, named the Curlew for a bird the Manrys read about and admire, has three sails, a 30-horsepower engine, a portable television set, a typewriter and an encyclopedia.

Also on board will be a German shepherd dog, Chris, and Fred, a cat.

Many Share Concern on New Authority for the President

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) — There is heat in Congress over the increasing authority of the President, the diminishing grip of Congress. It's too soon to say whether it will end in smoke.

So it was no accident when Sen. J. W. Fulbright, Arkansas Democrat and President Johnson's severest critic on the Vietnamese war, got up and expressed concern about the power of the President in foreign affairs.

Basis for Broad Study
In a resolution he offered for approval, Fulbright proposed the Senate take the position a national commitment in foreign affairs is valid only if Congress joins with the President in declaring it.

This, he explained, will be the basis for a broad study by the Senate's Foreign Relations Committee, of which he is chairman, on the nature and extent of foreign commitments abroad.

Fulbright's concern is shared by others. Earlier this year a Senate Judiciary subcommittee was established to make a full study of the separation of powers among the executive, the judicial and the congressional branches of government and the manner in which power has been used by each branch.

Last month, when the subcommittee began hearings, the chairman, Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., North Carolina Democrat, acknowledged that in these critical days some look upon separation of powers as outmoded when all governments are "crisis governments."

He admitted a government without checks or balances can be inefficient. But he asked if inefficiency is not a small price to pay for the "individual freedoms that are bought with constitutional principles."

Fulbright said the resolution he proposed is not intended to restrict the constitutional responsibility and power of the President or to revoke any past decisions.

But he complained the roll of Congress, and particularly the Senate, in the determination of national security is steadily being eroded.

No Wilful Usurping
He said the erosion of congressional power in foreign policy has been going on since 1940 but he does not believe the President has wilfully "usurped the constitutional authority of Congress."

Nor, he said, does he believe Congress has knowingly given away its traditional authority.

"The balance before us is whether and how the constitutional balance can be restored." The balance, put together when the world was much simpler, says very little about presidential power in foreign affairs, merely noting the President "shall have power, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, to make treaties, provided two thirds of the senators concur."

More Than Treaties
But nowadays the President is involved in far more than treaties and Fulbright commented that since World War II the United States has "fought two wars without benefit of congressional declaration and has engaged in numerous small scale activities without meaningful consultation with Congress."

That's a nice phrase—"without meaningful consultation with Congress"—but it is made of rubber, for anyone, including Fulbright, would have trouble explaining it and then getting someone to agree with him.

While Congress voted no declaration of war for Korea, President Harry S. Truman consulted with the members of the Foreign Affairs committees of House and Senate before announcing he was sending in U.S. troops to stop the aggression from North Korea.

They endorsed the move unanimously. Next day in Congress he was praised by his Republican critics. And both houses voted to extend the draft.

When North Vietnamese PT boats attacked U.S. destroyers in the Gulf of Tonkin in 1964 and Johnson retaliated by ordering the bombing of their shore bases, he consulted with congressional leaders of both parties. He asked and got, with Fulbright's backing, approval from Congress for a resolution giving him an okay in advance for any action he thought necessary to stop aggression.

When an attempt was made in 1966 to take this power from Johnson by repealing the resolution,

New York City Deliveries---Biggest Problem of Post Office

NEW YORK (AP) — There was an era in this country when the mail was a case of writing your letters and taking your chances.

Couriers couldn't always overcome the weather and highwaymen; stagecoaches couldn't always avoid Indians, and once in a while, a Pony Express rider and his saddlebags would disappear along the trail.

But all that was many, many years BZC—Before Zip Code.

Today's postal system has long since overcome the problems of the 17th and 18th centuries.

In New York City, the problems of the 20th century are murder.

Manhattan's main post office—called the New York Post Office, although its territory does not cover the city's four other boroughs—says it handles more mail each day than all the post offices in France—some 31 million pieces.

That totals eight billion pieces a year, one-tenth the national volume on one 13.5-by-2.5 mile island that is the heart of the nation's business world.

The Post Office thinks it performs the monumental task with unheralded efficiency, but not because the people it serves make the job particularly easy. In truth, New Yorkers seem inadvertently to do everything they can to make the difficult job impossible.

They have a tendency, because this island is relatively small, to stack their homes and businesses one on top of another until the resulting skyscrapers soar so high one gets a whiplash craning to see the tops of them. In the 102-story Empire State

Building, for example, it takes 25 mail carriers working eight hours a day to get everything in its ordered place. They make three pickups and three deliveries daily.

"Whenever I see a new skyscraper going up, whether it's a business office or a new apartment complex, I don't see brick or aluminum or glass, I see one gigantic mailbag," said Acting Postmaster John R. Strachan.

Strachan—who gets fewer than 100 complaints a day from Manhattanites—doesn't worry much about the service. He says he is confident that no matter what New York builds, the Post Office can handle its mail.

That is, if his men can get to it. Everyone knows the "snow nor rain, nor heat nor gloom of night" bit, but these are modern times.

From about 8 a.m. to 7 p.m., the streets of Manhattan become a creeping glut of motorized commerce that defies any-mail truck to accomplish the swift completion of its appointed rounds. But by far, Strachan says, the biggest problem is that New Yorkers are creatures of habit and one of their worst habits is dumping the vast majority of their mail into chutes and boxes in the evening.

"If I could have one wish for the Post Office, it would be that people get out of the habit of mailing everything when they leave their offices at night and start mailing during the day," Strachan said.

"Most of the mail in Manhattan is business mail. I know people write business letters and prepare advertising all day, not just in the late afternoon. So why don't they mail it when it's ready?"

There are more than 40,000 postal employees in Manhattan, and Strachan says he can get more if he needs them.

"But what good would twice that number be if they're just going to be immobilized in traffic or stand around with their hands in their pockets for lack of anything to do?"

Paltz Education Center Displays At Orange Fair

An exhibition presenting the facts and history, as well as the function, of the activities of innovative education supported under the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965 is on display at the Orange County Fair. Located in the school building of the fair the exhibit contains visual representations of the many facts of activities of the Mid-Hudson Regional Supplementary Educational Center, at New Paltz.

The exhibit showing at the Orange County Fair is the same unit that was on display in the Office of Education in Washington, D. C. for the month of June. The display was prepared at the invitation of the ESEA Title III agency in Washington as an example of the products and change which can be brought about under the Federally financed program. The Mid-Hudson Regional Center was the first local-level organization in the United States invited to present an exhibition, and this same show is now available at the Orange County Fair.

The Mid-Hudson Regional Supplementary Educational Center is one of fifteen regional centers in New York State devoted to up-grading education through grants financed by the ESEA Title III program. Henry Hopper of Ulster County BOCES is the legal applicant and Dr. Raymond G. Kenyon is the regional director.

Programs presently underway and funded are: Talented Art Project, Junior High Project, Project for Imaginative Nature Education, Project Ex-Adjunct Library Services, Brain-Injured Damaged and the administrative grant for overseeing all of the activities.

Services and activities of all these projects are available, at least in part, to all of the 135 school districts in the five counties served by the center. The counties in the region are Orange, Sullivan, Dutchess, Putnam and Ulster.

Fellowship Event

Women's Fellowship, First Congregational Church, will hold a baked food sale Saturday in the school. Church classes, suspended for the summer, will be back in session September 10. In the interim regular morning service will be conducted Sundays, 10 a. m.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Green, 44 Lafayette Street, presented their son, Richard Joseph Green for baptism July 16. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Chase were sponsors.

The marriage of Stephen Kazek and Miss Sandra Reilly will take place Sunday 'at 2 p. m. in the church.

New York City Deliveries---Biggest Problem of Post Office

NEW YORK (AP) — There was an era in this country when the mail was a case of writing your letters and taking your chances.

Couriers couldn't always overcome the weather and highwaymen; stagecoaches couldn't always avoid Indians, and once in a while, a Pony Express rider and his saddlebags would disappear along the trail.

But all that was many, many years ago—Before Zip Code.

Today's postal system has long since overcome the problems of the 17th and 18th centuries.

But in New York City, the problems of the 20th century are more acute.

not cover the city's four other boroughs—says it handles more mail each day than all the post offices in France—some 31 million pieces.

That totals eight billion pieces a year, one-tenth the national volume on one 13.5-by-2.5 mile island that is the heart of the nation's business world.

The Post Office thinks it performs the monumental task with unheralded efficiency, but not because the people it serves make the job particularly easy. In truth, New Yorkers seem inadvertently to do everything they can to make the difficult job impossible.

They have a tendency, because this island is relatively small, to stack their homes and businesses one on top of another until the resulting skyscrapers soar so high one gets a whiplash craning to see the tops of them. In the 102-story Empire State

Building, for example, it takes 25 mail carriers working eight hours a day to get everything in its ordered place. They make three pickups and three deliveries daily.

"Whenever I see a new skyscraper going up, whether it's a business office or a new apartment complex, I don't see brick or aluminum or glass, I see one gigantic mailbag," said Acting Postmaster John R. Strachan.

Strachan—who gets fewer than 100 complaints a day from Manhattanites—doesn't worry much about the service. He says he is confident that no matter what New York builds, the Post Office can handle its mail.

That is, if his men can get to it. Everyone knows the "snow nor rain, nor heat nor gloom of night" bit, but these are modern times.

From about 8 a.m. to 7 p.m., the streets of Manhattan become a creeping glut of motorized commerce that defies any swift completion of its appointed rounds.

But by far, Strachan says, the biggest problem is that New Yorkers are creatures of habit and one of their worst habits is dumping the vast majority of their mail into chutes and boxes in the evening.

"If I could have one wish for the Post Office, it would be that people get out of the habit of mailing everything when they leave their offices at night and start mailing during the day," Strachan said.

"Most of the mail in Manhattan is business mail. I know people write business letters and prepare advertising all day, not just in the late afternoon. So why don't they mail it when it's ready?"

There are more than 40,000 postal employees in Manhattan, and Strachan says he can get more if he needs them.

"But what good would twice that number be if they're just going to be immobilized in traffic or stand around with their hands in their pockets for lack of anything to do?"

Fellowship Event

Women's Fellowship, First Congregational Church, will hold a baked food sale Saturday in the school. Church classes, suspended for the summer, will be back in session September 10. In the interim regular morning service will be conducted Sundays, 10 a. m.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Green, 44 Lafayette Street, presented their son, Richard Joseph Green for baptism July 16. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Chase were sponsors.

The marriage of Stephen Kazek and Miss Sandra Reilly will take place Sunday 'at 2 p. m. in the church.

Paltz Education Center Displays At Orange Fair

An exhibition presenting the facts and history, as well as the function, of the activities of innovative education supported under the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965 is on display at the Orange County Fair. Located in the school building of the fair the exhibit contains visual presentations of the many facts of activities of the Mid-Hudson Regional Supplementary Educational Center, at New Paltz.

The exhibit showing at the Orange County Fair is the same unit that was on display in the Office of Education in Washington, D. C. for the month of June. The display was prepared at the invitation of the ESEA Title III agency in Washington as an example of the products and change which can be brought about under the Federally financed program. The Mid-Hudson Regional Center was the first local-level organization in the United States invited to present an exhibition, and this same show is now available at the Orange County Fair.

The Mid-Hudson Regional Supplementary Educational Center is one of fifteen regional centers in New York State devoted to up-grading education through grants financed by the ESEA Title III program. Henry Hopper of Ulster County BOCES is the legal applicant and Dr. Raymond G. Kenyon is the regional director.

Programs presently underway and funded are: Talented Art Program, Junior High Project, Project for Imaginative Nature Education, Project Exemplary Consortia, Project for Adjunct Library Services, Brain-Injured Damaged and the administrative grant for overseeing all of the activities.

Services and activities of all these projects are available, at least in part, to all of the 135 school districts in the five counties served by the center. The counties in the region are the Orange, Sullivan, Dutchess, Putnam and Ulster.

Disturbed and Concerned Citizenry Write on Urban Rioting, Looting

By GORDON BROWN
WASHINGTON (AP) — Obviously disturbed and concerned by urban rioting and looting, citizens by the thousands are expressing their views to senators and representatives.

Most congressional offices report their riot mail as moderate to heavy in volume.

Few Solutions
There isn't a great deal in the way of proposed solutions or constructive suggestions, congressional offices say. Most people simply express their thoughts and feeling, often with strong emotion.

To sum it up, several members of Congress add, "The folks are against riots."

Most of the letters appear to be from whites, particularly those with Southern postmarks. But there are some from Negroes.

Mail from the South generally is heavy with criticism of President Johnson and with something of an "I told you so" and "You brought it on yourself" point of view. Numerous letter writers called for something to be done about such militantly outspoken Negro leaders as Stokely Carmichael and H. Rap Brown.

Many others suggested that money required for the Vietnam war might better be spent in the United States.

Most members of Congress decline to permit their correspondence to be quoted by name but do permit quotations from letters so long as the writer is not identified.

On that basis, The Associated Press obtained many of the riot letters. Here are samples of what Mr. and Mrs. America are writing their senators and representatives about the matter:

From Tennessee—"I am not a racist. Neither are the people for whom I speak, Negro as well as white. We are outraged and frightened parents who believe the time has come for firm, startling and immediate action by the government. A stop has to be put to rioting and pillaging, flagrant disrespect of our country, our flag, our rights, our lives."

Seattle—"These rioters act like mad dogs. If people act like that, the police should be allowed to use machine guns on them."

Seattle—"I wish to add my protest to others who feel these devastating race riots would not have occurred had Congress been thinking of the welfare of the American people."

snipers should be shot on sight when caught in the act. These people have no right to trial.

Either you people in Congress take immediate steps or we the people will do the job. We have guns, we have ammo and we have the will."

Mississippi—"Send them all back to Africa and give them 160 acres and a tractor."

Michigan (a Negro)—"My people are not responsible for this. We believe in law and order and we are just as heart-sick about it as you are."

New Instructor Named by UCCC Medical Unit

Borsy Wolosenko, who has had extensive experience in the field of medical technology and has been employed as a professional medical technologist, has been appointed an instructor in biology and medical technology at Ulster County Community College, effective in September.

Wolosenko, a Staatsburg resident who has had a year's experience teaching biology, received his BS degree in biology from the State University College at New Paltz and was graduated "with distinction" in liberal arts. He presently is working to complete his MS degree at New Paltz.

Trained in Australia
His technical background in the field of medical technology includes three and a half years of training in an approved medical technology school in Princess Margaret Hospital for Children in Perth, Australia. He came to the United States in 1959, going to work at Pittsfield General Hospital, Pittsfield, Mass., as a bacteriologist.

In 1960, Wolosenko was employed as a research technologist at Columbia Medical School. Working on a project with a team of medical doctors, he assisted with the technical side of a research project involving Human Growth Hormone Effects in Children.

Wolosenko began his higher education at Rockland Community College while working part-time as a medical technologist in Suffern. In February, 1961, he successfully passed an examination given by the American Medical Technologists to become a registered technologist.

From 1961 to 1963, Wolosenko served in the U. S. Army, where he was in charge of a laboratory, X-ray section and pharmacy. After his discharge from the service, he returned to work at Good Samaritan Hospital and continued his education at the State University College at New Paltz.

After receiving his BS degree, Wolosenko worked as a medical technologist at the Castle Point Veterans Administration Hospital near Beacon, and also has been employed as a professional medical technologist.

Kripplebush

KRIPPLEBUSH — Plans are being made for the annual Labor Day fair and food sale. Baked goods will be available and luncheon will be served.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Redelberger have been spending their vacation with relatives and friends in New York City.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Tease of Springfield, Mass., and Ralph Embree of Poughkeepsie visited the Elmer Vandermark and the Claude Christiansa families Wednesday.

Church services are held every Sunday 9 a. m. at the Kripplebush Methodist Church. Church school is in recess.

Horse Show Prize Lists Are Available

Prize lists for the open horse show to be held for the first time this year at the Ulster County Fair are now available.

The show will be held the last day of the fair, Sunday, Aug. 13, starting promptly at 9 a. m. There will be 24 classes for Western, English and pony. The show will be held in the new show ring on the new fair grounds at the County Home in New Paltz.

The dedication of the new show ring which was constructed by the 4-H Light Horse advisory committee and the 4-H Light Horse leaders, will be held Saturday, Aug. 12, at 1 p. m. during the 4-H Horse Show which is open to Ulster County 4-H members only.

Requests for the prize lists may be sent to Arthur Heidcamp, 74 John Street, UPO Box 544, Kingston.

Upstate Rural Areas Have Problem --- Doctor Shortage

By DAVID EMBIDGE
(Associated Press Writer)
HELP WANTED
Rural Community Seeks MD.
Long hours, much travel.
Modest income. Consider qualified beginner.

The classified ad is fictitious but it could be placed by dozens of rural Upstate New York communities left in the backwater of a modern medical technology. The State Department of Health lists 135 townships without a resident physician. And many of the so-called country doctors still practicing are getting on in years and aching to retire.

Even in the big cities, the General Practitioner is rapidly disappearing. In his place has come the gynecologist, the pediatrician, the internist, the psychiatrist—the high-priced specialist who rarely makes a house call.

But the city-dweller, unlike his country cousin, can fall back on vast hospital systems. He can go to an emergency out-patient clinic for treatment.

For tiny Van Etten in Chemung County, the hospitals in Elmira or Ithaca are some 20 miles distant. Four years ago its only resident physician, Dr. James R. Cargill retired. Since then the community has searched in vain for a replacement.

The rural community is too small and ill-equipped to attract new doctors, Sherman Moreland, a businessman there, says. "The best we have can not compare to what other places can offer." Ogdensburg also is feeling the pinch. A Doctors for Ogdensburg Committee has tried unsuccessfully for a year to find new blood.

"The day of the General Practitioner—especially in rural areas—is long dead," says Dr. Frank B. Amos, director of professional education for the state.

Currently, according to Dr. Amos, barely 13 per cent of the students in state medical schools plan to become GPs.

Thirty five of 55 recent graduates of the Albany Medical College responded to a poll last month. Not one planned to enter general practice.

L. Thomas Wolff, a student at the college, found that young doctors dismissed rural practices in particular, citing "insufficient medical facilities; lack of available counseling with fellow physicians, and insufficient opportunity to keep up with new medical developments."

Wolff's study also listed social and intellectual conditions in rural communities as drawbacks.

To Dr. Kenneth F. Bott of Greenville, this all means the new breed are not as dedicated as their professional elders.

"They don't have a love of medicine. They don't want to work too hard," says the 64-year-old Bott, who has failed during the past four years to find a younger man to take over his Greene County practice.

Dr. William V. Kinnard, assistant medical director at Albany Medical Center Hospital cited Vietnam as another factor in the dwindling supply of doctors.

"We are losing not only the young physician who has just completed his training and might be going into practice, but also our house officers are now faced with the strong possibility that they will indeed be drafted before they are allowed to complete their training," he wrote.

Kinnard was writing to a Schuylerville banker who sought information on physician procurement.

"Some villages, figuratively in the shadow of the Medical Center itself, are in dire need of physicians and we simply have no help for them at the present time," he explained.

The tweedy, pipe-smoking country doctor who whiles away an afternoon casually chatting with his patients is about as common today as a Model T on the New York Thruway.

There simply isn't time for chatter. Growing populations, longer lives and the diminishing number of General Practitioners in rural areas have conspired to make his life a hectic one, if not a grind.

Dr. Glen W. Tymeson practices in Lisle, a hamlet near Binghamton. He wears another hat, too. He's the Broome County Coroner.

He begins seeing patients at 9 a.m. Late in the afternoon he makes his rounds in Johnson City Hospital, about 15 miles away. At 7 p.m., he reopens his office for business, working sometimes to midnight. He has not vacationed in seven years.

People like Dr. Tymeson are becoming the exception, not the rule.

Mrs. Robert J. Rugg, a newcomer to Greece in Monroe County, had stomach trouble and started to call doctors.

"One in Spencertown told me I'd have to wait six weeks," she said. "Another said he wasn't talking to new patients."

At that, Mrs. Rugg had a choice. The residents of West Canada Valley in Herkimer County were not so fortunate. They had to stay well for four weeks while their only doctor took a vacation.

describes the situation as "awfully difficult."

Dr. Rogers said that in one Herkimer County town, doctors volunteered to staff a medical center. "We discovered that the people were very reluctant to visit the so-called 'strange doctors'. They wanted a family doctor; someone they knew and who knew them."

Ten years ago, the village physician left Galway, in Montgomery County. Since then the few inhabitants have had to visit doctors in towns 10 miles away.

Larger towns such as Corning, Bath and Hornell in Steuben County have doctors, but the situation, according to Dr. Mario Argenti, chairman of the Steuben Medical Society is becoming increasingly critical.

"There is a small influx of new doctors, but with the deaths of older ones and with some of the good men leaving to take other positions, the negative influence outweighs the positive by a huge margin," he said.

Dr. Anthony F. Fragola of Bay Shore, L.I., representing the Suffolk County Medical Society, observed that the ratio of doctors to patients there was 1 to 1,400.

Dr. Fragola contends the problem may be beyond solving. At least it lies beyond the solution of "more doctors," he says. But money, new techniques and patience eventually may remedy the problem, health authorities say.

Communities are urged to band together to build medical centers for specialists.

The Sears Roebuck Foundation provides blueprints, technical advice and money to supplement community fund raising efforts.

Are the FINAL 3 DAYS of Goldmans Semi-Annual Clearance Sale

because

Goldman's will close for vacation Aug. 7th to Aug. 14th, every remaining article of fine feminine apparel has been further reduced to positively "give-away" prices for immediate clearance. All merchandise is our regular stock with complete size ranges in dresses from 5 to 42 and 1/2 sizes to 22 1/2, but selections are limited in some sizes. Coats, Suits, Rainwear, Gowns, Skirts, Blouses and Sweaters are extremely limited in sizes and quantities—BUT, if we do have your size, the "BUYS" are truly "SENSATIONAL"! "NUFF SAID!"

Pow Wow Aug. 19

Drum Competition

One of the outstanding corps that will appear in the Troop 12 Indians Third Annual Pow Wow of Junior Champions will be the New York Kingsmen. The Pow Wow, a drum and bugle corps competition known nationally, and will be held at Dietz Memorial Stadium the evening of August 19.

The Kingsmen were founded in 1965 by a small group of leading instructors and the present staff. Efforts were made through the winter of 1966 to create a unique and different unit. The corps turned to the magical music of Mexico. Local 32 E cooperated and helped the Kingsmen in their purchase of their Mexican uniforms which were designed and created by Evans of Philadelphia.

The corps made its debut at Symphony Hall in May of that year. They also became the first Northeastern Junior Circuit Champions in September at Agawam, Mass. This year Local 32 E helped the New York Kingsmen to purchase new horns, designed and custom built by Whaley, Royce of Canada, and new drums built by Premier Drum Co. of England.

GI Expresses Appreciation For Viet Gifts

Second Class Airman Michael Bonomo, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Bonomo, 145 Foxhall Avenue, presently stationed at Da Nang Air Base, South Vietnam, recently wrote to express his thanks for gifts forwarded him by Town of Ulster citizens.

The gifts, sponsored by the Ulster Volunteer Fire Hose Co. No. 5 are part of a community effort to make life easier for the boys fighting in Vietnam. The gifts were sent overseas several weeks ago.

Student Sentenced

TUNIS, Tunisia (AP) — A military tribunal has sentenced a theology student to 20 years in prison on a charge of instigating a mob that burned a Jewish synagogue June 5.

Haynes-Boss Nuptials Announced

Miss Lucille Ellen Haynes, daughter of Edgar R. and Ellen F. Haynes, Kingston, was married Sunday, July 16, to John Clyde Boss, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Boss, Port Ewen.

The Rev. Edwin Coon, pastor of Fair Street Reformed Church, officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride wore a short sleeve floor length white jersey acetate gown, styled with a cowl neckline and featuring an attached train. Her baby's breath headpiece was fastened to a shoulder length veil accented with lace. She carried a bouquet of white orchids.

Mrs. Carol E. Jeffs, Kingston, was matron of honor for her sister. She wore a short sleeved floor length gown of

Carol Ann DeWitt Exchanges Vows Sunday With Ronald N. Schafer

Miss Carol Ann DeWitt, daughter of Mrs. Harry F. DeWitt, 6 Saccoman Avenue, this city, and the late Harry F. DeWitt, was married Sunday, July 30, to Ronald Norman Schafer, son of Mrs. Frank Bury, Orange, N. J., and George Schafer, Union, N. J.

The Rev. Edwin C. Coons, pastor of Fair Street Reformed Church, officiated at the double ring ceremony. Organist, Mrs. William Rylance, accompanied Mrs. Betty Lindsey who sang traditional wedding selections. Baskets of gladioli, majestic daisies and pompons decorated the church.

Given in marriage by her brother, John DeWitt, the bride wore a full-length gown of bridal taffeta, overlaid with Swiss lace, styled with long sleeves terminating in points at the wrist and featuring a bateau neckline. The skirt was a semi-shift, ending in a chapel train. Her fingertip veil was attached to a headpiece of fabric roses. She carried a classic cascade of white marguerites with white roses and ivy.

Mrs. Phyllis DeWitt, Cottekill, sister-in-law of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a crepe gown styled with a cowl neckline, long sleeves and a slim A-line skirt. Her matching headpiece was fashioned of daisies, and she carried a cascade bouquet of yellow marguerites.

Mrs. Patricia Dorbandt, Tawaco, N. J., was attendant. Miss Virginia Lee DeWitt, Cottekill, was junior bridesmaid for her aunt.

Mrs. Dorbandt's Nile green gown and headpiece were identical in styling to that of the matron of honor. She carried a cascade bouquet of green marguerites.

The junior bridesmaid's Nile green gown was fashioned similarly to that of the attendant, and styled in a youthful fashion with a square neckline and puff sleeves. She wore a headpiece of rosebuds and carried a nosegay of green marguerites and sweetheart roses.

Former KHS Faculty Member Wed July 29 Solemn High Nuptial Mass, Schenectady

Miss Betty Ann Ferris, daughter of Clarence Burton Ferris and Elizabeth Ferris, 861 Stanley Street, Schenectady, was married Saturday, July 29, to David T. Jarvis, son of Mrs. Samuel Jarvis, 1904 Broad Street, Schenectady, and the late Samuel Jarvis.

The Rev. Cyril Orendac celebrated the 5 o'clock solemn high nuptial Mass, assisted by the Rev. John Varno, at St. Cyril and Methodius Church, Schenectady.

Pink and white gladioli, carnations and majestic daisies decorated the altar. Mrs. Mary Vasko was organist and soloist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a full length gown of ivory silk organza appliqued throughout with reemboordered Alencon lace and accented with large clusters of pearls and scrolls of seed pearls. The short sleeved gown was styled with a stand-away modified ring neckline, fashioned with a high-rise waist and wattleau train at the back which fell into a soft fullness and terminated into a chapel length train. Her headpiece was an open pill-box embellished with matching lace and clusters of pearls from which fell an ivory veil of English silk illusion. She carried a traditional bridal bouquet.

Mrs. Janet Coleman, San Jose, Calif., was matron of honor for her sister. Attendants were Mrs. Mary Jane Fogarty, Schenectady, Miss Elizabeth Foley, New Paltz, Miss Athena Trataros, Bloomington.

MRS. DAVID T. JARVIS

Their full length pink silk cap sleeves, and styled with high-rise waists. Headpieces were wedding ring necklines, small were crescents of pink flowers.

attached to pink floor length veils. They carried simulated pink poppy bouquets.

Paul Jarvis, Clifton, was best man for his brother. Ushers were Philip Restifo, Fred Sindel, Robert King, Richard Riggi, Ronald Johnson.

After the marriage a reception was held at Hellenic Center, Liberty Street, Schenectady, for 350 guests.

The bride, a graduate of St. Columba's High School and Albany State University where she received a Bachelor of Science and Master of Science degree in business education, was a member of Beta Zeta Sorority. She was a member of the Kingston High School faculty for five years and in September will become a member of Mohonassan High School faculty, Schenectady.

Her husband, an alumnus of Mount Pleasant High School, Schenectady, received an Associate of Applied Science degree from Hudson Valley Community College, Troy, and a Bachelor of Science degree in mathematics and physics from Albany State University where he was elected to Kappa Mu Epsilon, national mathematics honorary society. Employed as a thermal analyst by Knolls Atomic Power Laboratory, Schenectady, he is also a member of the executive board of the Schenectady Musicians' Union and is leader of the Dave Jarvis Quartet.

When Mr. and Mrs. Jarvis return from Bermuda, they will reside at 1047 Lucy Road, Schenectady.

Eight Campers Are Guests At Bear Mountain Site

Eight Camp Wendy girls, specially qualified in waterfront skills, are spending five days on Lake Kanawakee in Bear Mountain State Park as guests of Great South Bay Council Camp Matta Wacca.

The girls, who are all Red Cross Junior Life Savers, spent one week at Camp Wendy, brushing up on swimming and canoeing skills and preparing for the trip. This week will be spent setting up encampments and traveling to various points on the Bear Mountain lake by canoe.

Girls making the trip are Sheila Anderson, Saugerties; Marcia Mogel, Kingston; Lisa Backman, Ellenville; Marian Mitchell, Fishkill; Robin Perlmutter, Monticello; Lynne Attard, East Meadow; and Susan Soper and Nancy Nitschke, waterfront counselors.

In turn, a group of girls from the Long Island Council camp have come to Wendy to camp in Jungle unit.

Many special events have taken place in the second encampment at Wendy. Monday evening was devoted to an all-camp Christmas in July, when decorations, costumes and activities, including Santa and Rudolph the Red-nosed Reindeer, turned a pretend-holiday celebration into a fun activity for the girls.

A surprise event at noon on Wednesday called for a "Kangaroo Court," complete with judge and jury, who "tried" all the counselors and meted out suitable punishment for their "crimes," which ranged all the way from smiling too much and wearing a bikini to having the cleanest latrine.

One more period remains, from July 30 to Aug. 12, after which time Camp Wendy will be used for a one-week session of day camping in August, as well as troop camping throughout the fall.

The camp is operated for a year-round camping program by the Ulster County Council of Girl Scouts, a Community Chest agency.

HEALTH FOR ALL

If long-term illness strikes, whether caused by accident or illness—are eligible for social security benefits regardless of age. Payment of benefits begins after six full months of disability, if the patient can show reasonable evidence (a doctor's statement, for example) that the impairment will last for at least a year.

To be eligible for benefits, the person must be unable to do not merely his own kind of work but any work that his age, education and experience might qualify him for. In most cases, he would need to have social security work credits for at least five of the ten years before disability began.

Age has nothing to do with it. If the person qualifies, he is entitled to the same benefits as are normally paid at 65. This can mean as much as $339 a month for families, and $44 to $152 a month for individuals.

Many people disabled by severe tuberculosis, emphysema, or some other disease of breathing are now receiving benefits. Emphysema, in fact, ranks second among all diseases for which benefits are awarded. Additional information can be obtained from the local office of the Social Security Administration, or from your Christmas Seal association.

Haynes-Boss Nuptials Announced

Miss Lucille Ellen Haynes, daughter of Edgar R. and Ellen F. Haynes, Kingston, was married Sunday, July 16, to John Clyde Boss, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Boss, Port Ewen.

The Rev. Edwin Coon, pastor of Fair Street Reformed Church, officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride wore a short sleeve floor length white jersey acetate gown, styled with an cowl neckline and featuring an attached train. Her baby's breath headpiece was fastened to a shoulder length veil accented with lace. She carried a bouquet of white orchids.

Mrs. Carol E. Jeffs, Kingston, was matron of honor for her sister. She wore a short sleeved floor length gown of acetate jersey, fashioned with a V-neck, and featuring a corset fitted bodice with an egg-shell skirt. Her headpiece was a coral bow, attached to a shoulder length veil. She carried a bouquet of white orchids.

Ray Venuti, Esopus, was best man.

After the wedding a reception was held at Skytop Restaurant for the immediate family.

The bride, a graduate of Kingston High School is employed by Gaffney and Hill, Attorneys-at-law, Kingston.

Her husband, an alumnus of Kingston High School is a chef at George's Restaurant, Kingston.

When Mr. and Mrs. Boss return from their wedding trip to Virginia Beach, Va., they will reside at Rifton.

First Year for Summer Music Center in Ulster

By
DOROTHY A. NAREL
WOMAN'S PAGE EDITOR

Along with outdoor barbecues, swimming pools, summer theatres and vacations, music is demanding its share of attention in and out of New York State this season.

Look around and you'll see the impressive home of the Saratoga Performing Arts Center, the not too distant Berkshire Music Festival, Jacob's Pillow Dance Festival, Tanglewood and the Newport Folk Festival.

Here at home we have the distinguished Maverick Concert series of chamber music every Sunday afternoon in Woodstock and the Turnau Opera productions in Woodstock's Byrdcliffe Theatre. The fall and winter seasons bring our popular Community Concert Series to the stage of the Community Theatre in Kingston along with performances by the Hudson Valley Philharmonic.

To all of this, Ulster County can add now a new brilliant jewel—the Mid-Atlantic Music Camp and Music Center located just nine miles southwest of New Paltz.

A dream was transformed into reality and the end result is a music camp for serious minded students and a series of weekend concerts. It all spells high level culture featuring some of America's finest teachers.

If I sound impressed—I am!

How often have you listened to a concert that was good but not great; seen a play that was entertaining but not outstanding; or viewed a painting that was acceptable but not masterful.

Mediocrity infests our way of life and comfort is fast becoming master. Not so at the Mid-Atlantic Music Camp. The directors and executive staff demand and receive excellence from faculty and students. They work and perform in such a way that visitors to the camp or music tent cannot escape the fire and excitement of this new summer music center.

In its first year, the camp is giving more than 150 students a memorable summer. The gifted campers are rubbing elbows with America's musical elite, studying with artist-instructors and living and playing in 10,000 acres of the world's most picturesque area. The camp is nestled in the Shawangunk Mountains on the banks of the crystal clear 85-foot deep Lake Awosting, all part of the Lake Minnewaska resort complex.

Non-Profit Project

The Mid-Atlantic Music Camp is a non-profit membership corporation chartered by the State of New York. Tickets are tax deductible.

WILLIAM A. SCHENEMAN, executive director, and WILLIAM H. ZESWITZ Jr., business director, were the men who shared the dream of establishing this camp for the education of music students and they share responsibility on the board of directors with Dr. RUSSELL P. GETZ, dean, and WILLARD I. MUSSER, consultant.

Mr. Scheneman is now retired from his post as conductor of the U. S. Marine Corps Band and Mr. Zeswitz is president of the Zeswitz Music Center in Pennsylvania. Dr. Getz heads up the music and art department for the State of Pennsylvania and Mr. Musser is president of the New York State School Music Association.

Curriculum Schedule

Students in the junior and senior high divisions are given the opportunity to participate in a symphonic band, concert band, chorus-choir, ensembles, symphony orchestra and concert orchestra. Classes of study are scheduled in music composition, music history, piano accompaniment, piano ensembles, piano major, piano repertoire, string classes and voice as well as Theory I, II, Harmony I, II, conducting, composition and private lessons.

The recommended daily schedule of activities includes: two of three hours of major music activities; three or four hours of minor music activities including practice; one or two hours of recreation activities. Junior division members are limited to a total of seven hours of activities and seniors to eight hours.

Piano majors schedule one hour private lesson each week and three hours of daily practice. Voice majors arrange two 30-minute private lessons a week and two hours of practice daily.

The campers, ages 12-21, are assured a balance of healthful recreation and a joyful summer of highly motivated artistic endeavor with unlimited opportunities for developing music talents.

Weekend Concert Series

For poetry in motion you must watch LOUIS VYNER conduct the Mid-Atlantic Symphony Orchestra. This man is a conductor's conductor.

Vyner was associated with Maestro Leopold Stokowski, Arthur Rodzinski, Elia Mlynarski and Fritz Reiner. He taught Gian Carlo Menotti and was musical director and conductor of the National Youth Orchestra. Vyner is on the faculty of the famous Curtis Music Institute in Philadelphia.

KATHY LACEY, daughter of Mrs. Dorothy Lacey of Kingston, is dean of women. Kathy is a graduate of State University at Potsdam and was graduated from Kingston High School. She will join the staff of the Zeswitz Music Center in the fall.

The fifth weekend, August 4, 5 and 6 of new Minnewaska concerts, presented in a big blue and white striped tent next door to the Ski Minne Restaurant (just off highways U. S. 44/55) will be filled with opera, symphonic and chamber music.

On Friday Night (Aug. 4) at 8 p. m., the CURTIS STRING QUARTET will play Telemann, Debussy and Schubert selections. Performing will be the internationally famous artists and members-in-residence at the Camp, Max Aronoff, viola; Orlando Cole, cello; Jascha Brodsky, violin; and Geoffrey Michaels, violin.

The Minnewaska Symphony, also composed of artists-in-residence at the camp, includes leading members of the New York Philharmonic, the Philadelphia and Baltimore symphonies as well as advanced students. Frances Gould of Port Ewen, member of the Hudson Valley Philharmonic, was called upon to play with the orchestra also. She called it, "... an exciting experience."

The symphony orchestra, directed by Louis Vyner, will play Introduction to Act III, "Lohengrin," by Wagner; Scherzo from "Midsummer's Night Dream," Mendelssohn; Symphony No. 4 (Italian) by Mendelssohn; Mr. Vyner's Suite for Woodwind Quintet with Orchestra featuring the Ithaca Woodwind Quintet; and Smetana's Dances from "The Bartered Bride."

Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock Carol Longone's Operaglogue of Puccini's "Madame Butterfly" in costume will be given.

About music, Maestro Vyner once said: "Music is a bond among people of all nations—a medium through which people can gain better understanding and cooperation. As a means of communication, this universal language has often bridged the gap where diplomats have failed."

If you want to hear music that is played with maturity, understanding and dedication, treat yourself to a concert at the Mid-Atlantic Music Tent this weekend.

This newest jewel will disappear unless its concerts receive public support. Public apathy will destroy it.

Surely thinking people want to recognize achievements of eminent artists and outstanding youths as opposed to the Beatniks and pill-popping sediment in our society.

I strongly recommend the Mid-Atlantic Music Concerts. They are exciting adventures.

RECITAL HALL at the Mid-Atlantic Music Camp is an attractive cabin deep in the woodlands on Shawangunk Mountain. Following a visitor to the summer music center are William A. Scheneman, executive director, and Kathy Lacy, dean of women. The trio sat in on a choral rehearsal under the direction of Dr. Russell P. Getz.

KAROLINA MICHALAK, three year old daughter of the Mid-Atlantic's first chair violinist Thomas Michalak, listens attentively as student Herbert Greenberg plays nursery rhymes for her. Karolina's father is also assistant conductor of the Philadelphia Chamber Symphony Orchestra.

with Maestro Vyner is a production one. The string instrumentalists appear with the orchestra in concert every Saturday night at 8. Guest artists are scheduled each week also. Vyner is former associate of Leopold Stokowski and served as guest conductor of the Warsaw Symphony. He is on the faculty of the Curtis Institute in Philadelphia, Pa.

SHARP CONTRAST to classroom studies is the pause for recreational pursuits. Here students prepare for a canoe ride on the large picturesque lake nestled high in the wooded mountains and rocky cliffs where the camp is located. The Mid-Atlantic Music Camp is just nine miles southwest of New Paltz near exit 18 of the New York Thruway.

Mele Comments: Curtis String Quartet

Frank Mele, Woodstock music teacher and former violinist and violinist with the Rochester Philharmonic, Pittsburgh Symphony and Symphony of the Air, attended a Friday night concert given by the Curtis String Quartet at the Mid-Atlantic Music Tent in Lake Minnewaska, and had the following comments to make to The Freeman's woman's page editor:

"When, last Friday evening, I went to the mountain in search of a world-famous quartet, I found it shrouded in a light mist, giving the quest a sense of rather magical unreality — hardly lessened by the thought that the gentlemen might be inside that great tent over there, to one side of the elegantly modern Ski-Minne Lodge.

"Anyway, there was the festive tent, as described, and evidently, a good many others were bent on beating a path to this concert under canvas in spite of a drizzle that was upholding the questionable honor of a very spongy summer.

"Very bad for stringed instruments, they say. But the quartet, readying for the program, seemed not a whit perturbed. And when they began the Beethoven Quartet (Opus 18, No. 3) the faint murmur of rain high overhead got somewhat transformed into a very appropriate aural backdrop for this particular work. Among other things, this is what a great quartet can do.

"It is not easy to evaluate the Curtis String Quartet, because they have so much that is of the essence of what constitutes impeccable quartet playing, and a good measure of the superb, that it seems a pity to have to waste a portion of the experience ransacking the mind for words that might be adequately suggestive of their artistry."

"Mr. Mele comments further about the selection:

"First movement — The very first phrase poised and then released towards the body of the movement with grace and precision. Bridges from one idea to the next; crossed so subtly you don't know how you got there and no sediment whatsoever remaining from the preceding. Each idea has its own unique character but the sense of unity of the whole is not impaired. Rather, it is strengthened.

"Second — A sense of the heavy-heartedness in the quiet drama. Pathos with dignity.

Maturity with never a hint of the senile.

"Scherzo — A waltz too fast to invite any image of participation; and yet, curiously, tragic. Imitative figurines enchain from instrument to instrument with perfect on. There is savagery; but unlike the Household Name Quartet it is never marred by recurring swell and falling off ad nauseam — the bad habit which critics have mistaken for elegant passion.

"Finale — Launched seemingly out of the sleeves of the violins and sent into orbit with zest and joy, giving the effect of matter-of-fact (and superb) sleight of hand. Tempo is probably faster than usual, but I doubt whether even the grim Ludwig cultist would resent it. Remains music and is never display. In short, unostentatious mastery.

"The Curtis String Quartet is, above all, steeped in musical wisdom. Authority, maturity and elegance characterize most of what they do. They are perhaps the least likely to show lapses in musical taste of any of the leading quartets with the possible exception of the late Pro Arte Quartet, which is obviously unreasonable, and the Quartetto Italiano.

"Following the Beethoven quartet was one of those only too rare tone-poems written for this medium. As in this choice, La Oracion del Torero by the modern Spaniard, Turina, such pieces provide a desirable contrast in concert programs.

"The 'Oracion' is, one might say, a beautifully realized mood-piece, with no architectural pretensions. Rather, it expresses in musical colors the mystical experience of the bull-fighter before he is to enter the arena — perhaps for the last time. A muted fervor prevails and one has a glimpse of the fatalistic courage of these men as they commune with themselves and their God in the moment of their confrontations with their 'Truth'.

"The Brahms Quintet for Clarinet and Strings was scheduled for after intermission. Unhappily, I heard it. As in 'Tom Sawyer,' let me draw a curtain of charity over the rest of the scene. The clarinetist was in it well over his nose. The bumbling of this instrumentalist demeaned the Quartet; and one can only suggest that the clarinetist have another year or two at the conservatory. 'It's a hard instrument,' as they say in the profession. And Brahms makes them all harder.

"If the other organizations in the Minnewaska project are anywhere near the quality of the Curtis Quartet they should be gratefully sought by music-lovers, discerning or not, in the Hudson Valley area, and perhaps beyond it."

First Year for Summer Music Center in Ulster

By
DOROTHY A. NAREL
WOMAN'S PAGE EDITOR

Along with outdoor barbecues, swimming pools, summer theatres and vacations, music is demanding its share of attention in and out of New York State this season.

Look around and you'll see the impressive home of the Saratoga Performing Arts Center, the not too distant Berkshire Music Festival, Jacob's Pillow Dance Festival, Tanglewood and the Newport Folk Festival.

Here at home we have the distinguished Maverick Concert series of chamber music every Sunday afternoon in Woodstock and the Turnau Opera productions in Woodstock's Byrdcliffe Theatre. The fall and winter seasons bring our popular Community Concert Series to the stage of the Community Theatre in Kingston along with performances by the Hudson Valley Philharmonic.

To all of this, Ulster County can add now a new brilliant jewel—the Mid-Atlantic Music Camps and Music Center located just nine miles southwest of New Paltz.

A dream was transformed into reality and the end result is a music camp for serious minded students and a series of weekend concerts. It all spells high level culture featuring some of America's finest teachers.

If I sound impressed—I am!

How often have you listened to a concert that was good but not great; seen a play that was entertaining but not outstanding; or viewed a painting that was acceptable but not masterful.

Mediocrity infests our way of life and comfort is fast becoming master. Not so at the Mid-Atlantic Music Camp. The directors and executive staff demand and receive excellence from faculty and students. They work and perform in such a way that visitors to the camp or music tent cannot escape the fire and excitement of this new summer music center.

In its first year, the camp is giving more than 150 students a memorable summer. The gifted campers are rubbing elbows with America's musical elite, studying with artist-instructors and living and playing in 10,000 acres of the world's most picturesque area. The camp is nestled in the Shawangunk Mountains on the banks of the crystal clear 85-foot deep Lake Awosting, all part of the Lake Minnewaska resort complex.

Non-Profit Project

The Mid-Atlantic Music Camp is a non-profit membership corporation chartered by the State of New York. Tickets are tax deductible.

WILLIAM A. SCHENEMAN, executive director, and WILLIAM H. ZESWITZ Jr., business director, were the men who shared the dream of establishing this camp for the education of music students and they share responsibility on the board of directors with Dr. RUSSELL P. GETZ, dean, and WILLARD I. MUSSER, consultant.

Mr. Scheneman is now retired from his post as conductor of the U. S. Marine Corps Band and Mr. Zeswitz is president of the Zeswitz Music Center in Pennsylvania. Dr. Getz heads up the music and art department for the State of Pennsylvania and Mr. Musser is president of the New York State School Music Association.

Curriculum Schedule

Students in the junior and senior high divisions are given the opportunity to participate in a symphonic band, concert band, chorus-choir, ensembles, symphony orchestra and concert orchestra. Classes of study are scheduled in music composition, music history, piano accompaniment, piano ensembles, piano major, piano repertoire, string classes and voice as well as Theory I, II, Harmony I, II, conducting, composition and private lessons.

The recommended daily schedule of activities includes: two of three hours of major music activities; three or four hours of minor music activities including practice; one or two hours of recreation activities. Junior division members are limited to a total of seven hours of activities and seniors to eight hours.

Piano majors schedule one hour private lesson each week and three hours of daily practice. Voice majors arrange two 30-minute private lessons a week and two hours of practice daily.

The campers, ages 12-21, are assured a balance of healthful recreation and a joyful summer of highly motivated artistic endeavor with unlimited opportunities for developing music talents.

Weekend Concert Series

For poetry in motion you must watch LOUIS VYNER conduct the Mid-Atlantic Symphony Orchestra. This man is a conductor's conductor.

Vyner was associated with Maestro Leopold Stokowski, Arthur Rodzinski, Eli Mlynarski and Fritz Reiner. He taught Gian Carlo Menotti and was musical director and conductor of the National Youth Orchestra. Vyner is on the faculty of the famous Curtis Music Institute in Philadelphia.

KATHY LACEY, daughter of Mrs. Dorothy Lacey of Kingston, is dean of women. Kathy is a graduate of State University at Potsdam and was graduated from Kingston High School. She will join the staff of the Zeswitz Music Center in the fall.

The fifth weekend, August 4, 5 and 6 of new Minnewaska concerts, presented in a big blue and white striped tent next door to the Ski Minne Restaurant (just off highways U. S. 44/55) will be filled with opera, symphonic and chamber music.

On Friday Night (Aug. 4) at 8 p. m., the CURTIS STRING QUARTET will play Telemann, Debussy and Schubert selections. Performing will be the internationally famous artists and members-in-residence at the Camp, Max Aronoff, viola; Orlando Cole, cello; Jascha Brodsky, violin; and Geoffrey Michaels, violin.

The Minnewaska Symphony, also composed of artists-in-residence at the camp, includes leading members of the New York Philharmonic, the Philadelphia and Baltimore symphonies as well as advanced students. Frances Gould of Port Ewen, member of the Hudson Valley Philharmonic, was called upon to play with the orchestra also. She called it, "... an exciting experience."

The symphony orchestra, directed by Louis Vyner, will play Introduction to Act III, "Lohengrin," by Wagner; Scherzo from "Midsummer's Night Dream," Mendelssohn; Symphony No. 4 (Italian) by Mendelssohn; Mr. Vyner's Suite for Woodwind Quintet with Orchestra featuring the Ithaca Woodwind Quintet; and Smetana's Dances from "The Bartered Bride."

Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock Carol Longone's Operaglogue of Puccini's "Madame Butterfly" in costume will be given.

About music, Maestro Vyner once said: "Music is a bond among people of all nations—a medium through which people can gain better understanding and cooperation. As a means of communication, this universal language has often bridged the gap where diplomats have failed."

If you want to hear music that is played with maturity, understanding and dedication, treat yourself to a concert at the Mid-Atlantic Music Tent this weekend.

This newest jewel will disappear unless its concerts receive public support. Public apathy will destroy it.

Surely thinking people want to recognize achievements of eminent artists and outstanding youths as opposed to the Beatniks and pill-popping sediment in our society.

I strongly recommend the Mid-Atlantic Music Concerts. They are exciting adventures.

RECITAL HALL at the Mid-Atlantic Music Camp is an attractive cabin deep in the woodlands on Shawangunk Mountain. Following a visitor to the summer music center are William A. Scheneman, executive director, and Kathy Lacy, dean of women. The trio sat in on a choral rehearsal under the direction of Dr. Russell P. Getz.

KAROLINA MICHALAK, three year old daughter of the Mid-Atlantic's first chair violinist Thomas Michalak, listens attentively as student Herbert Greenberg plays nursery rhymes for her. Karolina's father is also assistant conductor of the Philadelphia Chamber Symphony Orchestra.

SECTION REHEARSAL

with Maestro Vyner is a production one. The string instrumentalists appear with the orchestra in concert every Saturday night at 8. Guest artists are scheduled each week also. Vyner is former associate of Leopold Stokowski and served as guest conductor of the Warsaw Symphony. He is on the faculty of the Curtis Institute in Philadelphia, Pa.

SHARP CONTRAST to classroom studies is the pause for recreational pursuits. Here students prepare for a canoe ride on the large picturesque lake nestled high in the wooded mountains and rocky cliffs where the camp is located. The Mid-Atlantic Music Camp is just nine miles southwest of New Paltz near exit 18 of the New York Thruway.

Mele Comments: Curtis String Quartet

Frank Mele, Woodstock music teacher and former violinist with the Rochester Philharmonic, Pittsburgh Symphony and Symphony of the Air, attended a Friday night concert given by the Curtis String Quartet at the Mid-Atlantic Music Tent in Lake Minnewaska, and had the following comments to make to The Freeman's woman's page editor:

"When, last Friday evening, I went to the mountain in search of a world-famous quartet, I found it shrouded in a light mist, giving the quest a sense of rather magical unreality — hardly lessened by the thought that the gentlemen might be inside that great tent over there, to one side of the elegantly modern Ski-Minne Lodge.

"Anyway, there was the festive tent, as described, and evidently, a good many others were bent on beating a path to this concert under canvas in spite of a drizzle that was upholding the questionable honor of a very spongy summer.

"Very bad for stringed instruments, they say. But the Maturity with never a hint of the senile.

"Scherzo—A waltz too fast to invite any image of participation; and yet, curiously, tragic. Imitative figures enchain from instrument to instrument with perfection. There is suave, but unlike the Household Name Quartet it is never marred by recurring swell and falling off at nauséum—the bad habit which critics have mistaken for elegant passion.

"Finale—Launched seemingly out of the sleeves of the violins and sent into orbit with zest and joy, giving the effect of matter-of-fact (and superb) sleight of hand. Tempo is probably faster than usual, but I doubt whether even the grim Ludwig cultist would resent it. Remains music and is never display. In short, unostentatious mastery.

"The Curtis String Quartet is, above all, steeped in musical wisdom. Authority, maturity and elegance characterize most of what they do. They are perhaps the least likely to show lapses in musical taste of any of the leading quartets with the possible exception of the late Pro Arte Quartet, which is obviously unreasonable, and the Quartetto Italiano.

"Following the Beethoven quartet was one of those only too rare tone-poems written for this medium. As in this choice,

A muted fervor prevails and one has a glimpse of the fatalistic courage of these men as they commune with themselves and their God in the moment of their confrontations with their 'Truth'.

PAPER WEDDING GOWN—This paper wedding gown is part of the autumn-winter 1967-68 line shown in Paris by Spanish-born fashion designer Paco Rabanne. SPANISH-BORN DESIGNER, Paco Rabanne, whose introduction of metals, leather and plastic into his fashions has made him famous, displayed his 1967-68 autumn-winter collection at Paris July 27. The model here wears an ensemble of leather with a helmet-styled hat by Jean Barthelet. (UPI Cablephoto)

Capes, Boots Are 'In'

Lucie Noel, AP fashion writer, remarked on Jacques Heim's designer Jean Pomarede's showing of classic and realistic winter fashions which trotted out a bit of fantasy from teddy bear-styled duffle coat with cap and matching pants to deluxe mink jackets with knitted pants.

There is a series of wool fall ensembles on three-quarter lines, in camel or gray meltons and broadcloth shown over tailored shifts, loosely belted in matching or contrasting colors.

Heim had half-length capes and matching tailored suits. One is a bright red, but the best are in fine gray herringbone with half cape and trim suit with a longer jacket.

A general feature are blacktie bows and leather belts and gold or silver button trim, mostly in double-breasted treatments.

Gold, silver or black velvet topboots go with most outdoor models.

Softness calls the tune for evening. Charming, easy to wear chiffons are treated on shirtwaist lines with self-cravats and long sleeves with cuffed and flounced wrists.

TREND FOR FALL—This tendency sketch illustrates the Paris designer Jules Francois Crahay at the House of Jeanne Lanvin, has joined the ranks of other courtiers in making the cape and thigh-high boots the trend of the upcoming fall season. (UPI Cablephoto)

Business, Professional Women Declare War on 'Outmoded' Laws

By JOY MILLER

NEW YORK (AP)—Determined business and professional women are declaring war on what they call outmoded state laws that once perhaps protected the frail working girl, but now actually stand between her and getting ahead in her job. Th 5,000 members and delegates who attended the annual convention of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, Inc., are returning home armed with strategy and ammunition. Tucked among their souvenirs from New York is a very businesslike little handbook, "How to Secure Repeal of 'Protective' Legislation."

The women plan a state-by-state mopup operation on laws that limit the number of hours a woman can work, or require special rest and meal periods for her, or prohibit her working in specified fields, such as bartending or around mines, or limiting the amount of weight she may lift on the job. Such statutes were originally enacted to protect women from exploitation and industrial hazard. Today, however, the business women contend, the conditions which gave rise to the laws are no longer in existence. Now all the laws do is bar a woman from a wide variety of jobs or preclude her from supervisory positions which may require nightwork or overtime occasionally.

Doctor Says

ODDLY, SUNBURN IS POSSIBLE WHILE BODY IS IMMERSSED

By Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

If you are a sun worshipper, my advice is to build a thick-walled temple with an opaque roof and do your worshipping inside it. Those who lie around in the sun for hours develop a suntan which, like modern drugs, has some unpleasant side effects. It causes thickening and wrinkling of the skin and in some persons skin cancer.

One skin specialist estimates that 30 per cent of his large practice is treating skin damage caused by excessive exposure to sunlight which aggravates such diseases as lupus erythematosus, pellagra, porphyria and senile freckles, especially in persons of light complexion.

The old idea that you can get sunburned from sunlight reflected from the surface of a lake has been disproved. The sun's actinic rays are not reflected but penetrate the water. As a result, they can burn your skin even when it is completely submerged.

Some of the preventive measures you can take include confining your participation in summer sports to the hours before 10 a. m. and after 2 p. m. but remember the sun doesn't run on daylight saving time.

The parasol may have gone out with the horse and buggy but it did serve a useful purpose. Its modern counterparts are sunscreening agents and wearing a wide-brimmed hat.

The most effective sun-screen ointments have contained para-aminobenzoic acid, benzyl salicylate or benzyl cinnamate but new improved preparations are being produced. One of these, Uval Lotion, is said to protect you from a wider spectrum of rays than the older preparations. Another is red veterinary petrolatum.

Although very effective, it is misnamed because it is amber rather than red and is not used by veterinarians. A third new product, naphthaquinone with dihydroxyacetone, has the advantage that, since it is absorbed by the skin, it is not washed off by sweating or swimming and will not stain your clothes. It wears off in about four days.

There are also at least two products that can be taken by mouth but, since they may cause side effects, local applications are preferred.

If you do get sunburned you can get some relief by applying corn starch in water, a bland cold cream or baby oil. Surprisingly, three to five minutes under an infrared lamp at close range has been found to be highly beneficial. Shorter exposures were not effective and longer exposures aggravated the inflammatory reaction.

Mrs. DeLisio Leader In County Golf Meet

Cards 43 Score At Woodstock In First Round

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Sports Editor

The Golfing Grandmother returned to the Ulster County Women's Golf Association tournament trail after a long absence Tuesday—but with her winning habits intact.

Mrs. A. J. (Wiggie) DeLisio carded a 42-41-83 over her home layout at Woodstock Country Club to carry a three-stroke lead into next Wednesday's final round at Wiltwyck Country Club.

Three strokes behind the perennial champion who has never been beaten in this tournament are: Mrs. Robert (Ginny) Carnright of Twaalfskill, with 41-45-86; Mrs. George Rusk, Twaalfskill, 42-44; and Mrs. Clifford Spiesman, smooth swinging Wiltwyck star, who did it on 44-42.

(The four leaders were the only players in the 75-entry field to break "90" on Woodstock's superbly manicured but "long playing" par 35-35-70 course.

Mrs. Bostic Stars

Mrs. Harvey Bostic, a 34 handicap player out of Wiltwyck took a commanding lead in the net division with a 10 under par 60 on 46-48-94 gross. She posted the rousing net in spite of successive 8's on the 16th and 17th holes then pulled herself to gether to bag a par-3 on the challenging 9th hole.

Mrs. Carnright, who shares the second place gross lead, is runnerup in the net division with her 86-21-65. Mrs. Rusk rates third with 86-17-69.

Mrs. Richard Davenport of Wiltwyck set the front nine pace with a sparkling 39 that included successive long birdie putts on the 8th and 9th holes. She ran into difficulty on the water holes the second time around, however, and finished with 52 for an aggregate 91.

Mrs. deLisio trailed Mrs. Davenport by two strokes at the turn in a tie with Mrs. Rusk. Mrs. Carnright had 41 and Mrs. Spiesman posted a 44.

Mrs. Gerald (Boots) Overbagh of Wiltwyck soared to a 60 on the front nine but rallied nicely to shave off 14 strokes the next time around.

Trophies will be awarded for both net and gross divisions after next Wednesday's round at Wiltwyck.

Mrs. Floyd A. DeWitt of Woodstock, the tournament chairman, said a revised schedule will be announced.

Mays Shatters Homer Drought In National

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

Leave it to Willie Mays.

It was a pitcher's paradise in the National League Tuesday night until Mays caught up with Woody Fryman in the seventh inning of San Francisco's 3-1 victory over Pittsburgh.

Willie walloped his 14th home run of the season and No. 556 of his career helping Juan Marichal win his 14th game.

Mays' blast was the first and only homer of the night as the pitchers shut off the power in the National League. The shot soared over the right center field fence at Candlestick Park and was Mays' first circuit since June 28. He struggled through a homeless July with a heavy cold and influenza.

In other National League action Tuesday, Chicago cut St. Louis' lead to 3½ games by clipping the Cardinals 3-2. Cincinnati shut out Atlanta 2-0 on Jim Maloney's three-hitter. New York topped Houston 5-1 and Philadelphia nipped Los Angeles 2-1.

Hurls 6-Hitter

Marichal hurled a six-hitter and drove in the game's tie-breaking run with a sixth-inning single following hits by Hal Lanier and Tito Fuentes.

Roberto Clemente had tripled home a run for the Pirates in the third but Jim Hart's two-out single in the fifth following an error by Gene Alley, tied it for the Giants.

Ferguson Jenkins hurled a six-hitter and won his 14th game for the Cubs, as the Cardinals' six-game winning streak came to an end.

Ron Santo and Clarence Jones smacked run-scoring doubles, helping Chicago to an early 3-0 edge. Jenkins was coasting on a two-hitter until the eighth when the Cards rocked him for both runs. But the young right-hander pitched out of the jam and hung on for the victory.

Maloney, 9-7, hurled his second complete game of the season and was in control all the way against the Braves. He scattered three singles and struck out eight.

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Ruben Navarro, ace fullback of the Philadelphia Spartans, was named player-coach of the National Professional Soccer League team Monday.

NEW YORK (AP)—Distance running ace Gerry Lindgren, pole vaulter Paul Wilson and Tommie Smith, a 200 and 440 yard specialist, were among those named Monday to represent the United States in the World Student Games at Tokyo.

Boyer, Colavito Change Chisox To New Bombers

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Chicago White Sox gained the reputation as a good-pitch, no-hit team. But that was in their BBC era—Before Boyer and Colavito.

Ken Boyer, whose pinch hit single tied the game in Chicago's 4-2 victory over Cleveland Monday night, got a double and three singles in five times at bat and scored twice in the White Sox' 11-5 drubbing of the Indians Tuesday night.

Colavito, who won Monday's game with a two-run homer in the 10th inning, collected three singles in five times up, scored three runs and drove in one Tuesday night.

Since being acquired from the New York Mets July 22, Boyer has gone 14-for-31 for a .452 average, with four RBIs. Colavito, picked up from Cleveland last Saturday, is 4-for-12 for a .333 mark, with three RBIs.

Elsewhere in the American League Tuesday night, Boston lost 4-3 to Kansas City before beating the Athletics 8-3, Minnesota edged Washington 5-4, Detroit topped Baltimore 4-2 and New York trounced California 6-1.

Lead to 2½ Games

The White Sox, who increased their league lead to 2½ games over second-place Boston, blew a 4-0 margin before breaking a 5-5 tie with six runs in the ninth inning.

Boyer doubled and, after pinch hitter Smoky Burgess walked, scored the go-ahead run on Colavito's single. Tom McCraw then doubled home a run, three more came in on Ron Hansen's bases loaded double, and finally crossed the plate on Walt Williams' triple.

Cleveland scored three times in the seventh off starter Gary Peters and tied the game with a pair on Lou Maye's single in the eighth off reliever Hoyt Wilhelm, who had driven in the Sox' fifth run with a single in the top of the inning.

Kansas City scored four times in the third inning on Bert Campaneris' three-run triple and John Donaldson's single and Chuck Dobson survived a three-run homer by Car Yastrzemski, his 27th, in the sixth for the first game victory over Boston.

Jim Lonborg, on pass from two week's active duty with the Army Reserve, ran his record to 15-4, with relief help, in the second game.

Boston clinched the nightcap with four runs in the seventh, three coming on Mike Ryan's homer.

Hurls 6-Hitter
Marichal hurled a six-hitter and drove in the game's tie-breaking run with a sixth inning single following hits by Hal Lanier and Tito Fuentes.

Roberto Clemente had tripled home a run for the Pirates in the third but Jim Hart's two-out single in the fifth following an error by Gene Alley, tied it for the Giants.

Ferguson Jenkins hurled a six-hitter and won his 14th game for the Cubs, as the Cardinals' six-game winning streak came to an end.

Ron Santo and Clarence Jones smacked run-scoring doubles, helping Chicago to an early 3-0 edge. Jenkins was coasting on a two-hitter until the eighth when the Cards rocked him for both their runs. But the young right-hander pitched out of the jam and hung on for the victory.

Maloney, 9-7, hurled his second complete game of the season and was in control all the way against the Braves. He scattered three singles and struck out eight.

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Ruben Navarro, ace fullback of the Philadelphia Spartans, was named player-coach of the National Professional Soccer League team Monday.

Elmer's Early Surge Edges Herzog's, 5-4

Elmer's Inn scored five runs in the first three innings, then held off Herzog Construction's late surge for a 5-4 squeaker in City Baseball League action Tuesday.

Bob Spiers, the winning pitcher on a 6-hitter choked off a Herzog rally in the seventh after an error and singles by Skip Lyons and Len Whitten produced a run.

Tom Frazer doubled home two Elmer tallies in the first behind Schoff's two bagger and Tegeles' single. Schoff had a pair of doubles, and Jerry Hawkins had a triple.

Boyer, Colavito Change Chisox To New Bombers

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Chicago White Sox gained the reputation as a good-pitch, no-hit team. But that was in their BBC era—Before Boyer and Colavito.

Ken Boyer, whose pinch hit singled tied the game in Chicago's 4-2 victory over Cleveland Monday night, got a double and three singles in five times at bat and scored twice in the White Sox' 11-5 drubbing of the Indians Tuesday night.

Colavito, who won Monday's game with a two-run homer in the 10th inning, collected three singles in five times up, scored three runs and drove in one Tuesday night.

Since being acquired from the New York Mets July 22, Boyer has gone 14-for-31 for a .452 average, with four RBI. Colavito, picked up from Cleveland last Saturday, is 4-for-12 for a .333 mark, with three RBI.

Elsewhere in the American League Tuesday night, Boston lost 4-3 to Kansas City before beating the Athletics 8-3, Minnesota edged Washington 5-4, Detroit topped Baltimore 4-2 and New York trounced California 6-1.

Lead to 2½ Games
The White Sox, who increased their league lead to 2½ games over second-place Boston, blew a 4-0 margin before breaking a 5-5 tie with six runs in the ninth inning.

Boyer doubled and, after pinch hitter Smoky Burgess walked, scored the go-ahead run on Colavito's single. Tom McCraw then doubled home a run, three more came in on Ron Hansen's bases loaded double, and final tally crossed the plate on Walt Williams' triple.

Cleveland scored three times in the seventh off starter Gary Peters and tied the game with a pair on Lee Maye's single in the eighth off reliever Hoyt Wilhelm, who had driven in the Sox' fifth run with a single in the top of the inning.

Kansas City scored four times in the third inning on Bert Campaneris' three-run triple and John Donaldson's single and Chuck Dobson survived a three-run homer by Car Yastrzemski, his 27th, in the sixth for the first-game victory over Boston.

Jim Lonborg, on pass from two week's active duty with the Army Reserve, ran his record to 15-4, with relief help, in the second game.

Boston clinched the nightcap with four runs in the seventh, three coming on Mike Ryan's homer.

Jayvee Park

Title to Block

Block Park has won the Jayvee division championship with a perfect 4-0 record in the City Park softball League. The title is still up for grabs in the Varsity division where Hutton leads with a 3-0 record.

If Hutton can knock off Forsyth Park Monday, Aug. 7, at Hutton its path to the title will be eased.

Jayvee division all-star contest will be played Aug. 9 at 10 a. m. at Loughran Park. Coach Leon Hanna's undefeated Block Park champions take on an all star squad from the rest of the league.

Varsity division all star game is scheduled Aug. 11 at 2 p. m. at Hutton, with the league champions meeting an all-star array.

Standings to date:

(Jayvee Division)
Block Park, 4-0; Hutton Park, 2-1; Hasbrouck Park, 1-2; Loughran Park, 1-3; Forsyth Park, 0-2.

(Varsity Division)
Hutton Park, 3-0; Loughran Park, 2-1; Block Park, 1-2; Forsyth Park, 1-1; Hasbrouck Park, 3-0.

Evalynda Sets

Track Record

In Cox Pace

MONTICELLO—Poplar Evalynda, an odds-on choice, and Lady B. Fast, a 35-1 longshot, scored in two Grand Circuit stakes events for three-year-old fillies at Monticello Raceway Tuesday night.

Poplar Evalynda won the Walter Cox Pace in a record 2:01 for driver George Sholtz, a $9,010 event. Bill Popfinger drove Lady B. Fast to a nose win over favored Lana Hanover in the Fred Egan $8,320 trot in 2:05.1, returning backers $73.20.

In a renewal of their classic duel in the sun on Goshen's Historic Track in July, when they each won a heat in 2:01.1, Poplar Evalynda scored a neck win over Meadow Elva in a season's record time of 2:01—also shaving nearly two seconds from the Monticello track record for gait and sex.

George Sholtz took the Gene Abbe-Evalynda Byrd filly to the front around the first turn, but Joe O'Brien, catch-driving Meadow Elva for Billy Houghton, rushed up to take charge at the quarter in :29.3. They sped to the half in that position in :59.8 but exchanged the lead when Poplar Evalynda moved out at the three quarter.

It was Poplar Evalynda just holding on in the final strides to the wire, fighting off Meadow Elva's challenge. Well back was Ember Hanover in third.

The winner, now having taken 11 of 15 outings this season, has banked $50,000 for the year. She was backed down at the windows, too, paying $3.20 for $2 to win.

Poplar Evalynda, with the 2:01 clocking, erased the three-year-old filly pacing mark of 2:02.4 set a year ago by Bonjour Hanover, driven by Stanley Dancer, in the same stakes event.

Hurler 0-Hitter

In BRL Tourney

PHOENIXVILLE, Pa. (AP)—Eddie Kline of New Castle, Del. pitched a no-hitter Tuesday night to lead his team to a 4-0 victory over Alta Vista, Ontario in the Babe Ruth League play-offs here.

Kline walked one and struck out eight, in the first no-hitter of the playoffs this year.

In other games Dunkirk, N.Y. defeated Yorktown, Va. 8-7 in 11 innings; Levittown, Pa. beat Rockville Centre, N.Y. 6-3 in eight innings and Carlstadt-Woodridge, N.J. shut out Phoenixville, Pa. 14-0.

Dunkirk's Dave Criscione struck out 14 men, walked six, and slammed a home run but wasn't the winning pitcher in the victory over Yorktown. Ken Jakubiec, who had been catching, came in to pitch the 11th and received credit for the victory.

Tony Varacallo was Levittown's batting hero with a homer.

Yorktown and Alta Vista were eliminated after Tuesday's losses. Carlstadt-Woodridge now has a 3-0 record, while Levittown is 2-0.

In Wednesday's games, Phoenixville plays New Castle; Rockville Centre takes on Dunkirk and Levittown plays Carlstadt-Woodridge. The winners of Phoenixville-New Castle and Rockville Centre-Dunkirk also will oppose each other.

U. S. Beats Ecuador

But It's Not the Cup

SOUTH ORANGE, N.J. (AP)

The United States finally has beaten Ecuador in tennis, but it came about six weeks too late to do America's Davis Cup chances any good.

Marty Riessen of Evanston, Ill., seeded fifth, turned back Ecuador's Davis Cup hero Francisco "Pancho" Guzman 9-7, 6-2 Tuesday in the second round of the Eastern Grass Court Tennis Championships.

Riessen and Clark Graebner of Beachwood, Ohio, lost their Davis Cup doubles match to Guaman and Miguel Olvera as Ecuador upset the United States 3-2 in Guayaquil in June. The winners' other two points came as first Olvera and then Guzman, in the deciding match, whipped top-ranked Arthur Ashe.

Byman-Randall Finale At Wiltwyck --- Maybe?

The classic struggle between age and youth may be shaping up in the Wiltwyck Country Club's Championship Flight where chances are good that Leon Randall will defend his title against Ed Byman, the rising young star, in next Sunday's finals.

Byman eliminated veteran Charles J. (Jimmy) Turk, 2 and 1, in the first round then holed a 10-foot birdie-3 on the first extra hole to nip his buddy and constant rival, Joe Bostic.

Bostic forfeits

In other developments, Harvey Bostic, who is Randall's only solid threat at Wiltwyck, was forced to forfeit his first-round match to his brother, Joe, because of a misunderstanding. Harvey was vacationing in Cape Cod and arrived in Kingston too late for his scheduled match.

Dick Davenport defaulted to Frank Murray, a Wiltwyck newcomer who then ousted Harold (Clancy) Van Aken, 1 up, in 19 holes in second-round match.

Byman won the 10th and 11th, where Bostic three-putted from 25 feet. They halved 12 and 13 where Byman made a scrambling recovery for a one-putt par. Byman caught up with Bostic with a par 4 on 14 but Bostic took the next to go 1 up.

Bostic missed a crucial 1½-foot putt on 16 to even the match and Byman held on with a spectacular recovery to halve the 17th with a par 5. A

Extra-Hole Matches

Three of the four second-round matches went extra holes, with Cosenza topping Gaffney, 1 up, in 19 holes.

Cosenza rallied after trailing Gaffney 3-up after 13. A three-putt 18th cost Gaffney the match. On the 19th, Cosenza got his par 4 but Gaffney, trapped on his approach, needed 5.

Bostic and Byman staged another one of their classic duels. This time, Byman rallied from a 3-hole deficit after 9 which Bostic played in even par.

Extra-Hole Matches

Three of the four second-round matches went extra holes, with Cosenza topping Gaffney, 1 up, in 19 holes.

Cosenza rallied after trailing Gaffney 3-up after 13. A three-putt 18th cost Gaffney the match. On the 19th, Cosenza got his par 4 but Gaffney, trapped on his approach, needed 5.

Bostic and Byman staged another one of their classic duels. This time, Byman rallied from a 3-hole deficit after 9 which Bostic played in even par.

Byman won the 10th and 11th, where Bostic three-putted from 25 feet. They halved 12 and 13 where Byman made a scrambling recovery for a one-putt par. Byman caught up with Bostic with a par 4 on 14 but Bostic took the next to go 1 up.

Bostic missed a crucial 1½-foot putt on 16 to even the match and Byman held on with a spectacular recovery to halve the 17th with a par 5. A driver 8-iron and 10-foot putt closed out the match for Byman on the 18th.

Jayvee Park

Title to Block

Block Park has won the Jayvee division championship with a perfect 4-0 record in the City Park softball League. The title is still up for grabs in the Varsity division where Hutton leads with a 3-0 record.

If Hutton can knock off Forsyth Park Monday, Aug. 7, at Hutton its path to the title will be eased.

Jayvee division all-star contest will be played Aug. 9 at 10 a. m. at Loughran Park. Coach Leon Hanna's undefeated Block Park champions take on an all-star squad from the rest of the league.

Varsity division all-star game is scheduled Aug. 11 at 2 p. m. at Hutton, with the league champions meeting an all-star array.

Standings to date: (Jayvee Division) Block Park, 4-0; Hutton Park, 2-1; Hasbrouck Park, 1-2; Loughran Park, 1-3; Forsyth Park, 0-2.

Evalynda Sets Track Record In Cox Pace

MONTICELLO—Poplar Evalynda, an odds-on choice, and Lady B. Fast, a 35-1 longshot, scored in two Grand Circuit stakes events for three-year-old fillies at Monticello Raceway Tuesday night.

Poplar Evalynda won the Walter Cox Pace in a record 2:01 for driver George Sholly, a $9,010 event. Bill Popfinger drove Lady B. Fast to a nose win over favored Lana Hanover in the Fred Egan $8,320 trot in 2:05.1, returning backers $73.20.

In a renewal of their classic duel in the sun on Goshen's Historic Track in July, when they each won a heat in 2:01.1, Poplar Evalynda scored a neck win over Meadow Elva in a season's record time of 2:01, also shaving nearly two seconds from the Monticello track record for gait and sex.

George Sholly took the Gene Abbe-Evalynda Byrd fill to the front around the first turn, but Joe O'Brien, catch-driving Meadow Elva for Billy Hawthorn, rushed up to take charge at the quarter in :29.3. They sped to the half in that position in :59.8 but exchanged the lead when Poplar Evalynda moved out at the three quarter.

It was Poplar Evalynda just holding on in the final strides to the wire, fighting off Meadow Elva's challenge. Well back was Ember Hanover in third. The winner, now having taken on 11 of 15 outings this season, has banked $50,000 for the year. She was backed down at the windows, too, paying $3.20 for $2 to win.

Poplar Evalynda, with the 2:01 clocking, erased the three-year-old fillie pacing mark of 2:02.4 set a year ago by Bonjour Hanover, driven by Stanley Dancer, in the same stakes event.

Spiceberry 1st In Spa Feature

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N.Y. (AP) — The first of the Saratoga Race Course's three stake races for 2-year-old fillies is today's feature as Ave Valeque holds down the favorite's role in the 50th running of the Schuylerville.

If all 13 entries go to the post, a victory in the 5 1/2 furlong Schuylerville will be worth $20,150.

Ave Valeque, owned by Mrs. Alice Bell, was rated tops in her initial start and maiden victory at Aqueduct July 26, when she won by six lengths. Ave Valeque is by Bold Ruler from Pillow Talk. Ogden Phipps' Lucretia Borgia, trained by Edward Neely, is second choice in the Schuylerville, which along with the six-furlong Adirondack and the $50,000 Spinaway, both of which will be run later this month, makes up the track's tests for 2-year-olds.

In Tuesday's feature, Spiceberry won the $15,000 one-mile turf event. Sette Bello was second and Spoonbait took third. The favorite, Flag, was scratched. Spiceberry paid $22.40, $5.60 and $4.40.

Vikings Trade

BOCA RATON, Fla. (AP) — The Miami Dolphins announced Tuesday the acquisition of tight end Preston Carpenter, who was recently released by the Minnesota Vikings.

WIBC CHAMPIONS—Individual star of the 1967 WIBC Championship Tournament was Mrs. Carol Miller (top left) of Milwaukee whose 278/710 in the team event were high for the tourney and helped the phys ed teacher to the all events title with 1862. Upper right is winning Orphans team with a 2970 total: seated, Patricia McBride, D. D. Jacobson; standing — Mary Badstuber, Betty Mivalez and Bobbie Solden. Other 1967 champions: Miss Mildred Ignizio, Rochester, Queens tournament; Mrs. Elaine Liburdi—Mrs. Joan Oleske, New Jersey, doubles, 1252; and Mrs. Glorian Paeth, Port Huron, Mich. singles, 632.

Byman-Randall Finale At Wiltwyck---Maybe?

The classic struggle between age and youth may be shaping up in the Wiltwyck Country Club's Championship Flight where chances are good that Leon Randall will defend his title against Ed Byman, the rising young star, in next Sunday's finale.

Byman eliminated veteran Charles J. (Jimmy) Turk, 2 and 1, in the first round then holed a 10-foot birdie-3 on the first extra hole to nip his buddy and constant rival, Joe Bostic.

Randall, pointing for his 10th Wiltwyck title, trounced Robert O. Merritt, 5 and 4, in first round but ran into stubborn opposition from collegian Neil Pauker before winning, 1 up, in a second-round match.

Bostic forfeits.

In other developments, Harvey Bostic, who is Randall's only solid threat at Wiltwyck, was forced to forfeit his first-round match to his brother, Joe, because of a misunderstanding. Harvey was vacationing in Cape Cod and arrived in Kingston too late for his scheduled match.

Dick Davenport defaulted to Frank Murray, a Wiltwyck newcomer who then ousted Harold (Clancy) Van Aken, 1 up.

Byman won the 10th and 11th, where Bostic three-putted from 25 feet. They halved 12 and 13 where Byman made a scrambling recovery for a one-putt par. Byman caught up with Bostic with a par 4 on 14 but Bostic took the next to go 1 up.

Bostic missed a crucial 1 1/2-foot putt on 16 to even the match and Byman held on with a spectacular recovery to halve the 17th with a par 5. A

Pauker Persistent

Pauker, the former Kingston High star now playing out of Princeton, reeled off five straight pars to lead Randall 1 up after 5. Randall led by one at 9 and was three up by the 14th after Pauker ran into successive bogeys.

After a halved 15th, Pauker picked up two straight holes—the 16th with a par and 17th with a birdie-4 from 30 feet after a fine chip shot.

This left Randall one up with one to go and he protected his margin with a par-4 on the 18th.

Randall said he was lucky to beat Pauker, pointing out the collegian had missed at least five birdie putts from 15 and under.

Two down to Murray with three holes to go, Van Aken chipped in for a birdie 2 on the 16th and took the 17th with a par-5 after a remarkable recovery from the rock ledge on the right side of the green. They halved the 18th to finish all even.

Murray got his par on the first extra hole, but Van Aken's green shot sailed over the approach and he was unable to get down in 4.

County Tennis Play To Start August 16

The annual Ulster County Tennis Championships will be played August 16 through Sept. 4 at Forsyth Park.

Tournament chairman William Spangenberg said the tournament is open to all persons working, residing or studying in Ulster County.

Competition will be in men's singles and doubles, women's singles and mixed doubles. Deadline for entries is August 13 and entries may be sent to Kingston Tennis Association, Dr. Avery Leete Smith, 48 Maiden Lane, Kingston.

Entry blanks are available from members of the KTA, at Forsyth Park and other locations. Entry fee is $1.00 and contestants must play in accepted tennis attire. Each contestant also must furnish a can of new tennis balls for each event.

Dick Smith is defending champion in singles and shares the doubles title with Dick Little and mixed doubles with Mary Fowler.

Zaharias Memorial Golf Dates Set at Wiltwyck

Wiltwyck Country Club has set Friday, Aug. 11, through Wednesday, Aug. 16 as the dates for its annual Babe Didrikson Memorial Fund golf tournament. Proceeds go to the American Cancer Society.

Women play 36 holes and men 18 in the handicap tournament. Winner of the women's division will have her name placed on the Sylvia Voss Memorial plaque which is kept at the Wiltwyck clubhouse.

American Cancer Society will award trophies to the winner and runnerup in each division.

The tournament has been continuous since 1958. Past winners in the tournament include: Mrs. Prescott Newell, Mrs. Sidney Pauker, Mrs. Arthur Motzkin, Mrs. Robert O. Merritt, Mrs. Raymond Sawyer, Mrs. Richard Stewart, Mrs. Charles Ronder and Mrs. Clifford Spiesman in that order. Men winners have been Jerome Mills and Bill Kaufman.

Mrs. Howard A. DeWitt and Mrs. Lloyd LeFever are co-chairmen of the event.

Solons Cutting LBJ Social Security Hike

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Ways and Means Committee is trimming President Johnson's Social Security proposals sharply to avoid piling a big payroll tax increase on top of an anticipated jump in regular income taxes.

Instead of a benefit increase for retirees of at least 15 percent as Johnson proposed, the committee now all but finally has voted for 12 1/2 percent.

Press learned. Instead of raising the current $44 minimum monthly payment to $70, the committee would hike it to $50.

Another preliminary decision is to set aside entirely the administration proposal to extend hospital and other benefits of medicare, now confined to those 65 or older, to younger persons retired because of disability.

These rollbacks make possible a much more modest increase in the payroll taxes that finance basic Social Security and medicare. These taxes now are levied on a wage base of a maximum $6,000 per employee. Employers and employees each pay 4.4 percent.

Johnson's proposal would have increased the base next year to $7,800, the first step in a staged rise to $10,800 by 1974.

The committee instead has written in a single increase, effective Jan. 1, to $7,600. Members concede future Congresses may have to make more increases.

The maximum annual Social Security tax an employee now pays is $290.40. Under the administration proposal, the maximum next year would be $343.20. Under the committee version, the maximum would be $334.40—up $44 from this year—and for those earning no more than $6,600 there would be no increase.

Stokely Threatens LBJ, British PM

HAVANA (AP) — Black Power advocate Stokely Carmichael called Tuesday for Negro guerrilla uprisings in U.S. cities and made threats against President Johnson, British Prime Minister Harold Wilson and other high U.S. officials.

Declaring that Black Power advocates "are moving into urban guerrilla warfare in the United States," the militant Negro agitator told a three-hour news conference:

"We have no alternative but to use aggressive armed violence in order to own the land, houses and stores inside our communities, and to control the politics of those communities."

U.S. newsmen were barred from the news conference, but Carmichael's remarks were quoted by Havana Radio, George Ware of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee, and Felix Greene, a British citizen reporting for the San Francisco Chronicle.

Carmichael declared that Negro guerrillas "must develop a consciousness so that when people who are struggling get killed, the retaliation will be against the leaders of the West."

CLINTONDALE NEWS

CLINTONDALE — Over 400 tickets were sold for the annual picnic and barbecue of the Town of Plattekill held Sunday at Kleins Lake Farm, Tuckers Corners Road. The barbecue serving started at 3 p. m. and continued until all were served.

A number of the Republican candidates on state, county and town levels paid visits during the day. John Klein, owner of the property was recently elected treasurer of the Ulster County Republican Party.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Noborg of Marlboro have announced the birth of a son at St. Francis Hospital, Poughkeepsie. Mr. Noborg was born in Clintondale.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Simpson and family have returned from a camping trip in Sullivan County.

James Monte, son of Thomas Monte of Tuckers Corners Road is one of two Iowa University graduates to be exchanged with the Technical Lycée for Main in Reims, France for the 1967-68 academic year.

At the Clintondale churches, the Rev. Gerald Sutich, pastor of the Friends Church at 11 a. m. Sunday.

At the Methodist Church the service will begin at 9:45 a. m. with the Rev. Purdy Halstead occupying the pulpit.

Anthony Palazzo and son, Robert were deep sea fishing out of a New Jersey port on Saturday.

Private T. B. Peterson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Turner B. Willis of this place has completed a course in radio at the Fort Knox, Kentucky, Army Base. In the ten weeks course he was taught basic radio and electricity and learned the International Morse code.

Star Scout John Eberhardt of this place is one of the Boy Scouts on the Rip Van Winkle Council Expedition to Philmont Scout Ranch at Cimarron, New Mexico.

Robert Coy of Andonia is one of the board of directors for the Ulster County Fair to be held on the grounds of the county farm at New Paltz Friday, Saturday and Sunday, August 12 and 13. Clintondale Grange will have an exhibition at the fair.

Robert Palazzo, son of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Palazzo and Carl Palazzo, son of Mr. and Mrs. Guido Palazzo will report at the Great Lakes Naval Training Center on August 10 to start their recruit training.

Both enlisted as soon as they were graduated from Highland High School in June.

Mr. and Mrs. Morris Fasciano and children and Mr. and Mrs. Leo Reilly and children are spending a week's vacation in Atlantic City.

Mr. and Mrs. James Mértens and family and Helen Mitchell attended the bench show and field trials at Middletown.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold L. Dingee have left for their home at Beebeach Beach, Fla., after visiting friends and relatives.

Mr. Dingee was born here, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Abraham L. Dingee.

Roger Rosenkrantz has been serving as a counselor at Kingswood, the Methodist Church Camp near Hancock.

The annual two-day bazaar of the Clintondale Fire Department on Friday and Saturday, August 18 and 19, promises to be bigger and better than ever.

All decisions made by the committee still are subject to change before it votes to send the bill to the House.

"Let us develop a consciousness that when they touch one guerrilla, Lyndon Johnson, Dean Rusk, Robert McNamara and Harold Wilson must pay the price," he said. "We are not waiting for them to kill us. We will move to kill them first—or rather, we are working towards that goal."

He presumably included Wilson because the Home Office last week banned him from Britain.

"One good thing about the Vietnam war is that the United States has taught us how to kill," Carmichael declared later. "Our brothers returning from Vietnam are going to use that training well in the cities of the United States."

The State Department is making preparations to revoke the passport of Carmichael, who came to Havana for the Communist-dominated congress of the Organization of Latin American Solidarity. The Justice Department is also investigating the activities of the 26-year-old militant, a native of Trinidad who was raised in New York's Harlem and the Bronx and is a naturalized U.S. citizen.

HONORED IN VIETNAM for disarming a berserk soldier is U.S. Army Staff Sergeant Gary L. Flaherty. Flaherty received the Soldier's Medal from Colonel Walter C. Gelini in ceremonies conducted in Long Binh, Vietnam on June 16.

Gets Medal for Disarming Soldier

For taking a loaded rifle from an intoxicated soldier who had gone berserk, Army Staff Sergeant Gary L. Flaherty (right), of Adena, Ohio, received the Soldier's Medal in June 16 ceremonies at Long Binh, Vietnam.

Congratulating the son of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Flaherty, who live on Route 1, is Colonel Walter C. Gelini, commander of the 79th Engineer Group.

The soldier was in the orderly room of the group's headquarters company, brandishing the rifle and saying he was going to kill someone. The 22-year-old sergeant attempted to talk to him, but was forced from the room.

After notifying the military police, the sergeant, a career counselor in the company, returned to the room, exposing himself to the rifle at point-blank range. As the man increased his threats and belligerence, Sgt. Flaherty charged him and wrestled the weapon from him, preventing injury not only to other persons, but to the distraught soldier himself.

Sgt. Flaherty entered the Army in July 1961. He is a 1961 graduate of Adena High School. His wife, Rita, lives at 30 1/2 Snyder Avenue, Kingston.

Skips Training, Goes to Vietnam

WASHINGTON (AP) — Louis Melendez wasn't supposed to be in Vietnam—but the Army says chances he'll be punished for deserting basic training are slight indeed.

After all, how many soldiers go absent without leave to fight in Vietnam?

That's what the 18-year-old Melendez did—twice. The native of Bayamon, Puerto Rico, currently is at Walter Reed Military Hospital here, undergoing treatment for shrapnel wounds suffered during his second stint on the front lines.

He still wants to go back to Vietnam and "do something for my country," he told the Washington Post.

Melendez joined the Army last November and was assigned to training at Ft. Benning, Ga.

"But you know," he told the Post, "I was sitting there after three weeks of training and I had seven more weeks to go when I heard they wanted me to go to jump school, which was going to be another four weeks."

"That morning I read about how 250 Green Berets had been killed in battle and that depressed me very much."

He said he deserted camp and took a plane from Atlanta to New York. He reported to Ft. Hamilton in Brooklyn, and there told officers he was home on emergency leave from Vietnam.

He also said he was due back the next day but had lost his orders.

Ft. Hamilton authorities, not wanting to see a soldier get in trouble by failing to report as scheduled, drafted what they thought were duplicate orders, he said. Melendez flew to San Francisco, where he boarded a Vietnam-bound plane.

Arriving in Vietnam, he showed his Ft. Hamilton-drafted orders and was assigned to the Fifth Special Forces.

He served and fought with the unit for three months before his past caught up and he was shipped back to Ft. Benning.

But he stayed only a week before going AWOL again. Using the same scheme, he said he not only made it back to Vietnam but was assigned again to the Fifth Special Forces. He fought with a unit in the Mekong Delta, where he was wounded May 15.

His repeat ruse was uncovered during his subsequent stay in a U.S. hospital in Japan.

The Post quoted Col. Richard Louis Traub, commander of the medical holding company at Walter Reed, as saying Melendez probably will be discharged soon.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Burton and Mr. and Mrs. John J. Batten spent the weekend on Racquette Lake.

Francis Rheel who fractured his pelvis in a fall at his home three weeks ago is still a patient at St. Francis' Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. David J. Murphy returned to their home on Phillips Avenue after spending three weeks in Europe.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Dunham and family had a picnic at North Lake in the Catskills Friday.

Highland Grange held its annual clambake Saturday at the Grange Hall in Lloyd and reported an excellent attendance. Two bakes were served, at 5 and 7 p. m.

Dr. Carl F. Meekins and son Robert and two friends returned Friday from a two weeks' vacation on the Meekins' cabin cruiser. They traveled up the Hudson, and the length of Lake Champlain, down the Richelieu River to the St. Lawrence and up to Montreal where they attended Expo 67 for four days.

Mr. and Mrs. William Carter Sr. and son Jan have returned from a trip that took them to Expo '67, the 100 Islands and Toronto, Canada.

Mr. and Mrs. Melbourne Strong left Tuesday for a stay at their cottage on the St. Lawrence River.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Dirck spent the weekend at Dirck cottage on Ulster Heights Lake near Ellenville.

Dominick Costantino, president of Highland Hose Company, was among those attending the annual meeting of the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association at Ellenville Thursday night. Alvin Beatty of New Paltz was elected president for the coming year. Highland Hose Company will send men and equipment to the annual association parade in Ellenville on Sept. 9.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Penney have returned from a vacation spent at Fair Haven.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Timperie and family spent last week on Cape Cod.

Mr. and Mrs. James Andreini have returned to their home on New Paltz Road after a camp trailer trip to Ohio.

3 More U.S. Planes Downed In Viet Action; Ship Strafed

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command today announced the loss of three more American warplanes in combat and a Communist attack on an American ship.

The ground war lapsed back into a lull with no further fighting reported in the 10,000-man allied Operation Colorado II in the Mekong delta south of Saigon.

Two of the planes were lost over North Vietnam and the other in South Vietnam, bringing the total number of American warplanes reported lost in combat in the war to 825. This includes 629 over North Vietnam and 196 over the South. One of the losses over the North was an Air Force RF101 reconnaissance Voodoo and the pilot was missing. The other was a carrier-based Navy A4 Skyhawk; its pilot was rescued.

Communist fire brought down an Air Force F100 Supersonic fighter-bomber on a combat support mission over South Vietnam and the pilot was killed.

The U.S. Command also announced that six Vietnamese civilians were killed and 23 wounded by U.S. artillery and air-strike mistakes. In a third such incident, a U.S. Army helicopter accidentally fired on troops of the U.S. 1st Infantry Division 15 miles northeast of Saigon, killing one U.S. soldier and wounding several others.

A military spokesman said Viet positions along the banks of the Long Tau River opened up on the American merchant ship Seatrail Florida 15 miles southeast of Saigon with small arms, automatic weapons and recoilless rifles, but the only damage was two punctured tires on a vehicle the ship was carrying.

Navy river patrol boats, army gunship helicopters and air force fighter-bombers swarmed over the area and killed four Viet Cong, the spokesman said.

The ship is owned by Seatrail Lines Inc. of New York.

Field commanders in the delta operation made estimates of enemy dead ranging from 150 to 350, but the U.S. Command put the figure at 200. The Saigon headquarters also reported 16 Americans killed and 59 wounded so far in the sweep. Unofficial reports from the field said other targets northeast of Hanoi had been killed and 50 wounded. In the air war, U.S. Air Force jets swarmed over the Hanoi region and blasted a North Vietnamese army barracks, a rail siding and the Bac Giang electric power plant, 28 miles northeast of Hanoi.

U.S. Navy planes from the carriers Oriskany and Intrepid attacked a cargo craft along North Vietnam's seacoast and other targets northeast of Hanoi. The carrier force on Yankee Station, in the Gulf of Tonkin, was temporarily reduced to two by the fire on the Forrestal last weekend and the departure of the Bon Homme Richard for normal leave. A replacement carrier, possibly the Constellation, was expected to join the Oriskany and Intrepid soon.

The crossings begin after nightfall when the searing heat of the Jordan Valley subsides and the west bank of the river is curfewed by Israeli army patrols.

Shopkeepers in Amman report that Arab truck drivers pay Israeli soldiers on the west bank 10 dinars—$28—per truck to look the other way while they drive loads of fruit and vegetables across shallow fords in the river for the market in Amman. They pay again when they cross back into occupied territory for another load.

Arab refugees who fled from their homes on the west bank and are now crowded into desert camps around Amman report that many of their friends are crossing back to their homes by night. They pay Arab Palestinians five dinars—$14—per refugee to show them the river crossings and escort them past Israeli patrols.

The slow-flowing green waters of the Jordan are only five yards wide in places. The river is easy to cross and bushes or orchards lining the banks in places provide good cover.

At least five Jordanians have been killed by Israeli troops in the secret nighttime crossings, Jordanian security officials report.

There is no way of estimating the number of trucks or people slipping across the river, but one Western official connected with the refugee camps said: "The traffic seems to be brisk and run driver."

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command today announced the loss of three more American warplanes in combat and a Communist attack on an American ship.

The ground war lapsed back into a lull with no further fighting reported in the 10,000-man allied Operation Colorado II in the Mekong delta south of Saigon.

Two of the planes were lost over North Vietnam and the other in South Vietnam, bringing the total number of American warplanes reported lost in combat in the war to 825. This includes 629 over North Vietnam and 196 over the South. One of the losses over the North was an Air Force RF101 reconnaissance Voodoo and the pilot was missing. The other was a carrier-based Navy A4 Skyhawk; its pilot was rescued.

Communist fire brought down an Air Force F100 Supersonic fighter-bomber on a combat support mission over South Vietnam and the pilot was killed.

The U.S. Command also announced that six Vietnamese civilians were killed and 23 wounded by U.S. artillery and air-strike mistakes. In a third such incident, a U.S. Army helicopter accidentally fired on troops of the U.S. 1st Infantry Division 15 miles northeast of Saigon, killing one U.S. soldier and wounding several others.

A military spokesman said Viet positions along the banks of the Long Tau River opened up on the American merchant ship Seatrail Florida 15 miles southeast of Saigon with small arms, automatic weapons and recoilless rifles, but the only damage was two punctured tires on a vehicle the ship was carrying.

Navy river patrol boats, army gunship helicopters and air force fighter-bombers swarmed over the area and killed four Viet Cong, the spokesman said.

The ship is owned by Seatrail Lines Inc. of New York.

Field commanders in the delta operation made estimates of enemy dead ranging from 150 to 350, but the U.S. Command put the figure at 200. The Saigon headquarters also reported 16 Americans killed and 59 wounded so far in the sweep. Unofficial reports from the field said other targets northeast of Hanoi had been killed and 50 wounded. In the air war, U.S. Air Force jets swarmed over the Hanoi region and blasted a North Vietnamese army barracks, a rail siding and the Bac Giang electric power plant, 28 miles northeast of Hanoi.

U.S. Navy planes from the carriers Oriskany and Intrepid attacked a cargo craft along North Vietnam's seacoast and other targets northeast of Hanoi. The carrier force on Yankee Station, in the Gulf of Tonkin, was temporarily reduced to two by the fire on the Forrestal last weekend and the departure of the Bon Homme Richard for normal leave. A replacement carrier, possibly the Constellation, was expected to join the Oriskany and Intrepid soon.

The crossings begin after nightfall when the searing heat of the Jordan Valley subsides and the west bank of the river is curfewed by Israeli army patrols.

Shopkeepers in Amman report that Arab truck drivers pay Israeli soldiers on the west bank 10 dinars—$28—per truck to look the other way while they drive loads of fruit and vegetables across shallow fords in the river for the market in Amman. They pay again when they cross back into occupied territory for another load.

Arab refugees who fled from their homes on the west bank and are now crowded into desert camps around Amman report that many of their friends are crossing back to their homes by night. They pay Arab Palestinians five dinars—$14—per refugee to show them the river crossings and escort them past Israeli patrols.

The slow-flowing green waters of the Jordan are only five yards wide in places. The river is easy to cross and bushes or orchards lining the banks in places provide good cover.

At least five Jordanians have been killed by Israeli troops in the secret nighttime crossings, Jordanian security officials report.

There is no way of estimating the number of trucks or people slipping across the river, but one Western official connected with the refugee camps said: "The traffic seems to be brisk and run driver."

Dear Abby

Don't Needle a Gift Giver

DEAR ABBY: I have a relative (my husband's actually) who has never really liked me, but she puts on a hypocritical show of friendliness whenever we meet, which is often, as we are a clannish family. She recently returned from Europe, bringing me a "gift." A set of 12 needlepoint canvases for my dining room chairs. (Seats and backs, totaling 24 pieces!) I mentioned some time ago that I was looking for some. She said she had hunted all over Europe trying to find exactly what she thought would be perfect for my dining room. Abby, they are an absolute horror! I lied my thanks, saying they were "lovely," but I cannot bear the thought of working them and having to live with them.

I love to do needlepoint, but I don't want these monstrousities in my dining room. How can I get out of making them now? STUCK IN QUEBEC

DEAR STUCK: Put the canvases away for a while. At a later date, if you find something more to your liking, go ahead and work them. After they are finished she may not even notice they aren't hers. If she does, explain that you found something you liked better. (True.) No point in needing her.

DEAR ABBY: My husband died 4 years ago. He was a heavy drinker and habitual gambler, and our children knew their father for what he was. I worked all my married years to give our children the necessities. (I had six—all married now.)

A year ago I married a good man who neither drinks nor gambles. He was divorced and walked out leaving his wife everything, so it was only common sense that he move into my home, which is completely furnished.

One of my daughters is making me miserable. She resents my new husband. She never got along with her father when he was living, but now she says she can't stand to see another man living in her father's house, sleeping in her father's bed, and sitting in her father's chair.

Abby, my new husband treats me better than I've ever been treated in my life, and I think I'm lucky to have him. Why should we go into debt to re-furnish the house so my daughter won't keep making these nasty remarks? I can't take it anymore. What should I do?

MRS. A. DEAR MRS. A.: Tell your daughter that if she can't stand to see another man using the same furniture formerly used by her father, she should spare herself the agony and stay away.

DEAR ABBY: Today is our 38th wedding anniversary. We have two married children and one still at home. I (the Mrs.) have worked most of my married life. Ever since I quit my job 6 years ago my husband has insisted that I prepare a lunch for him at home. He has only an hour for lunch, and there are plenty of good restaurants only a block away from where he works.

Thank God, money is no problem. I have always hated to make these lunches, but I have never complained. Would I strike you as being a selfish or lazy wife if I were to tell my husband he should buy his lunch out?

THE MRS. DEAR MRS.: Since you "hate" the lunch-making routine, and it wouldn't be a hardship for your husband to buy his lunch, go ahead and tell him what's on your mind. If he still insists, then he's selfish.

Troubled? Write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal., 90069. For a personal reply, inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal., 90069, for Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions." (© 1967 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

Horoscope By SYDNEY OMARR

It's In The Stars—

("The wise man controls his destiny . . . astrology points the way.")

FORCAST FOR THURSDAY, AUGUST 3, 1967

ARIES (Mar. 21-Apr. 19): Plans are solidified. Information obtained which gives you sense of direction. Analyze purpose. Don't trade quality for glitter. Message very clear by tonight.

TAURUS (Apr. 20-May 20): You get wish for greater freedom of movement. But tendency exists to scatter forces. Learn where you are going—and why. Probe deep for meaningful answers.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Highlight greater independence of thought, action. Some projects must be completed. Further delay only compounds previous error. Know this as you take steps forward.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Cycle moves up. Circumstances turn in your favor. Day to take initiative. Emphasis on personality, appearance. You receive credit for efforts. Be a graceful winner.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Indirect approach gets best results. Means don't force issues—stress diplomacy. Day to spread influence through subtle means. Cooperate with special groups.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Join forces with those who share views. Be congenial. Some who appreciate you make known their feelings. Obtain hint from CANCER message. Check details. Be sure of facts.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Attend to professional duties. Don't neglect obligations. Temptation to forget promises should be overcome. Today you gain through sincerity, intensity of efforts.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Attention to home, family, domestic conditions advisable today. Vacation travel or planning is especially favored. Look ahead. Take optimistic view. Be diplomatic, considerate.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Money, investments, hidden matters are spotlighted. You receive added, valuable knowledge. Be receptive. Avoid stubborn attitude. Make necessary adjustments.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Practical issues dominate. Get routine tasks out of way early. Be businesslike in dealing with associates. Some may be testing your sense of responsibility. Act accordingly.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): There is room at the top. If you persist the space is reserved for you. Today superiors appear confused. There could be contradictory orders. Remain calm—display sense of humor.

PISCES (Feb. 19-Mar. 20): Lead the way in creative projects, outlets. Break through restrictions. Many of them are artificial blocks. Realize this and respond accordingly. Many are impressed—especially opposite sex.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you have a delightful sense of humor. There is tendency for you to become interested in too many subjects at once. Not unusual for you to read more than one book at a time. Currently you undergo period of adjustment.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Cycle high for CANCER, LEO. Special word to PISCES: new starts, daring actions are favored.

Bridge

Reading a Hand Without Seeing It

By Oswald & James Jacoby
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

East's four-heart bid put a lot of pressure on South but South had the sort of hand that could stand pressure. He simply tried Blackwood to check of races and went to six spades when North showed one ace only.

South knew that he was taking a chance but it was the sort of chance that any bridge player would want to take. When he looked at dummy he wasn't so sure about the whole thing.

He played the jack of hearts from dummy to start with. East probably held both ace and queen but certainly held the ace so that the king play would be hopeless. East did hold both ace and queen and continued the suit after winning the first trick.

South ruffed and led out his ace of spades. When both opponents followed to that trick he stopped to consider the rest of the play.

He needed two club discards on North's diamonds. One way to get them would be to play the ace-king and a third diamond. This play would work if the queen dropped on those three leads. The other line of play would be to take a diamond finesse. That play would work if West held the queen of diamonds. Mathematically, the plays were about equal but South had some bidding to consider. East had bid four hearts and the play indicated that he held eight hearts to his partner's two. Each had followed to one spade so that nine East cards and three West cards had been accounted for.

It appeared most likely that East would be quite short in diamonds. Then South knew a little about East's style. He had bid four hearts without the king or jack and with a loser in spades. It was very likely that he held only one diamond.

This made the odds favor the finesse. South thought awhile longer to work out an alibi if his play went wrong, led a diamond, played dummy's jack and claimed his slam to a chorus of "Well played" from his partner and "lucky stiff" from his opponents.

DEAR ABBY: Today is our 38th wedding anniversary. We have two married children and one still at home. I (the Mrs.) have worked most of my married life. Ever since I quit my job 6 years ago my husband has insisted that I prepare a lunch for him at home. He has only an hour for lunch, and there are plenty of good restaurants only a block away from where he works.

Thank God, money is no problem. I have always hated to make these lunches, but I have never complained. Would I strike you as being a selfish or lazy wife if I were to tell my husband he should buy his lunch out?

THE MRS. DEAR MRS.: Since you "hate" the lunch-making routine, and it wouldn't be a hardship for your husband to buy his lunch, go ahead and tell him what's on your mind. If he still insists, then he's selfish.

Troubled? Write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal., 90069. For a personal reply, inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Horoscope

By SYDNEY OMARR

It's In The Stars—

("The wise man controls his destiny . . . astrology points the way.")

FORCAST FOR THURSDAY, AUGUST 3, 1967

ARIES (Mar. 21-Apr. 19): Plans are solidified. Information obtained which gives you sense of direction. Analyze purpose. Don't trade quality for glitter. Message very clear by tonight.

TAURUS (Apr. 20-May 20): You get wish for greater freedom of movement. But tendency exists to scatter forces. Learn where you are going—and why. Probe deep for meaningful answers.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Highlight greater independence of thought, action. Some projects must be completed. Further delay only compounds previous error. Know this as you take steps forward.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Cycle moves up. Circumstances turn in your favor. Day to take initiative. Emphasis on personality, appearance. You receive credit for efforts. Be a graceful winner.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Indirect approach gets best results. Means don't force issues—stress diplomacy. Day to spread influence through subtle means. Cooperate with special groups.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Join forces with those who share views. Be congenial. Some who appreciate you make known their feelings. Obtain hint from CANCER message. Check details. Be sure of facts.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Attend to professional duties. Don't neglect obligations. Temptation to forget promises should be overcome. Today you gain through sincerity, intensity of efforts.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Attention to home, family, domestic conditions advisable today. Vacation travel or planning is especially favored. Look ahead. Take optimistic view. Be diplomatic, considerate.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Money, investments, hidden matters are spotlighted. You receive added, valuable knowledge. Be receptive. Avoid stubborn attitude. Make necessary adjustments.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Practical issues dominate. Get routine tasks out of way early. Be businesslike in dealing with associates. Some may be testing your sense of responsibility. Act accordingly.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): There is room at the top. If you persist the space is reserved for you. Today superiors appear confused. There could be contradictory orders. Remain calm—display sense of humor.

PISCES (Feb. 19-Mar. 20): Lead the way in creative projects, outlets. Break through restrictions. Many of them are artificial blocks. Realize this and respond accordingly. Many are impressed—especially opposite sex.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you have a delightful sense of humor. There is tendency for you to become interested in too many subjects at once. Not unusual for you to read more than one book at a time. Currently you undergo period of adjustment.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Cycle high for CANCER, LEO. Special word to PISCES: new starts, daring actions are favored.

Bridge

Reading a Hand Without Seeing It

By Oswald & James Jacoby
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

East's four-heart bid put a lot of pressure on South but South had the sort of hand that could stand pressure. He simply tried Blackwood to check of races and went to six spades when North showed one ace only.

South knew that he was taking a chance but it was the sort of chance that any bridge player would want to take. When he looked at dummy he wasn't so sure about the whole thing.

He played the jack of hearts from dummy to start with. East probably held both ace and queen but certainly held the ace so that the king play would be hopeless. East did hold both ace and queen and continued the suit after winning the first trick.

South ruffed and led out his ace of spades. When both opponents followed to that trick he stopped to consider the rest of the play.

He needed two club discards on North's diamonds. One way to get them would be to play the ace-king and a third diamond. This play would work if the queen dropped on those three leads. The other line of play would be to take a diamond finesse. That play would work if West held the queen of diamonds. Mathematically, the plays were about equal but South had some bidding to consider. East had bid four hearts and the play indicated that he held eight hearts to his partner's two. Each had followed to one spade so that nine East cards and three West cards had been accounted for.

It appeared most likely that East would be quite short in diamonds. Then South knew a little about East's style. He had bid four hearts without the king or jack and with a loser in spades. It was very likely that he held only one diamond.

This made the odds favor the finesse. South thought awhile longer to work out an alibi if his play went wrong, led a diamond, played dummy's jack and claimed his slam to a chorus of "Well played!" from his partner and "lucky stuff" from his opponents.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

The Great Exhibition of Industry of All Nations in London was the first world's fair, says The World Almanac. Held in 1851, it featured the new wonders of that age, such as McCormick's reaper, Colt's repeating pistol and chewing tobacco.

Jolly Band Replacing Combat

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Those criminals—a con man, a thief, a bone-tired, dirty, unshaven infantryman of ABC's long running "Combat" who have been crawling through mud and wip- ing out nests of Germans so realistically will march off the network screen at the end of the month. They'll be succeeded by a jolly band of superfighters of the television war wars.

Format Resembles Movie
The new series is called "Garrison's Gorillas," and centers on the exploits of four convicted criminals—a con man, a thief, a killer and a card shark—serving as a sort of special Allied commando group of World War II.

The format resembles the plot of a new film, "The Dirty Dozen," and has some kinship with "Mission: Impossible," and last season's ill-starred "Jericho."

Generally speaking, war stories built around more or less contemporary conflict have not been overwhelmingly successful in television. Even some good shows like "Convoy" and "Wackiest Ship in the Army"—rarely lasted more than one season, although "McHale's Navy," and "Rat Patrol" have done very well.

"Garrison's Gorillas" will be in the currently popular der- ring-do mold and the four "Gorillas" with their commanding officer will play their roles straight. The tongue-in-cheek, camp approach that swept such action shows the past two seasons is now dead.

Ron Harper plays the leader. A tall, good-looking blond Princeton graduate, Harper first came to public notice in "The Precinct" several seasons back, playing a young policeman in a better-than-average action series. It survived but one season. Then followed "Wendy and Me," a sad little situation comedy in which he played Connie Stevens' husband.

This barely staggered through a season. Last year he emerged as Jean Arthur's lawyer-son in a highly touted comedy series that was the season's first casualty.

Concerts Bounced
Tony Curtis, wife and children will be the first family visited with Leonard Bernstein out of prime time into Sunday afternoon spots. But network television's only other regular "good music" show, NBC's Telephone Hour, finally has made the long climb back to an evening hour. CBS next season will bounce "The Young People's Concerts" news specials at 10 p.m. (E.T.)

Judy — Why is the Fourth of July similar to an oyster stew?

Jean — Because it's no good without the crackers.

Our four-year-old pony, Pee-wee, is only 23 inches high. His parents were normal, and Pee-wee originally was not expected to live six weeks — Kathy Nutt, Quincy, Mich.

Mary — My husband is very frank and plain-spoken. He always calls a spade a spade.

Alice — So does mine. But I can't tell you what he sometimes calls his golf clubs.

The man across the street has found a way to make his wife drive more carefully. He told her that if she had an accident, the newspaper would print her age.

Amy — Does he play much golf a day?

Ann — Oh, thirty-six holes, roughly speaking.

Amy — And how many without cursing?

Dr. Parr had a high opinion of his own skill at whist (ancestor of Bridge) and could not even tolerate the want of it in his partner. Being engaged with a party in which he was unequally matched, he was asked by a lady how the fortune of the game turned, when he replied, "Pretty well, madam, considering that I have three adversaries."

Larry — How about the sermon?

Harry — The minister preached on the sinfulness of cheating at bridge.

Larry — You don't say! Did he mention any names?

criminals—a con man, a thief, a killer and a card shark—serving as a sort of special Allied commando group of World War II. The format resembles the plot of a new film, "The Dirty Dozen," and has some kinship with "Mission: Impossible," and last season's ill-starred "Jericho."

Generally speaking, war stories built around more or less contemporary conflict have not been overwhelmingly successful in television. Even some good shows like "Convoy" and "Wackiest Ship in the Army"—rarely lasted more than one season, although "McHale's Navy," and "Rat Patrol" have done very well.

"Garrison's Gorillas" will be in the currently popular deriding-mold and the four "Gorillas" with their commanding officer will play their roles straight. The tongue-in-cheek, camp approach that swept such action shows the past two seasons is now dead.

Ron Harper plays the leader. A tall, good-looking blond Princeton graduate, Harper first came to public notice in "7th Precinct" several seasons back, playing a young policeman in a better-than-average action series. It survived but one season. Then followed "Wendy and Me," a sad little situation comedy in which he played Connie Stevens' husband. This barely staggered through a season. Last year he emerged as Jean Arthur's lawyer-son in a highly touted comedy series that was the season's first casualty.

It will alternate with network the "Young People's Concerts" news specials at 10 p.m. (EDT).

Pocketbooks Could Feel Rail Impact

By GEORGE TAYLOR AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Your pocketbook eventually may feel the impact of the $300-million annual freight rate increase won by the nation's railroads Tuesday.

Groceries, cars and paper products may inch upward in price when the new Interstate Commerce Commission rates become effective.

"The ultimate consumer will feel the squeeze of these increased costs," said one Wall Street analyst.

The Weather

WEDNESDAY, AUG. 2, 1967

Sun rises at 4:49 a. m.; sun sets at 7:15 p. m., E.S.T.

Weather: Sunny, Warm

The Temperature

The lowest temperature recorded on The Freeman thermometer during the night was 58 degrees. The highest figure recorded up to noon today was 79 degrees.

Weather Forecast

SUNNY AND HOT

Lower Hudson Valley: Upper Hudson Valley: Mohawk Valley: Western Catskills: Northeastern New York:

Mostly sunny and warm today after some early morning fog. High temperatures in upper 70s to middle 80s. Fair tonight except some fog in the valleys. Low temperatures in 50s and low 60s. Thursday variable cloudiness warm and becoming more humid with chance of scattered showers and thundershowers in afternoon and at night. High Thursday mostly in 80s. Winds variable and less than 15 today and tonight and southerly 10 to 20 Thursday.

Western New York: East of Lake Ontario: Southern Finger Lakes: Northern Finger Lakes:

Continued warm with intervals of sunshine and increasing clouds today. High temperature in the 80s. Muggy air and showers and thundershowers likely tonight. Low about 65. Variable cloudiness and mild temperature with a chance of a few more showers tomorrow. Southerly winds 10 to 20 becoming southwesterly tonight and tomorrow.

For Period Ending 7 a. m. Thursday

Tonight skies will be generally clear to partly cloudy over most of the nation except for some shower and thundershower activity over the Lower Great Lakes and Kentucky. It will be warmer in portions of Washington State and Oregon. Cooler readings are expected in the Upper Great Lakes, Lower Ohio Valley, Mid and Upper Mississippi Valley and New Mexico. Little temperature change elsewhere. Minimum temperature forecasts include: Atlanta 71; Boston 68; Chicago 63; Cleveland 66; Denver 57; Duluth 50; Ft. Worth 78; Jacksonville 74; Los Angeles 66; Little Rock 72; Miami 75; New York 68; Phoenix 80; San Francisco 55; Seattle 55; St. Louis 70; and Washington 72.

The increase was the railroads' first general rate hike in seven years and came despite administration pleas that such raises be considered "in the light of the national interest in promoting price stability."

The American Paper Institute, representing the paper and wood pulp industry, estimated the new rates would cost its members about $22 million annually.

Olin Mathieson Chemical Corp. said the rates would add about $1 million annually to its $50-million railroad freight bill.

"Rarely are costs of this type absorbed," said an Olin spokesman.

C. F. Fisher, transportation director for the Great Northern Paper Co., said "ultimately they (the increases) have to show up somewhere."

The housewife in the supermarket may feel the pinch also. The new rates "cannot help but have an effect on food prices in the long run," said George W. Koch, president of the Grocery Manufacturers of America, representing 300 food processors.

"Eventually, they will have to be passed on," said the American Institute of Food Distribution.

One Wall Street close to the industry guessed that when the prices of 1968 model cars are announced, some of the rate increase will be reflected.

In Detroit, the Big 3 automakers declined comment. But more than 50 per cent of General Motors products move by rail.

Riot-Threatened Area Insurance Coverage Urged

NEW YORK (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller has directed the State Insurance Department to press insurance companies to maintain fire and theft coverage for merchants in riot-threatened areas.

A spokesman for the governor said Tuesday that Rockefeller acted out of concern that some national insurance companies might be planning to cancel fire and theft coverage in the affected areas.

The governor did not spell out what steps the department should take in dealing with the firms. He does not have the power to force them to provide protection.

He noted, however that if the companies did not accommodate to the situation, the state might reassess the adequacy of voluntary handling of insurance in slum areas.

A department aide said the request was a precautionary measure. He said there was no evidence to date that fire and theft policies in riot areas had been cancelled.

'Blaine' Repeal Move

Clears Big Hurdle

By CHARLES DUMAS ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The drive to repeal the so-called Blaine Amendment, which bars state aid to parochial schools in this state, has cleared its first major hurdle in the Constitutional Convention.

A recommendation for outright repeal of the controversial statute was approved, 16-8, Tuesday by the convention's Committee on the Bill of Rights and Suffrage.

To preserve the principal of separating church and state, Blaine would be replaced indirectly by language similar to the federal constitution's ban on establishing laws "respecting the establishment of religion."

In addition, provision would be made for citizen law suits to restrain government — at any level — from spending public funds for unconstitutional purposes.

The committee's action had been expected on Capitol Hill, since it coincides with the viewpoints of both Democratic and Republican leaders of the Democratic-controlled convention.

It has been assumed also that the full convention will concur in a repeal recommendation.

A showdown vote on the emotionally-charged issue is likely next week.

Roman Catholic interests have been pressing hard for repeal of the restriction, on the ground that it prevents needed assistance to church-operated schools. Some Protestant and Jewish groups have resisted the effort vigorously.

The committee's decision was reported by its chairman, Harlem Democrat Andrew R. Tyler, after a prolonged session behind closed doors at the Capitol.

Tyler said some of the members who voted for repeal said they wanted the issue to be submitted separately to New York voters when the convention's product is brought before the electorate.

He said the committee probably would make a recommendation to that effect in formal reporting the proposal to the full convention.

Convention leaders have not decided yet whether to submit the proposed new Constitution in a single package or to list the various revisions on the election ballot in piecemeal fashion.

Some opponents of repealing Blaine have warned that the electorate might reject the entire new Constitution — because of changing the Blaine restriction—if it is submitted in one unit.

The Blaine Amendment was written into the Constitution in 1894, at a time when Maine's U. S. Sen. James G. Blaine was expousing steps to deter Roman Catholic influence in government.

It prohibits use of public money "directly or indirectly" in support of any school or institution of learning "wholly or in part under the control or the direction of any religious denomination."

Before voting for repeal, Tyler said, the committee rejected, 12-8, with several abstentions, an amendment that would have expressly authorized the Legislature to provide meals and health services for parochial school students.

The Constitution now permits use of public funds to provide bus transportation. The state's highest court also has upheld a recent law that requires public school districts to furnish textbooks to parochial school children.

Tyler observed that the committee voted last week to strengthen the Constitution's religious liberty section by writing in language similar to the federal charter's famous "no establishment" clause.

This would specify that "the Legislature shall make no law respecting establishment of religion or prohibiting the free exercise thereof."

Students of constitutional law say this would be sufficient to preserve separation of church and state.

As an extra safeguard, the committee agreed that any citizen should be allowed to go into court to seek an order restraining unconstitutional acts by government. At present, a citizen may sue only if he can show that he personally is aggrieved.

In response to questions, Tyler and the committee's Republican vice chairman, Bernard Burton of Patchogue, said the vote for repeal of Blaine crossed party lines. They would not identify the individual voters.

In pioneer days, stagecoach lines often put their vehicles on sleds instead of wheels in winter.

Tyler said some of the members who voted for repeal said they wanted the issue to be submitted separately to New York voters when the convention's product is brought before the electorate.

He said the committee probably would make a recommendation to that effect in formal reporting the proposal to the full convention.

Convention leaders have not decided yet whether to submit the proposed new Constitution in a single package or to list the various revisions on the election ballot in piecemeal fashion.

Some opponents of repealing Blaine have warned that the electorate might reject the entire new Constitution — because of changing the Blaine restriction — if it is submitted in one unit.

The Blaine Amendment was written into the Constitution in 1894, at a time when Maine's U.S. Sen. James G. Blaine was espousing steps to deter Roman Catholic influence in government.

It prohibits use of public money "directly or indirectly" in support of any school or institution of learning "wholly or in part under the control or the direction of any religious denomination."

Before voting for repeal, Tyler said, the committee rejected, 12-8, with several abstentions, an amendment that would have expressly authorized the Legislature to provide meals and health services for parochial school students.

The committee's decision was reported by its chairman, Harlem Democrat Andrew R. Tyler, after a prolonged session behind closed doors at the Capitol.

Before voting for repeal, Tyler said, the committee rejected, 12-8, with several abstentions, an amendment that would have expressly authorized the Legislature to provide meals and health services for parochial school students.

The Constitution now permits use of public funds to provide bus transportation. The state's highest court also has upheld a recent law that requires public school districts to furnish textbooks to parochial school children.

Tyler observed that the committee voted last week to strengthen the Constitution's religious liberty section by writing in language similar to the federal charter's famous "no establishment" clause.

This would specify that "the Legislature shall make no law respecting establishment of religion or prohibiting the free exercise thereof."

Students of constitutional law say this would be sufficient to preserve separation of church and state.

As an extra safeguard, the committee agreed that any citizen should be allowed to go into court to seek an order restraining unconstitutional acts by government. At present, a citizen may sue only if he can show that he personally is aggrieved.

In response to questions, Tyler and the committee's Republican vice chairman, Bernard Burton of Patchogue, said the vote for repeal of Blaine crossed party lines. They would not identify the individual votes.

In pioneer days, stagecoach lines often put their vehicles on sleds instead of wheels in winter.
